AS one reads the advertisements of Mr. Thomas W. Lawson in the morning papers, he cannot help remarking upon the opportunity that gentleman has missed. During the period of rising prices in 1904-5 he was persistently acting on the bear side of the market, and in spite of certain temporary successes, his campaign was, as everybody knows, a failure. At one time it looked as if he would either be cleaned out or else reduced to insignificance as a factor in stock market speculation; and such would probably have been the case had not the San Francisco earthquake offered him a chance to get out with a comparatively small loss. Then after a period of quiescence he emerged as a bull, at least upon the stock of one copper mining company. Again, however, his campaign was ill-timed. After a preliminary success, he failed in his endeavor to raise the price of Trinity, both for general and special reasons. Copper stocks, no matter how good, could not well be advanced when the price of the metal was declining, when there was fear of a reaction in business and when a general break in prices of securities was impending. The general break came last March; and inasmuch as it had to come, the failure on Mr. Lawson's part to foresee it will probably prove, in the end, to be the great mistake of his career in speculation. If he had been operating on the bear side of the market at that moment and advising his following to do the same, one can imagine what a good time he would have had, and with what a flourish of trumpets he would have sat on the back of the prostrate "system." He could then, of course, claimed responsibility for one of the sharpest breaks in prices which Wall Street has ever experienced, and he could have enormously increased, not merely his own resources, but his prestige as a popular leader in Wall Street speculation. But he missed his opportunity, and the attempts which he has since been making to advance prices have not added to his reputation as a man who claims to "know the Wall Street game." Twice prices have been advanced a few points only to fall back subsequently to new low levels. At the present time he is undoubtedly right in advising everybody, who can afford it, to buy all the good railroad stocks which they can afford to without borrowing money; but his advice is still ill-timed. Good stocks are cheap, but the time has not yet come to make them much dearer. If savings bank depositors were to follow his advice, and invest even $500,000,000 in securities, their action would precipitate one of the worst financial crisis which this country has ever witnessed.

FOR the owner of securities, or the speculator therein, to allow himself to be over-influenced by the prevailing state of feeling in Wall Street is always dangerous, but it appears to be particularly dangerous at the present time. The current stock market is under the influence of two sets of conditions putting in opposite directions, and the result is not a state of equilibrium, but an apparently inevitable see-saw. On the one hand the best railroad stocks in the country are selling at prices so low as to discount even a period of very bad times. On the other hand the capital which would ordinarily rush to buy stocks at the prevailing prices is so engaged that there is no apparent possibility of a sustained movement on the bull side. When prices get down below a certain level the opportunities for profit creates a demand for stocks, which soon sends them back five or ten points; but after they have made their recovery, the desire to fake profits coupled with the diminution of demand at the higher level, not only checks the upward trend of prices, but usually throws the market back to a new low record. Three times since the March panic have securities been advanced anywhere from five to fifteen points, and three times has all the gain and more been lost. On the occasion of every advance the movement was checked, not only by the sale of many stocks bought at lower prices, but by news which indicated a business reaction or business difficulties of one kind or another. Recently the market has been easily advanced on comparatively small purchases of securities, but a prudent man should recognize that this movement is not likely to fare much better than its predecessors. It is probable that the course of prices during the winter and spring will be on the whole upward; but during all this time the market will have to meet and overcome a good deal of bad news. There will be more failures than those which have been yet announced, and perhaps more important ones. The steel and certain other manufacturing businesses may well become less prosperous before they become more so. How much bad news will be disclosed, no man can tell, but there are undoubtedly weaknesses in the situation which will surely come to light. Many manufacturers have been tempted by good times to enlarge their business too much or borrowed capital, and some of these must go to the wall. It remains, consequently, a good market in which to take profits, either on one side or the other, and it is a far better market in which to purchase securities outright than it is to carry them on a margin.

THE heads of departments of the city government are making their customary absurd demands upon the Board of Estimate—demands which, if they were granted, would increase the municipal expenditure by over $30,000,000. Of course the Board of Estimate will refuse them; but that body will none the less be obliged to increase the budget by some $8,000,000 or $10,000,000, most of which will be the result of mandatory legislation on the part of the Legislature. There seems to be no chance under existing conditions of reducing this annual increase, and inasmuch as the business of such a city as New York is necessarily increasing, no objection can be urged to this rate of increase on general grounds. What taxpayers would like to learn, however, is why these increases are never mitigated by some effective measures of economy. The only object of the various heads of departments is to secure for the Board of Estimate as much money as possible to spend. We are not familiar with a single case under any kind of administration of a departmental chief who sought to reorganize his department for the purpose of getting more work for the same amount of money; and yet it stands to reason that reorganizations of this kind are as constantly necessary in public as in private offices. Just what this waste amounts to cannot be said, but it unquestionably amounts to a good deal. It is to be hoped that the Bureau of Municipal Research will gradually be able to throw a flood of light on this aspect of our municipal administration. There are most assuredly means of discovering the amount of waste per unit of work accomplished in the various city offices, and some standard should be established to which departmental chiefs should be obliged, under severe penalties, to conform.

THE probability that a new theatre will be built on Long Acre Square calls attention to the fact that the theatres of Manhattan are becoming more than ever concentrated around one centre. The line of Broadway from Thirty-ninth to Forty-sixth streets contains a larger proportion of the existing places of amusement than did any similar district ten or fifteen or twenty-five years ago. A few theatres linger along south of Thirty-fourth street, such as Daly's and Wallack's, but it looks as if during the next few years they must meet the same fate as the Princess. In the course of time Columbus Circle and the district to the south will become as popular as Long Acre Square is at present, but its popularity is still a decade away. Just now the vicinity of Forty-second street and Broadway is the only neighborhood in which a professional manager would erect a theatre, intended for expensive productions and long runs, and this condition is likely to endure for some time. The fact that the subway turns east at Forty-second street and Broadway undoubtedly has something to do with the concentration of playhouses in that vicinity. The subway taps a larger proportion of the theatre-going population than any other single transit line, and places of amusement south of Forty-second street suffer from the inability of subway passengers to reach them with celerity and convenience. The old theatre district between Thirtieth and Fortieth streets would have held its own for a much longer period, in case the subway had continued down Broadway instead of turning east; and the early construction of the proposed southerly extension down Seventh avenue would do something at all events to keep the vicinity of Thirty-fourth street and Broadway alive for amusement purposes. It should be added that the completion of the Pennsylvania and the trolley terminals may tend to have a similar effect. There can be no doubt that these improvements will make it much easier for the residents of Long Island and New Jersey to attend the Manhattan theatres. At the present time they can only do so at the expense of very late hours; but after the transit improvements have been completed, it should be possible for them to reach their homes within an hour after the end of the performance. They will naturally prefer, however, theatres which are near their stations, for they would lose ten or fifteen minutes by the journey from Long Acre Square to Thirty-third street and Sixth and Seventh avenues. Just what influence this new condition may have cannot be predicted with any confidence, but it is the one chance which may lead to the perpetuation of the vicinity of Greeley Square as an important center of the amusement district.

Land and Improvement Values.

MR. J. H. EHREHART, an engineer in the employ of State Board of Equalization, has submitted to that board a comparative statement, of which the following paragraphs are a part, of land and improvement values for the Borough of Manhattan, for the year 1906, purporting to show the percentage of the true value at which property was assessed:

"During the year 1905 there were 1,426 sales of real estate in the Borough of Manhattan in which the consideration expressed in the deed was other than nominal. After deducting parcels merged, those showing improvements and parcels purchased at foreclosure, 1,169 parcels are left, having a sales value of $48,592,440, which property was assessed in 1906 at $41,143,400, or 84.7% of sales value.

"During the year 1906 there were in the Borough of Manhattan 1,232 sales of real estate in which the consideration expressed in the deed was other than nominal. After deducting the merged parcels and those under which improvements were in progress and foreclosure sales, 1,087 parcels are left. The sales price was $59,249,750. The assessed valuation for 1906 was $45,022,800, or 75.9% of sales value.

"According to the Record and Guide of July 6, 1907, the total number of parcels sold during the year 1907 to July 3 with consideration expressed in the deed was 538. The amount involved in these transfers was $28,693.203. The assessed value was $18,-847,600, or about 66% of the sales value. This represents one year and six months of increased values of lands and the ordinary improvement which would be attached to such lands, but, on the other hand, it includes the foreclosure sales. But if 10% should be deducted from the sales value, the assessed percentage would still be only slightly above 70%.

"Investigation into real estate mortgages, as made by the reputable life insurance companies, trust companies and savings banks, shows a great many mortgages approaching closely the assessed values, while these mortgages are not supposed to represent to exceed 60 to 70% of value, and experts employed to value properties for mortgages of this character, who naturally will give a full value to desirable properties, assume such properties to be assessed at about 80% of true value.

"In addition to the practically uniform showing of the sales for the different years, of a valuation of from 80 to 84% of true value, when allowance is made for real estate not active in the market, there are certain sections of the city which are much lower in their ratio of assessment value to sales value than others. The whole water front district, from 14th st to 45th st, lying west of 10th av, comes under this description."

Doubtless Mr. Ehrehart is making a careful study, but we cannot believe that his conclusions are justified by the facts alleged.

In the first place, the standard fixed by law for the assessment of real estate is the sum for which such real estate will sell under ORDINARY CIRCUMSTANCES. Actual sales are not conclusive proof of the sum for which the property would sell under ordinary circumstances. Such sales are generally the best evidence, but the evidence must be investigated in each case. Generally, sales represent the sum obtained as a result of the effort of skillful brokers, and the sale price is higher than would be obtained under ordinary circumstances. Sales of real estate generally represent such real estate as is more readily salable than the majority of the parcels not sold. Assuming a uniform assessment, the percentage of assessed value to market value of all parcels must be higher than that disclosed by the record of sales of such parcels as were actually sold.

Second. Mr. Ehrehart makes three comparisons of the assessed value for 1906. He compares with the sales of 1905-6 and 7. Inasmuch as, from the nature of the case, assessments must follow the evidence and cannot precede it, the only comparison which is fair is, with the sales of 1905, which show that the assessed value was 84 7/10% of the consideration of such sales. Bearing in mind the statement heretofore made that sales' prices are inevitably higher than the market value of the property actually sold and of all properties unsold, it is fair to say that the assessed value of 1906 was over 90% of the market value.

Third. While mortgages made by institutions limited by law to loans not exceeding 60% of the value of property are evidence of value, it is generally known that appraisers for such institutions are usually liberal in appraisements.

Fourth. Mr. Ehrehart contends that buildings including special fittings of such buildings for peculiar purposes, such as banking, are under assessed, and he cites the Drexel Building, corner of Broad and Wall streets as an example. If this example is fair the argument fails, for it is perfectly obvious that the Drexel Building if sold would be replaced at once with a modern office building. Therefore, the building itself has a value for assessment purposes not exceeding two or three years' rental, and the special fittings for banking purposes, no matter how costly, add nothing to the selling value of the building.

Responsibility of Contractors.

The rejection by the Board of Water Supply of the lowest bid for constructing the Ashokan dam has made a good impression in building and contracting lines, as it is felt that with this approved example before the country contractors will have surer ground for their expectation of being dealt with justly. There are occasions when a bidder, having made a mistake, should not be held to his bargain and subjected to a crushing loss, though it is not unusual for builders and contractors of standing to proceed with a work in an honorable manner, even at a heavy loss to themselves, and carry out their engagement in every particular. Knowing this to be so, few contractors will assent to a certain line of argument which has been employed to support the action of the Water Board, though the decision itself may, in their opinion, be amply justified on other grounds. As an example of a doubtful line of argument, some remarks in the "Engineering Record" are cited:

No person experienced in the execution of contracts for the public works of this city can suppose for a moment that that imperative condition would even be approximately fulfilled by any contractor losing money in doing it. No matter how responsible he may be, the work would lag and lag seriously when its prosecution incurs a loss. Further than this, experience has shown with equal certainty that a losing contractor will use every means within his power to recoup such losses. Every contract furnishes opportunities for such efforts, and the larger the contract and the more powerful the contractor, the more those efforts will be made, and the greater will be the success attending them. The final results, therefore, would be a greatly delayed completion of the work with costs so greatly increased over the contract price as easily to overcome the difference between the original bid and that next above it. At the present time heavy judgments against the city have been secured by contractors under precisely the conditions outlined above, and this case would certainly be added to those by any contractor doing the Ashokan work at a loss.

While taking exception to this estimate of the probity of contractors for public works, many will yet agree with the "Engineering Record" in its conclusion that the Board of Water Supply could not have rendered a better service to the city or more wisely have discharged its responsibilities than by awarding the contract for the Ashokan dam at a price which, with good management, will yield a fair profit.

THE REALM OF BUILDING.

New Freight Rate on Brick.

WHILE no definite decision regarding the proposed advance in freight rate on both face and paving brick has as yet been reached, the probabilities are that the contractors who are called upon to figure work on which deliveries are to be made after January 1 will have to contend with an advance of from $1.50 to $3.00 per M. brick, dependable, of course, upon the weight of the brick and the distance from the shipping-point.

The decision handed down on June 24 by the Interstate Commerce Commission, to the effect that freight rates on fire brick, building brick and paving brick must be equalized, was the result of a suit brought against the Pennsylvania Railroad et al by the Stowe-Fuller Co., of Cleveland, Ohio, who are large manufacturers of fire brick. This suit, or rather hearing, was decided in favor of the Stowe-Fuller Co., but it afterward appeared that a number of face brick and paving brick men would lose large amounts of money if the rates were changed at once, and, having brought pressure to bear upon the Stowe-Fuller Co., they succeeded in making that corporation join with the Pennsylvania Railroad in requesting that the provision of the finding of the Interstate Commerce Commission, providing for an immediate adjustment of all rates by September 1, be postponed until January 1 next.

It may be that before the first of the year the face brick interests, joined to the very strong association of paving brick manufacturers, will succeed in successfully arguing an appeal from the decision that has caused all the trouble. It appears, however, that a few concerns in central Ohio, who manufacture face and building (common) brick from fire-clay, in addition to their regular output of fire brick, have been compelled to pay fire brick freight rates on material that was properly subject to the lower rate. It was, of course, very difficult for any one but an expert to tell which was fire brick, to be used as such, and which was fire-clay face brick, and, as is usual in such cases, the railroad, rather than err in giving a low rate on casual shipments of fire brick, applied the fire brick rate on shipments of all classes of brick from plants manufacturing fire brick.

This little difference between two almost identical things, which was entirely local, and in a very small section, will cost the Eastern States from $750,000 to $1,000,000 a year until the establishment of new nearby face and paving brick plants or the enlargement of those already existing, make the New York and New England markets independent of western Pennsylvania and central Ohio, so far as clay products are concerned.

The Lime Trade.

Lime, which has been used from time immemorial for building purposes, would not appear to be a very interesting subject, but the writer, in a talk with Mr. Orin F. Perry, the manager of the Rockland-Rockport Lime Company, learned much that was instructive and practically new to those who use this indispensable material. Mr. Perry, at the New York offices of the company, in the Fuller Building, New York, said that business during the month of August had been the largest this year, so far, and equal to the same month last year, and that the outlook for the rest of the season was excellent.

"We are finishing up," continued Mr. Perry, "an extra amount of plastering, though brick work is a little slack. We are now furnishing lime for the Singer Building, the New York Custom House, the new Post Office at the Grand Central Station, the new Hoffman House, the big Astor apartment (79th street and Broadway), the Bellevue Hospital extension, and other important buildings and structures. So you see that we are busy; but—and there is a but—collections are poor, owing to financial conditions. Building in some sections is decidedly overdone, and with money stringency the builder holds up the material dealer, and the material dealer holds up the manufacturer, and so on—they are all interdependent."

In reply to an inquiry as to the various qualities of lime, Mr. Perry said: "We claim that ours is excelled by none. It is, in short, the best. Not only is it economical, but more work can be accomplished with it, as it has great spreading properties and saving labor. It produces a strong, hard and white finish; it does not shrink in stiffening, and it requires less plaster and troweling. From foundation to finishing its excellent quality compels attention. We make no apology in speaking thus of our material, because most of what is used in the buildings in Greater New York is our material."

"It may be of interest to learn," Mr. Perry went on to say, "that lime is now sold in a different way from what it used to be, so far as weight of the barrel is concerned, and this reform has been largely brought about by our company. Formerly a barrel of lime was a barrel of lime containing about 160 pounds, more or less. Under the new arrangement a barrel of finishing lime weighs two hundred pounds gross; for common lime, 220 pounds gross; 320 pounds for special common lime; and 350 pounds gross for the selected lime. Sometimes unprincipled dealers get hold of our empty barrels and fill them with inferior material, which of course is calculated to do us harm; but the merits of our product are so well known that we do not suffer, and frauds are quickly discovered. Lime comes from West Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Connecticut, New York and Massachusetts; but seventy per cent. comes from Maine. There we have sixty kilns, and we employ six hundred men. Our lime brings the highest price, and there are few or no fluctuations since last year, there being little necessity for them, owing to the steady demand.

"There have been also changes and improvements in transportation. The old-fashioned way was for a schooner to come to New York loaded with lime, and then to peddle it out with its own lighters. There are no longer such methods. No sailing vessels are now employed by us. All the lime comes in steel barges, towed by a tugboat, both in summer and winter. The capacity of each tow is seventeen thousand barrels."

Incidentally, Mr. Perry said that in the West Street Building, of which Cass Gilbert is the architect, and the John Pierce Company builders, five thousand barrels of Rockland-Rockport lime were used.

The Cement Industry.

The production of cement in 1906 amounted to the enormous total of 51,000,445 barrels, valued at $55,302,277, exceeding by 10,897,137 barrels in quantity and $19,370,744 in value the production of 1905, which had been the banner year. Classified according to character the production was as follows:

| | Barrels. | Value. |
| Portland cement | 46,463,422 | $52,466,186 |
| Natural cement | 4,055,797 | 2,423,170 |
| Puzzolan cement | 481,224 | 412,921 |

These figures are reported by the United States Geological Survey in an advance chapter from "Mineral Resources of the United States, Calendar Year 1906," and are somewhat greater than those given in the preliminary statistics of production issued by the Survey early in the year, the difference being due to the fact that some of the returns were received too late for use in the first statement.

The most prosperous branch of the industry is, as may be supposed, the Portland cement branch, whose growth has been of the most phenomenal character. Twenty years ago, when the Portland cement output of the entire United States stood at about 250,000 barrels against nearly 7,000,000 barrels of natural cement, the first attempt was made to introduce the rotary kiln for the manufacture of Portland, the company exploiting the new process, proudly claiming the ability to produce 30,000 barrels of cement per annum, and to triple this quantity as soon as the necessary grinding machinery should be added. To-day it is not considered in the least sensational if a company announces the capacity of its plant at 3,000 to 5,000 barrels a day, while the yearly production of the large plants runs well into the millions of barrels.

The decline of the natural cement industry has been gradual, but as steady as the increase of the Portland branch. In 1906 the effect of this decline has seemed to be even more widespread than in the preceding year. The owners of many plants have allowed them to remain idle, some have turned their attention to lime-burning and kindred employments, and a few have dismantled the old plants and established buildings and machinery for making Portland cement. Since some of the limestone, known as "cement rock," from which the natural cement is made forms an equally good base for Portland cement, the last course would seem to be both logical and wise.

The growth of the slag or puzzolan branch of the cement industry is interesting because of its steadiness. The advantage of the industry is that it consumes a product of steel and iron foundries which has for years been troublesome to dispose of and has been regarded as waste. This variety of cement is not burned in rotary kilns and should not be confused with Portland cement made with slag as a basis and burned in rotaries.

Although the prices at which cement was sold in 1906 were higher than those which prevailed in 1905, they were not inflated, but resulted from a normal growth in demand. The producers made no complaint of prices, but protests against the insufficient car service provided for the delivery of orders were made from every part of the United States.

That the quantity of cement exported by the United States to foreign countries is not so large as it should be is probably due to the great home demand, but with continued increase in production the foreign trade cannot be long neglected.

The New Elevator Apartment House of the 64th St. Company.

We reproduce herewith the architect's color drawing of the new ten-story apartment house which is in course of erection at the southeast corner of Madison Avenue and Sixty-fourth Street for the Sixty-fourth Street Company. It is situated on a plot of approximately one hundred feet on the street by one hundred and thirty-two on the avenue. Its cost was given at $800,000 in a previous issue of the Record and Guide, in which was also recorded a loan of $750,000 by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. These figures would place the cost of the structure at the rate of about fifty cents per cubic foot, which, even at the increased cost of building construction, may be expected in the case of a modern, well-constructed elevator apartment building of this type.

The architect's drawing shows it as a massive structure, composed in three horizontal layers of three stories each, reposing on a rusticated basement story in which the large entrance on the Madison facade is the most conspicuous feature. The style of the architecture employed is a modern Renaissance, with the alternate pairs of vertical rows of windows treated through two and three stories under a semi-circular discharging arch, after the manner of some of the Venetian palaces. This device of embracing two bays of windows under a single arch tends to give to what would otherwise be a commonplace composition an air of largeness and distinction, and the architect is to be commended for his choice. The wall space within these arches is enriched with terra cotta ornament in panels, shields and other forms. The cornice is designed to be in proportion not to the upper division, as is so often the case, but rather to the whole building. It is accordingly large and very far projecting, and deserving of execution in permanent material.

The American Bridge Company has the contract for the steel work; Richard W. Buckley, Jr., of the Buckley Realty & Construction Co., represents the building company; and William E. Mowbray, of 624 Madison Avenue, prepared the plans. Officers are: Victor V. Kranich, president; Arthur G. Kranich, treasurer; and Joseph P. Bickerton, secretary. The site was previously owned and covered by the Baptist Church of the Epiphany.

Points on the Material Market.

Hemlock is ruling firm at its present base, and there seems to be sufficient business to hold the market steady.

Among building contracts pending is the proposed opera house on West End av, New York, between 62d and 63d sts, requring 2,500 tons of steel.

Germany sent us 21,623,118 lbs. (pounds, not barrels) of cement in July of this year, as against 15,461,293 lbs. in the corresponding month last year.

A decrease of 240,000,000 feet in white pine production is estimated by the Northern Pine Manufacturers' Association, in this year's supply over last year's.

Portland cement still runs an even course and still holds out attractive opportunities for its employment. Reasonable in price and in large supply, builders and public-works contractors have nothing against Cement this season.

Among recent large contracts secured by Mr. C. J. Henderson, New York sales agent for the Harbison-Walker Refractories Co., No. 1132 Broadway, is that for 1,500,000 grey front brick to be used in the new Pennsylvania Terminal.

The Maryland Steel Company was the low bidder, at $1,543,960, on the construction work for Piers 60, 61 and 62 of the Chelsea improvement in North River, and the necessary 11,000 tons of steel will be furnished by the Pennsylvania Steel Company.

In the White Pine situation the present prices of lumber at the saw would certainly seem to indicate an increase in the wholesale price. It is, of course, realized that the consumers try to avoid White Pine, so far as possible, on account of prices, but only enough succeed in so doing to keep pace with the constantly decreasing supplies, so that present prices are steady.

The structural steel mills are reported by the Iron Age to be in about the same condition as to deliveries as for the past two months, with no signs of immediate slackening. New business offered the fabricating companies is in smaller volume, however, and mill schedules must in time feel the effect of the money scarcity, which is credited with the falling off in building activity from last year's record.

Plans and specifications were issued by the New York Central for a new suburban station and subway shed to be erected at 43d and 45th sts and Depew pl. The new structure will require a large tonnage of structural steel, and is in connection with the recent electrification of the tunnel service. There is not a great amount of structural work in sight in this city, the only other job of moment being the approach to the Blackwell's Island Bridge, bids on which were opened on Thursday, as noted elsewhere. The amount of steel involved is 5,000 tons.

Another smash in Hudson River brick prices has brought the market to the lowest level of the season. Though there is a fair and steady requirement, amounting last week to 86 barges sold, the consumers have secured the upper hand in the market. Nineteen boats went out on Wednesday, to indicate that there is a large amount of brick building, so that manufacturers must explain the situation for themselves as best they can, without disparaging the demand. There was a surplus of thirty-two boats to start with, and doubtless in oversupply lies the secret of the matter. Large as the outgo is, it is not proportionate to the quantity which favorable weather and enlarged works have enabled the manufacturers to produce this season. Quotations this week ranged only from $5.75 to $6.50 per M by the cargo to dealers, a level so low that the agents are suspecting the dealers of more than ordinary efforts to bear the market.

Proof Against Rust.

An option on the American rights to a patent process called "sheradizing," which it is asserted makes iron and steel rust proof, and has been used successfully in England for a little time, has been sold to a firm in New York.

It is claimed for this process that it coats iron and steel with zinc as well or as better than ordinary wet galvanizing, and that the iron and steel thus coated can be brilliantly polished. In the process zinc dust is placed in a cylinder which has been brought to a temperature of 400° to 500° F.; that is, below the melting point of zinc. The articles it is desired to "sheradize" are put into the cylinder, which is then revolved. The zinc in this process is not actually melted, but forms an alloy through the surface of the articles absorbing the zinc, and then a coating covering the whole visible surface is deposited to any desirable thickness. Articles thus treated are said to have an even and adherent coating which wears excellently and does not strip, and that by the use of a lime mop are easily polished. It had been found that the use of the wet galvanizing process upon articles on which threads are cut made it necessary afterwards to recut the threads. This, it is claimed, is obviated in the new process, thus avoiding both the additional work of recutting the threads and also making the threads themselves rust proof. Another advantage claimed is that because articles are not heated to a high temperature the temper of the steel is little affected, while its tensile strength and that of iron remains the same. The owners of the process assert that it will obviate the necessity of using brass in the manufacture of many articles that may rust, an important development in view of the high cost of brass. Aluminum and antimony can be substituted, it is said, for zinc, with success, while when copper and its alloys are subjected to this process their surface is so hardened as to even turn the edge of a steel tool.

Cantilever Bridge Failure.

Engineers and bridge builders are waiting for the last word upon the cause of the failure of the Quebec Bridge. Light is breaking in, but there is much to be explained. Mr. Leon S. Moisseiff, of the Department of Bridges of this city, has been asked by the U. S. government to make an investigation for the information of the Washington authorities. Mr. Moisseiff has been very instrumental in the construction of the Blackwell's Island Bridge, which is a cantilever like the Quebec bridge.

In engineering circles the failure is especially regretted because of a possible feeling of prejudice which it may have given rise to in the public mind, but it is a typical case for suspending judgment until certainties affecting the cause are disclosed. Thus the "Engineering News" conclusions at this time are:

"Until the cause is absolutely determined—if indeed, it can ever be—or until the profession has actual results of tests of huge columns at its command, a cloud of doubt rests upon us as to the margin of safety in every great bridge structure; at any rate, when the unit stresses are forced up to the point deemed safe by the designers of this bridge.

"Long and careful inspection of the wreck shows that the material was of excellent quality; that the workmanship was remarkably good. The end connections of the compression members were remarkably massive and well wrought together. The doubt all centres around the design of those enormous long columns of which the lower chord and the vertical posts were made up. Did one of them fail under a load only one-half the elastic limit of the material in it? That is the question which must, for the present, at least, be left unanswered."

Reclamation of the Jersey Meadows.

Dredging operations recently have been begun under the direction of the United States War Department, which, when completed, will afford a waterway through which vessels of deep draft can reach Newark, N. J., by way of the Kill von Kull, Newark Bay, and the Passaic River. The spoil will be delivered to suction dredges and pumped in pipe lines onto the adjacent meadows in connection with their reclamation. The project for the reclamation of about 4,000 acres of the Newark, Hackensack and Elizabeth meadows has been taken up by the United States Department of Agriculture, and a preliminary survey party is now in the field. The work of the War Department is under the general direction of Col. Daniel W. Lockwood, Corps of Engineers, U. S. A.

New Catalogues.

CONCRETE COTTAGES.—This work is a partial reproduction of the competitive designs submitted for the "Concrete House Competition," of the Association of the American Portland Cement Manufacturers, Philadelphia, Pa.; and as the popular fancy for concrete houses is now growing rapidly, the collection of plates is a valuable and timely one. Floor plans and specifications are given with the general designs, and appended are comments of the committee which awarded the prizes. It will be recalled that one of the first prizes in the competition was awarded to Eugene Ward of 11 East 24th st, Manhattan. The committee said of this design, that it is "most admirable, having a distinct, individual charm in both plan and elevation. This applies particularly to the arrangement of the entrance, stairs and living room. The use of a single chimney is economical, and is also the simple outline of the exterior walls, the recessed panels of which can be readily formed in monolithic construction by boards nailed to the inside of the forms. The drawings are exquisitely rendered. The specifications designate rough cast finish for the exterior walls. This is a questionable surface treatment for concrete, as plaster of any thickness is likely to peel from dampness and frost. However, the surface treatment might be readily modified."

Copies of the booklet can be obtained from the Atlas Portland Cement Co., 30 Broad st.

A spring lock joint for steel sheet piles is the subject of a booklet issued by the Ransome Concrete Machinery Co. The joint consists of two steel springs, riveted to the piles, which engage each other concentrically, forming a tight and rigid connection. The applications of the joint to piles made of plain flat plates, and to reinforced, channel, segmental, corrugated and corner piles are shown. Temporary reinforcement for driving very thin piles or driving in hard ground, consisting of channels fastened to the pile by removable bolts, clamps and a driving shoe, is also shown.

A new catalogue of the General Fireproofing Co., Youngstown, O., describes and illustrates in detail the pin-connected girder frame for reinforcing concrete, and contains half-tone cuts of work in which the company's system is used. The construction of the girder frame and of the materials used in its are described at considerable length, so as to make clear the points claimed for it. Detail drawings of typical centering for concrete building construction, and descriptions of other concrete reinforcement, such as lug bars, expanded metal, and steel studding, occupy the back part of the book.

—The U. S. Forest Service has issued a publication entitled "The Strength of Wood as Influenced by Moisture," in which are shown the strength of representative woods in all the degrees of moisture from the green state to absolute dryness, and the effects of resoaking. This publication will be sent free upon application to the Forest Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C.

BUILDING NOTES

John Reinhardt, cashier of the Wm. H. Jackson Co., 29 East 17th st, has returned from a two weeks' vacation spent in Eastern Pennsylvania.

From advices at hand everything points to a large attendance of delegates and members from a majority of the States at the approaching annual convention of the Concatenated Order of Hoo-Hoo (lumber merchants) at Atlantic City, Sept. 8 to 12, at which time the State delegates will be the guests of the members of the Eastern jurisdictions.

The use of concrete piling is being specified more and more commonly in the erection of structures in and about New York. A recent example is the branch of the Carnegie Library, now in process of construction at 742 Tenth av, where the product of the Raymond Concrete Pile Co., of 71 Nassau st, is being used. The architects are Messrs. Babb, Cook & Willard.

The Trust Company of America will open its new offices, at 37-43 Wall Street, on Monday, Sept. 16, discontinuing its present main office at 135 Broadway, and its branch office at 36 Wall, but will continue as heretofore its Colonial Branch at 222 Broadway, formerly the Colonial Trust Company. The new 25-sty building is situated on the site formerly occupied by Redmond & Company, and also takes in the adjoining property. The Trust Company will occupy the entire main floor, on which will be the banking and directors' rooms, and it will have the mezzanine floor as well as the basement, where they have extensive safety deposit vaults. The list of directors includes many men well known in banking, railroad and real estate circles, notably Messrs. Oakley Thorne, President; J. E. Boone, Chairman Executive Committee; H. B. Forda, Treasurer; F. L. Hilton, Secretary; William H. Chesbrough, Charles T. Barney, E. C. Potter and Cord Meyer.

The Production of Gypsum.

The gypsum mined in the United States in 1906 amounted to 1,540,585 short tons, valued at $1,147,129. This production represents an increase in quantity of more than 47 per cent. and in value of nearly 40 per cent. as compared with that of 1905, and exceeds that of any previous year.

The material is produced in 17 States and Territories, besides Alaska, and in connection with the mining, mills for grinding and burning it are operated at nearly all the places of production. As to relative rank among the States producing gypsum, Michigan still holds first place, New York regains second place, and Iowa is a close third. The other States show few changes since 1905, their present rank being as follows: Texas, Ohio, Oklahoma, Kansas, California, Wyoming, Virginia, Nevada, Oregon, Utah, New Mexico, Colorado, South Dakota, Alaska, and Montana.

Gypsum occurs in sedimentary rocks of practically all ages, either in the crystalline form or as rock gypsum, and it is widely distributed over the world. It is found commonly in the vicinity of beds of rock salt. In the United States workable deposits are confined to beds of rock gypsum, which occurs at comparatively few geological horizons. New deposits of gypsite—the earthy, granular form of the mineral—are reported to have been recently discovered in Riverside County, Cal., and many newly developed deposits are reported from other parts of the country.

The bulk of the gypsum produced in the United States as well as in foreign countries is manufactured into various plasters—such as plaster of Paris, stucco, cement plaster, flooring plaster, hard-finish plaster—and a steadily increasing quantity is being used as a retarder in Portland cement. Refined grades of plaster are used in dental work and also as cement for plate glass during grinding and as an ingredient in various patent cements. Considerable quantities are ground without burning, and are then used as land plaster or low-grade fertilizer, while smaller quantities are used in the manufacture of paint and paper, imitation meerschaum and ivory, and as an adulterant. The pure white, massive form, known as alabaster, is much used by sculptors for interior ornamentation.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD.

The Torrens Commissioners.

THE realty interests of the City of New York were pleased with the news conveyed from Albany as to the appointment of a Commission to investigate the question of land title registration. Among the many things that can be accomplished by such a Commission is the careful investigation of the documents and data that have been gathered for sometime by the Real Estate Board, and which will be laid before the Commission at a future meeting.

It also will have the power to subpoena witnesses and take testimony as well as to compel the production of books and papers which it may think advantageous to examine. The Commission is also directed to confer with the United States authorities and authorities of such other countries as have adopted a system of land title registration.

The personnel of this Commission is praiseworthy, including Mr. David A Clarkson, President of the Real Estate Board of Brokers of the City of New York, who has made a careful study of the system as adopted in the various States, and careful perusal of the reports as submitted by the foreign consuls and authorities on the working of the Torrens System.

Mr. Allan Robinson, President of the Allied Real Estate Interests of the State of New York, who has done such excellent work in connection with the Mortgage Tax Law and other doings of interest to real estate owners, will no doubt take an active interest in the Commission. Mr. T. Winthrop Weston, who is Secretary of the Real Estate Association of New York State, is an active real estate man and student, who will give the matter his careful consideration, while Mr. G. W. Thompson, Deputy Registrar of Kings County, is well qualified to show the defects of the present system to the Commission and urge a speedy change.

Ralph Folks, of New York, who has been interested in a national club scheme, is a lawyer of prominence and repute. He, no doubt, will devote considerable time to the question before the Commission. Mr. A. G. Reeves is a lawyer and lecturer on Real Estate Law, and author of "Reeves on Real Property," and Mr. Henry Pegram is a lawyer of New York City.

With a Commission of this character there can be no question that the good that can be accomplished is well worth the effort that has been put forth in bringing this matter before the proper State authorities. It is now the duty of land owners of New York to see that the proper information is brought before the Commission so that it will be fully conversant with the present methods and recommend proper legislation.

When a Commission is Earned.

It is commonly supposed that when a piece of property is listed for sale with a broker, and he offers it to somebody who buys the property from the owner, the real estate man is entitled to his commission. This conclusion by no means necessarily follows. The idea also prevails that if a real estate man brings a purchaser who is ready, willing and able to take the property at the price at which it is listed, and the owner refuses to sell or fails to tender a good title, the broker has then earned his commission. This is not universally true. The right to commissions often depends on many and various considerations.

In order to be entitled to his commission under the law the broker should bring seller and buyer together, so that there is a meeting of minds. This means in common parlance that the broker, unless he has been given power of attorney to bind the owner by contract, must get the seller and buyer to agree on all material points.

In the ordinary case, where the broker is merely authorized to introduce a purchaser, the terms of sale have seldom been given by the owner in such detail as to prevent him from withdrawing the property from the market. A real estate contract involves many items, and unless the parties are agreed on these it cannot be said that their minds have met.

Many real estate men think that if they have the exclusive agency for six months the owner is not at liberty to sell directly to a customer during that time. This may be a mistake. Of course, it depends on the terms of the contract, and a contract can be so framed as to have that effect, but the ordinary form of "exclusive agency" merely provides that the owner shall not employ any other agent to sell the property during the period in question. The contract ought to cover the question of the agent's compensation in case the owner sells directly to a purchaser or violates his agreement by employing another agent who effects a sale.

The 80 Per Cent. Clause.

Careful scrutiny of any insurance policy covering a business risk will disclose a provision to the following effect:

It is a part of the consideration for this policy, and the basis upon which the rate of premiums is fixed, that the assured shall maintain insurance on the property described by this policy to the extent of at least eighty (80) per cent. of the actual value thereof, and, that failing so to do, the assured shall be a co-insurer to the extent of such deficit, and to that extent shall bear his, her or their proportion of any loss, and it is expressly agreed that in case there shall be more than one item or division in the form of this policy, this clause shall apply to each and every item, provided, however, that whenever the loss does not exceed five (5) per cent. of the amount of insurance involved, the co-insurance clause need not be applied in the adjustment.

Of the few persons who read an insurance policy a small fraction grasp the significance of this clause. Its meaning, however, is plain. If you have a building worth $10,000 you must carry at least $8,000 of insurance or be a co-insurer with the company for the amount of the difference. If you have only $5,000 of insurance, and your building is damaged to that amount, you are a co-insurer to the extent of $3,000 and the company will pay you only five-eighths of your loss. The consequence of a failure to carry the required amount of insurance is so serious that it becomes of vital importance to the owner of a business building to know what valuation will be placed upon it in case of a fire.

A statement of the amount of insurance that would be accepted as a compliance would be a natural accompaniment of this rule, and once upon a time insurance companies sometimes would on request furnish a statement of what would be accepted as a compliance with the 80 per cent. valuation clause; but now the property is never appraised until there is an apparent loss of 80 per cent., and the owner requests it in the adjustment proceedings. Hence the owner must make his own estimate of valuation at his own risk, though there is a public feeling that the underwriters should be ready to make the investigation necessary to define the terms and effects of the clause.

But it is quite customary in New York City to have a certified appraiser of the New York Fire Insurance Exchange appraise the property for insurance purposes, at, however, the owner's expense. His appraisement is then accepted as a basis of settlement, less, of course, the regular depreciation by wear and tear, ascertained by adjusters and agreed upon at adjustment of loss. Of course all this naturally applies only on building insurance, as stocks, or any merchandise, is valued only at cost price, shown by assured's books or receipts, less any depreciation, if shopworn, etc. Any increase in value over cost price, of course, would come under the head of profit insurance.

From the point of view of the underwriter, there is really very little excuse for any one to try and estimate to a hair at all times his value. He says a careful owner prefers to carry even more than the exact 80 per cent., fearing his loss might exceed that percentage. It would be impossible to establish a permanent value irrespective of fluctuations in the market value of materials, etc., and for the company to agree to pay that sum, even if the building, or whatever it was, could be replaced for half. If prices increase it is held to be wisdom on the part of the assured to increase his insurance, or he may find, even if the companies pay their full amount, that he is still out money.

A Profitable Venture.

The success which the owners of the Empire City Track have experienced of late recalls the notable resale of that property at auction on February 25, 1902, on which day Bryan L. Kennelly, on a bid of $300,000, secured the parcel for a syndicate of turfmen which was personally organized by himself. Mr. Kennelly takes a personal pride in the good fortune of the syndicate on account of the prominent part which he took in its formation. He estimates that the property has more than tripled in value and that it is worth to-day about $1,000,000.

New Jersey Exchange Opens Manhattan Quarters.

The recently-organized New Jersey Real Estate Exchange has opened quarters at 141 Broadway, Manhattan, and intends to fit up its rooms with appropriate maps and records, so that information of value to real estate men may be readily accessible. Desks will be provided for members as well as a private room for use in closing titles. The exchange has a limited number of desk-room privileges to let. On the Board of Governors are Otto Kempner, president; Wm. A. Lambert, 1st vice-president; Joseph P. Day, Jos. W. Doolittle, W. W. Slocum, Frank Stevens and others.

Development of East 125th Street.

A steady, healthy advancement in realty values in East 125th Street has been going on for some time past, and those who invested their money in that section a couple of years ago are reaping the reward of their good judgment. There is a strong demand for good stores, and property owners are altering old dwellings into business buildings as fast as practicable. Small houses, 20 feet front, rent for about $4,000, of which the store-keeper pays three-quarters, while the balance is divided among the upper stories. It will be recalled that the Harlem Savings Bank is constructing new quarters just west of Lexington Avenue, on the south side, and there are other owners who will build and alter as soon as the money market eases up.

There are good, substantial business houses on this street, and when one considers that there are eight banks and trust companies, several theatres, as well as drygoods and furniture houses, and that it is accessible and crossed by every railroad and surface line running north and south, surely the future is assured. There is one deplorable condition, and that is that there are only three arc lamps to the block; and were it not for the generosity of the store-keepers, it would be worse than any suburban town. This condition doubtless exists because it has not been brought to the attention of those who have the matter in charge, but it is one which should be immediately remedied.

Increase in State Property.

At this week's meeting of the State Board of Equalization, the equalized percentages of assessed valuations, both of real estate and personal property, were changed in eighteen counties. The following table shows the total assessed value of both classes of property as compared with 1905:

| | 1906. | 1905. | Increase over 1905. |

Reservation.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

Dear Sir—Will you kindly advise us regarding the following point of law: If the Brown estate sells a tract of land situated in the State of New York, to Jones, and puts in the deed a reservation for the estate as follows:

"Excepting and also reserving, nevertheless, out of this present grant unto the party of the first part, his heirs or assigns, three equal, undivided fourth parts of all ores, mines, minerals or beds of ore, or salt springs of whatever nature or kind soever, and the land upon, or under which the same is or was or may hereafter be discovered or found."

Question: Is above reservation good in law and does it make the Brown Estate and the grantee "tenants in common," or what effect, if any, has it in deed.

Answer—We think that the reservation is good in law in case minerals or a salt spring have been or should hereafter be discovered on or under the land described in the deed, but not otherwise—the deed having, in case of such discovery, only the effect of a deed conveying an undivided fourth therein.—Editor.

The Greenpoint Proposition.

The matter of subway prospects and the Utilities law do not seem to enter into the question materially with prospective buyers in the Greenpoint section of Brooklyn. Brokers say that, considering the unfavorable conditions of weather, they have no reason to complain of the business of the spring months.

Mr. W. F. Corwith, of Corwith Brothers, 851 Manhattan av, remarked that no doubt in other sections of Brooklyn subway prospects and the matters involved in the Utilities law are considered more in detail, but in his section he does not expect to see any direct effect from the new law, though he expects a natural lull in business from now until fall. Mr. Corwith has also observed these further circumstances:

"While there is not so much building going on, or in prospect in this section, those who have buildings under way do not seem to find any difficulty in getting their loans. We have always argued that the Greenpoint section of Brooklyn will grow in population and have a steady and moderate increase in values, because of its geographical relation to the centre of New York city. Our experience of over thirty-five years of active business in this location bears us out in this statement, and we know of no better section of Brooklyn for investment purposes than right here. There is always ready sale for property, and rents hold up well, if not better, than in other sections of Brooklyn. The manufacturing interests, which is a prominent feature of this section, will always be a material factor in this respect."

A consideration in any wise analytical of property elements at Greenpoint, with its immense manufacturing and shipping interests, and the necessarily attendant population, will confirm all that Mr. Corwith has said of Greenpoint as a business proposition.

Stock Shrinkage and Real Estate Values.

OUT of the exposure of regrettable practices by the railroad corporations, and consequent public disfavor, there is expected to come a new tide of money for investment in tax-exempt real estate mortgages. Robert E. Dowling, president of the City Investing Co., expects to see plenty of 4½ per cent money this winter. Speaking through the Evening Post Mr. Dowling expresses the opinion that present values will stand unless rentals are seriously affected. Should there be a general shrinkage in business, mercantile properties might decrease in rental value, but such a decrease would not be noticeable until after the depression had come.

Further, Mr. Dowling says that his observations have led him to believe that there will be no shrinkage of values hereabouts, because building of all kinds has let up so since 1906 that the population is now growing faster than production. This was because such improvements as the McAdoo and Pennsylvania tunnels and other large construction work had taken all the money available for that purpose.

"In fact there has been too much business for the money in the country. Speculators in Wall st are not investors in real estate, as a rule, and there is, therefore, little likelihood of any selling movement in real estate to make good losses in stocks. It may be that some of the residents of the 5th av section might take a little less for their houses to-day than they would have a year ago, but, as a rule, property cannot be bought at anything less than an advance on its last price. I do not look for any boom in real estate, but I certainly believe that this fall will witness the revival of the market with a good amount of high-class business."

Extremely improbable—it may be proper to add to what Mr. Dowling has said—is it that the current declension in stocks will sink deep enough to reach the foundations of commercial prosperity, and it is rather to be wished that disconnection between mere Wall Street speculation and the substantial business of the country will be so emphasized that Agriculture, Commerce and Manufacturing will learn never to apprehend business depressions as a consequence merely of the "squeezes" and "booms" of the stock exchanges.

Wealth for Young Men.

FINANCIER ADVISES THEM TO BUY REAL ESTATE—WISEST COURSE IS TO HAVE AN OBJECT AND INVEST IT IN PROPERTY AND GO IN DEBT FOR IT.

In answer to a request that he write some practical hints for young men on the acquirement of wealth, a leading financier responded as follows:

"I think that more young men fail in the investment of what they earn or receive than in any other way to acquire property. The temptations to speculate are so great, and the desire to become suddenly rich so strong, that I believe eight out of ten, if not more, of young men are wrecked at the very beginning.

"If a young man is earning something more than the expense of his living, and has no object in view, he is likely either to increase those expenses carelessly, or to loan his money to his friends, and in so doing in the majority of cases he will lose both friends and money. So that the best thing that he can do is to have an object, gather up his money, and to have a call for it which shall be a profitable one. He makes no investment because, he says, 'I have got so little money that it won't come to anything; I will wait until I get more; and in waiting, generally, what he has goes.

"When a young man has a very little money, let him buy some property, preferably a piece, however small, according to his means, of improved real estate that is paying rent, paying in cash what he can, giving an installment mortgage for the balance. I don't know any better way to save money. And he does not burden himself down. If he should need his capital in business, he will be able to sell if he has bought in the right place."

Car Barn Not to Be Rebuilt.

There is a persistent rumor going around the upper East Side that the plot formally occupied as the car barn for the Madison av cars, situated between 85th and 86th st on the west side of Madison av, will be built up with apartment houses, but nothing definite could be ascertained except that it will not be rebuilt and occupied for car storage purposes.

There has been an enormous increase in realty values since this property was acquired by the railroad company, and the directors do not feel justified in erecting any building on the plot other than an apartment house that would show good returns on the money invested. There is a very good demand for store property on Madison av, and it is possible that they may construct an apartment house with stores on the grade floor.

Aids to Business Making.

A lucrative department of a real estate office is the leasing of tenement property entire. The expiration of these leases should be noted in the margin of the Record and Guide Quarterly in variously colored inks. Thus August written in red in the margin of the Quarterly of 1902 would mean that the lease expired August, 1907, Green would mean 1908, etc. This applies as well to lofts and stores. The owner of the property should be located in the Real Estate Directory.

PRIVATE SALES MARKET

Review of the Week.

THE volume of actual private sales in Manhattan and the Bronx is small, likewise a marked falling off in the number of recorded conveyances is noticeable, and although it is not unreasonable to assume that a general improvement will be witnessed within the next fortnight, present indications are of such a character as to render it difficult to predict with any degree of certainty whether or not realty trading for the fall of 1907 will equal that of the previous corresponding period. It has been argued that the several recent important transactions which have been closed indicate a strong market, handicapped only by unfavorable mortgage conditions; but while it must be admitted that the influence of these sales on surrounding values is potent, they cannot be accepted as an evidence of the pulse of the general market, since the conditions which governed them were almost entirely local in character. A strong market manifests itself in the volume of well-scattered sales, rather than in the magnitude of a few sectional transactions.

There is one factor to be taken into consideration this fall which may well be deemed of importance in venturing a forecast, and that is the likelihood of a considerable degree of capital being diverted to investment in real property through the enormous shrinkage in stocks and bonds that otherwise might have remained invested in these securities. This diverting is rendered more probable by the fact that the advantages of investment in real estate have been so marked for two or three years that discriminating investors are rapidly recognizing real property as the best security for hoarded savings, after all. In the meantime, many brokers, particularly those who handle the smaller properties, have revised their lists and are marshaling their forces in preparation for an expected demand from this direction.

Among the transactions of interest below 59th st was the reported sale of the Luce Holdings on Fifth avenue, a plot at the northwest cor of Lafayette and Howard sts, which foreshadows another building operation, and a deal involving the acquisition of the Hotel Belmont in 45th st, at a figure approaching $300,000. Above the circle the purchase of private dwellings was the feature, but across the Bronx very little activity is recorded beyond a few sales of two-family houses. The total number of private sales reported is 36, of which 9 were below 59th st; 15 above, and 12 in the Bronx.

Among the Wants and Offers an advertiser wishes it known that he has a 4-sty dwelling for sale, and in the same column an opportunity appears for those seeking to purchase a centrally located real estate office, besides it will also be noticed that an opening presents itself for a competent renting man.

Mr. Charles H. Schnelle, of Schnelle & Alstadt, in speaking about the conditions of the Real Estate market around the Yorkville section, said that the owners were very stiff in their prices. There does not seem to be any disposition on their part to give concessions, especially as to renting, because the demand is so far in excess of the supply. Most of the interior decorating is done at the expense of the tenant, though the owner attends to the exterior work.

Mr. Preston, of the firm of Dennis & Preston, 258 Broadway, Manhattan, does not look for any material rise in Manhattan real estate values for the next twelve months, although he admits that this may not apply to several of the active centers, such as the Waldorf-Astoria section and other districts similarly affected by changing business conditions. He is further of the opinion that many operators will be forced to dispose of their holdings at figures less than they have expected to receive, but still at a profit over cost prices of a year ago. Mr. Preston argues that this will go to show the inevitable result of overproduction and overspeculation.

One of the old landmarks, the Haymarket dance hall, 498 Sixth av, corner of 30th st, is to be torn down as soon as the present lease expires. A dry goods firm from Syracuse have made an offer for it, and while the papers have not yet been signed, still it is understood that the terms are practically agreed upon. Oliver L. Jones, the owner of the property, refused positively to either confirm or deny the report when a representative of the Record and Guide called on him yesterday. One more link to the chain of modern business buildings that are being rapidly erected in the Herald Square section, will be added when this one is completed.

THE AUCTION MARKET

INTEREST in the auction market for the week was chiefly centered in the large offerings of vacant lots on Labor Day at Ostend (Far Rockaway) and at Livingston (Staten Island). In both instances all of the lots offered were disposed of at satisfactory figures. Although it rained on Monday the attendance at the Ostend auction was large, and the bidding sharp and snappy. The tract at Ostend consisted of 120 lots, situated immediately east and north of the Kuloff and Tackapouche hotels, and facing the ocean. One of the bargains, 12 2-3 lots, with a frontage of 170 feet in South st, overlooking the beach, was struck off by Auctioneer Joseph P. Day to ex-Chief William S. Devery at $10,500. For a corner parcel of 6 1-2 lots opposite the Tackapouche Hotel, William J. Morris, a Manhattan realty operator, paid $12,250; and a plot of 6 1-3 lots adjoining, brought $9,500. Jerome Buck purchased a corner plot of 7 1-8 lots for $8,000. The lowest price secured was $4,000 for a plot of 5 1-2 lots on Rue de St. Felix, the buyer in this instance being H. M. Miller. The entire offering was disposed of by Mr. Day in a little more than one hour's time, at a total of $136,000.

On Staten Island excellent prices were also obtained by the Jere. Johnson, Jr., Co. The property sold consisted of a tract of 214 lots on Castleton, Mada, Davis, Prospect and Forest avs. The offering yielded $66,145, the average price per lot being $309. The highest price at the sale was obtained for a lot at the southeasterly corner of Bard and Davis avs, which brought $900. There were 59 purchasers in all, among them being Cornelius G. Kolff, E. A. Ingals, F. L. Kennedy, Robt. H. Pentz and others.

On Wednesday, at the Vesey Street Salesroom, Bryan L. Kennelly sold a parcel known as the estate of E. Crossman-Riley at Seabright, N. J., 100x450, with cottage and stable, at public auction, the easterly portion of which, a plot 100x255, with cottage, being purchased by Leopold Hutter for $9,250, and the westerly portion, 100x183, with stable, was knocked down to R. F. Greacen for $4,700. On Thursday, Joseph P. Day conducted two foreclosure sales, one parcel being 306 to 312 East 27th st, 85x98.9, two 6-sty brick tenements, which was struck off to the plaintiffs, Pincus Lowenfeld and others, for $96,632, the other being 882 to 904 Union av, 225x100, also 6-sty tenements, for which the plaintiff, Samuel Strasbourger, paid $261,500.

Closely following the successful Far Rockaway auction, Joseph P. Day will have another large sale at Belle Harbor to-day, when 301 seashore lots and five cottages will be put up. The location of the property is widely and favorably known, and it is confidently expected that good results will be obtained. Among other coming auctions is that of the sale of over 300 acres by Bryan L. Kennelly, situated at Yonkers, N. Y., on Central Park av, Jackson av and Grassy Sprain rd, which will take place at the Court House at White Plains, N. Y., on Sept. 17.

Of Interest to Property Owners.

Taxation of Unoccupied Land.

It is reported in a cable message from Bremen, that the Town Council of Schoeneberg, a suburb of Berlin, having 180,000 inhabitants, has adopted an ordinance providing that the owners of unoccupied land shall pay twice the amount of the taxes levied on occupied land, and further that "the municipalities of the other Berlin suburbs will follow the example of Schoeneberg, as otherwise more than the proper proportion of capital will be invested in building in the Schoeneberg suburb."

This last statement shows at once what effect the increased taxation of unoccupied land would have. Owners of unoccupied land would put it to use at once so as to escape the higher taxation. This movement in Germany is in line with other countries which have begun to understand that the land on which and from which all must live is the source of all wealth.

Mr. Edward Polak, the real estate and taxation expert, explained, upon being shown the Bremen report, that the increase of taxation on land in Germany is a faint attempt of the government to get back public wealth that has been appropriated by private individuals and to force unused land into use. Mr. Polak further said for this paper:

"Germany has long been experimenting with a land tax in Kiaouchu, a Chinese possession and evidently has been satisfied with its operation since they are extending the system to the mother country.

"Statesmen of all countries are coming more and more to the belief that from the land should come the revenue for the support of the government.

"The English Premier, Sir Henry Campbell Bannerman, in a recent speech, pledged the Government's support to a readjustment of the land rating, taking the ground that an increased rating (taxation) on land values was highly important.

"In Scotland, The Land Restoration League has been demanding for a number of years that a tax on the full rental value of the land be enforced.

"In New Zealand they have long recognized the importance of a tax on land values. While the tax has never been high, the beneficial effects have been so apparent that the number of towns to adopt the tax are increasing every year.

"In Russia the land question is the important question, more so even than political liberty. The Duma recently dissolved by the Russian Government, were expressly instructed by their constituents not to return until they procure from the government a readjustment of the land. Count Tolstoi has declared over and over again that the Russian question can only be settled when land values are equitably distributed among the people of Russia."

Regarding New York City Mr. Polak said that we have attempted to regain some of the public wealth by passing a law to tax railroad franchises the same as real estate. We also tax vacant land on one hundred per cent of its value where formerly it was taxed only on from forty to sixty per cent of its market value.

"In Fairhope, Alabama, a handful of men started a town a few years ago on the theory that all forms of taxation should be abolished save taxes on land values. Within a few years Fairhope has grown into one of the most flourishing towns in Alabama.

"Of course the movement in Schoeneberg is only a step in the right direction, but it is the adoption of the principle that all unused land should be doubly taxed, that land should not be kept out of use for speculative purposes and that the owners should use it or be forced to let go so that others who want to may use it.

"In order to secure the full benefit of this measure, all taxes on real estate improvement should be abolished and the tax should attach itself to the value of the land only.

"The problem is world wide and is pressing for solution. The life of all civilized governments depends on the equitable adjustment of their land laws."

"Which government will first adopt a just system of land tenure?"

Who Owns a Trust Deed.

A mortgage is an instrument conveying property to a creditor as security. A trust deed, as that term is commonly used, is an instrument which amounts in law to a mortgage, but which conveys the property to a third person as trustee for the benefit of the creditor. After a loan is paid off and the trust deed released, it is customary to surrender the instrument to the borrower. The trust deed, however, belongs to the trustee if he wants to keep it.

Grading West Farms Road.

The city took title, on August 1, 1907, to the lands within the lines of the West Farms Road, between the northerly side of Unionport rd and Westchester Creek, and has ordered regulating, grading, curbing and flagging of West Farms Road between Morris Park av and the corner of Main st and Westchester av in the old village of Westchester.

Proceedings for acquiring title to West Farms Road, between the Bronx River and Westchester Creek, were authorized on September 16, 1903, and the oaths of the Commissioners of Estimate and Assessment were filed on January 30, 1906. A grading and paving improvement affecting the portion of the street between the Bronx River and Morris Park av was authorized by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment on January 25, 1907, and at the same time provision was made for vesting title to that portion of the street between the Bronx River and Morris Park av in the city, on April 1, 1907. On April 5, 1907, provision was made for vesting title in the city on May 1, 1907, to that portion of the street between Morris Park av and the northerly side of the Unionport road to permit of carrying out improvements now in progress along the line of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad.

The resolution last passed affects a length of about one and three-quarter miles of West Farms Road, and through the entire distance a roadway of lesser width is in use at the present time. The abutting property in the vicinity of the terminals named in the resolution has been partially improved, but only a very few buildings have been erected along the intervening section. The roadway is occupied by trolley tracks, and the street, through a large portion of its length, adjoins the property of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Company. The improvement is an important one, and will form an additional means of communication between the former village of Westchester and the Morrisania district.

The work to be done comprises the following: 44,400 cubic yards earth and rock excavation, 148,000 cubic yards filling, 17,700 linear feet curbing, 60,500 square feet flagging. The estimated cost of construction is $187,000, and the assessed valuation of the property to be benefited is $1,023,430.

A Way to Sell Property.

Professional speculators and operators require little prompting with respect to the method of marketing real estate holdings, but the small investor is prone to make serious mistakes in his anxiety to make a profitable turn. It seems to be the idea of the average property owner that, in order to dispose of his realty quickly and at a substantial advance, it is necessary to list it with as many brokerage offices as possible, but in so doing he commits an error. Nothing tends to cheapen a property quicker than to have it peddled around like small articles of merchandise. To be sure, the particulars of the parcel offered for sale are regularly entered on the brokers' lists and may meet with the requirements of a buyer who providentially happens to be attracted to the offering, although, unless it is particularly pointed out or properly advertised, it is likely to remain undiscovered and in the market for an indefinite period. This uncertainty can be obviated by the owner employing a responsible broker who should be appointed the exclusive agent to handle the property for a limited time.

A real estate broker cannot and should not be expected to guard the seller's interest unless he is properly supported. If he is offered $10,000 for a property by a prospective buyer, whom he is reasonably certain will eventually pay more for the parcel, protect him while he handles the matter, and do not place him in a position where, unless he closes at the original offer, he will find the property sold at that figure, perhaps even to the same client, through the efforts of another agency. The owner should remember that one of the first movements a purchaser makes when he finds that he is unable to secure a property at his price from the first broker is to try another, and it will readily be seen that unless the agent is fully backed up in the first instance the owner's interests are invariably jeopardized. In this connection it may be said that conditions in this respect will undoubtedly improve as soon as the better class of brokers refuse to list property for which they have not the sole agency. An agency agreement should always be in writing and should protect both the owner and broker.

The following form has been used by several well known brokers for some time and is considered as a fair contract to which neither party can reasonably object:

..... 190..

The description of the property by metes and bounds is as follows: ..... .....

Upon your making a sale of the said premises within the time above specified by me, and upon the terms aforesaid, I agree, upon the closing of the sale and the payment of the purchase money, to pay you a commission of ..... on the minimum price as specified above, and in addition thereto a bonus of.....

It is further understood that I am under no circumstances liable for commissions or any other payments unless the transaction is actually closed and the full purchase money received.

No other broker, person or firm has authority from me to sell the property mentioned, and I will not give such authority to any broker, person or firm until the expiration of your agency as above limited, nor will I agree to sell or negotiate for the sale of said premises myself, but will immediately report to you any and all inquiries which I may receive during the continuance of this exclusive agency agreement. .....

The Best Way to Build.

SUM OF THE WORLD'S EXPERIENCE AND BEST EXAMPLES IN CLASS A CONSTRUCTION TO DATE.

By PROF. FRANK SOULE,
Dean of the College of Civil Engineering in the University of California.

THE failure of fireproofing methods in San Francisco is directly traceable to the commands of the owners to their architects to cheapen as far as practicable the fireproofing and the construction generally, in order to secure greater interest on their investments. This cheapening has often occurred in spite of the protests of the designer and it is in an entirely wrong direction; for rates of insurance are largely reduced with improvements in fireproofing; and as the cost of the steel frame and its proper fireproofing seldom exceeds 27 per cent. of the cost of the building, it seems wise to protect the other 73 per cent. with adequate materials.

In some instances in San Francisco, brick laid in rich Portland cement mortar has been found to be excellent fireproof covering. Good brick has withstood well the severe fire, and when laid in good cement has afforded a strong fireproof wall or pier. At least four inches in brick was found necessary, and a layer of concrete three inches in thickness between that and the steel was a great improvement and served well to protect the latter from rust. But this method will probably not be followed in general, on account of weight, bulk and expense. Hollow brick and tiling was efficient also when properly and liberally used as well as correctly applied on a good system. It has fireproofed satisfactorily, porous tiles proving to be the better.

In a country subject to earthquakes, a strongly-framed and well-founded wooden house, two, or at most, three stories in height, with non-disintegrating plaster and finish, light tile chimneys and ample fire prevention and protection is the ideal type of residence structure.

The high steel-frame office buildings have shown that in order to resist perfectly the bending moments and shears induced by the swaying due to earthquake movements, such buildings should be stiffened in their joints and connections by the best riveting combinations and knee and other bracing, particularly at or near the ground floor.

Columns, exterior and interior, should be put in more liberally in future upon the first and second stories, and the strongest joints and connections should be adopted in order to resist the bending and shearing. With such strengthening the high steel structures will safely endure an earthquake of even greater severity than that of April 18, 1906. This kind of building has proved its worth and reliability and has "come to stay." It has been tried and has not been found wanting. Minor improvements, as advocated, will produce a perfect structure.

Concrete and reinforced concrete have become popular for construction with a large number of designers in San Francisco, on account of the claimed strength, indestructibility, facility of use, and fire and rust protection their materials afford. Unfortunately for San Francisco, there were few structures of concrete or reinforced concrete in the city at the time of her great trial; but these few behaved well during both the earthquake and the resulting fire.

Therefore, although such structures are admittedly new and comparatively experimental on the Pacific coast, the confidence reposed in them has already led to the designing of a number of large buildings of this type for public or business purposes.

At present the sentiment is to limit them to a height of six or eight stories, on account of their experimental character and because of the fear that greater height would permit a reversal of stress, due to 'quake and wind force in the reinforced girders.

Mill construction with brick will undoubtedly be utilized in many instances for a considerable time to come, but the lesson taught us should be learned, that the materials used should be first-class pressed-brick, well-wetted, and cement mortar, and that all parts should be thoroughly tied and anchored together. This rule has been found by our experience to be a most important one to follow in all brick and stone construction, and its neglect in the past has resulted in much loss and ruin.

The damage inflicted upon San Francisco from the direct and immediate effect of the earthquake was relatively small, being estimated at from 3 to 10 per cent. only of the total loss; but the subsequent and indirect effect was to paralyze the water supply and its distributing system, start a great conflagration, render impossible its extinguishment with the means at hand, cause the death of at least 500 human beings, burn approximately $500,000,000 worth of property, render houseless, homeless and miserable 200,000 people, and inflict remoter damages to business, commerce and labor, only to be estimated in the future. When we can see plainly, as we may, looking backward, that nearly all of this destruction and suffering might have been prevented by wise foresight and provision, we feel that we must send a warning to all the cities of the world.

Any city that disregards this warning will be guilty of a great crime.

Of a building's entire fire damage, the risk from fire within the building is estimated, on the average, at 40 per cent., the other 60 per cent. of the risk being from the exterior of the building. This risk for interior fires should be reduced to a minimum by ample provision for fire prevention. As far as practicable, the absence of combustible material should be secured.

While the danger from exterior fires to a given building is ordinarily estimated at 60 per cent., it practically becomes 100 per cent. in case of a great conflagration. In San Francisco, little protection from exterior fires has been adopted. Many of the best buildings, had they been furnished with metallic shutters of the best design, with wire glass in metal sashes, and with cornice and other exterior sprinklers, supplied by a private water plant, certainly might have been saved.

San Francisco's experience recommends that wells and elevator shafts, running up through many stories, should be guarded by brick or reinforced concrete walls, fitted with double metal rolling doors, bolted to the walls to allow the expansion; or with automatic sliding doors and wire-glass partitions.

The importance and value of real protection will be appreciated when it is stated that a third-class building, with such complete fire-prevention plant, is insured for less than a first-class one, not having it. This lesson is one that should be taught to all capitalist owners by their architects and engineers. Moreover, all parts of an establishment should be equally protected, for the fire may begin anywhere.

Concrete floors with metallic mesh reinforcement are strongly recommended for strength and fireproof character.

A non-inflammable substitute for woodwork and trim generally is greatly to be desired.

Double windows of wire-glass in hollow metallic frames are recommended; or where such material would be objectionable by cutting off the view, double plate glass is considered next best.

Interior doors should be of metal, or at any rate metal covered, in fireproof buildings and the light for corridors and halls should come through wire-glass.

As the installation of wire-glass, metallic rolling shutters and metal sash is only a small percentage of the cost of the building, and has proved to be such excellent fire protection, when of the best material and workmanship, a wise economy demands its use in every important fireproof building. Capitalists and owners must understand that perfect fire protection for structural steel is necessarily expensive. Any so-called fireproofing that is cheap or flimsy, is a delusion and will not serve. The application of an effective method insures permanence of the structure and at the same time is a reducer of the rates of insurance.

Steel columns may be well fireproofed by surrounding them with four inches thickness of the best quality of stone or cinder concrete, or by three inches thickness of either, when hollow tiling is put upon the exterior.

Three-inch porous terra-cotta tiling, wrapped on the outside with wire, and metal mesh used around the bed course of the column, has proved efficient. The mortar of the tiles should contain a large percentage of cement, and they should be strongly anchored to the columns to prevent their falling away in earthquake or fire and so leaving the steel exposed.

In the great fire, decorations, trim, inflammable oil paints and varnishes, in office buildings aided materially in spreading the flames. A water color paint has been recommended that will endure washing and is non-inflammable.

Fire walls of brick, extending up above the roofs of buildings were effective in resisting the spread of the fire; but the support derived from metal bands and anchors was often neglected, like much other masonry in San Francisco, and such walls therefore, fell, in many instances, both during the earthquake and the fire, particularly when laid in common mortar.

Cast-iron columns, in many buildings, endured the 'quake and the fire quite well, but undoubtedly would have been broken or shattered had cold water been thrown upon them in the midst of the great heat.

Structures made of concrete blocks were usually greatly damaged or even ruined by the earthquake, owing to imperfect anchorage and failure to cohere at their joints.

Granite, sandstone and marble were badly cracked and spalled by the fire, the latter stone often crumbling to powder.

A proper foundation, stable and firm, is of vital importance, and particularly in the case of soft, marshy or made ground. Anchorage, bonding and tying of all masonry should be strictly practiced. Steel framing should be made heavier rather than lighter, and joints, connections, bracing and floorings, should be strongly united. Girders and columns should be made very stiff, and, where practicable, continuous. Fireproofing should be of the most perfect type, and no reasonable expense should be spared in its installation.

The lessons taught by the great fires of Boston, Chicago and Baltimore have been verified in San Francisco's experience. In addition to these lessons, the following conclusions may be drawn: (a) Roofs, roof appurtenances and skylights should be given ample protection against fires from without; (b) a great excess of fire hose and apparatus beyond ordinary needs, should be available; (c) a strong bond for fireproofing, tiling, etc., both for girder and column protection is essential; (d) protection for front windows as well as for side and rear ones, is of vital importance; (e) good protection for steel frames and steel roof trusses in attics or the exposed or unusual places should be provided; (f) liberal use should be made of fire retardent in windows and door transoms; (g) wise and liberal use of concrete and reinforced concrete for girder and column fireproofing has proved its saving quality; (h) interior fire protection and prevention by wells, pumps, sprinklers and water tanks vastly lessen fire risk.

Tenements and Apartments.

THE Building Code Commission has been asked to consider the practicability of making a distinction between "apartment" houses and "tenement" houses. While the Commission has no jurisdiction over the Tenement House Law, it may still in its report to the Board of Aldermen make recommendations, which, if approved of by the city authorities, could be enacted by the Legislature as amendments to the Tenement House Law.

Owners and occupants of high-class houses object to the term "tenements," and an acceptable and agreeable distinction incorporated into the law would be welcomed. In the model Building Code prepared by the National Board of Fire Underwriters, apartment and tenement houses are separately defined:

"An apartment house shall be taken to mean and include every building, which shall be intended or designed for, or used as the home or residence of three or more families or households living independently of each other, and in which every such family or household shall have provided for it a parlor or sitting room, a dining room, not less than two bedrooms, a kitchen and a toilet room, containing a set bath tub and water closet, each room being separate and apart from any other.

"Upon the filing of plans for any building which shall be intended or designed for the occupancy of three or more families, as in this section provided for, THE COMMISSIONER OF BUILDINGS SHALL DECIDE WHETHER SUCH A BUILDING IS AN APARTMENT HOUSE OR A TENEMENT HOUSE ACCORDING TO THE CIRCUMSTANCES OF THE CASE.

"A tenement house shall be taken to mean and include any building or portion thereof which shall be intended or designed for, or is rented, leased, let or hired out as the home or residence of three families or more living independently of each other and doing their cooking upon the premises, or by more than two families upon any floor, so living and cooking, but having a common right in the halls, stairways, yards, water closets or privies or some of them."

Verily, the distinction between a "tenement house" and an "apartment house" seems to be as intangible as that between the legal term "woman" and the polite designation of "lady." It may be a matter of individual opinion, but still one in which "position" and "good manners" are factors.

Bridge Project May Be Modified.

A hearing is noticed for September 27 in the matter of a petition for a highway bridge over the New Haven Railroad at East 174th st. As the improvement would compel a change of grade in the streets of the neighborhood, Chief Engineer Nelson P. Lewis, who has reported on the petition to the Board of Estimate, is of the opinion that a footbridge would serve the purpose, and this would not require any change of grade. Otherwise the proposed changes will involve damage to several buildings, will require a repaving of Park Av East, from East 174th st to East 175th st, and a reregulating and regrading of Park Av West, from East 173d st to Ittner pl, and of East 174th st, from Park Av West to Webster av.

A Remarkable Property.

At the offices of Ernestus Gulick Co., 334 Fifth av, New York, title was taken yesterday to the property in Jamaica, consisting of over 8,000 lots, formerly belonging to the Matawok Land Co. This property was sold by them to a syndicate organized by Edward C. M. Fitzgerald, of Brooklyn, and resold to a corporation organized under the name of "Jamaica Estates," by Felix Isman and Ernestus Gulick, for the purpose of developing the estates. It is a remarkable property, consisting, as it does, of heavily wooded uplands traversing the range of hills adjoining the built-up section of Jamaica on the north and fronting for about a mile on Hillside Avenue. The keeping intact of such a large parcel is due to the foresight of a number of the officials of the Pennsylvania and Long Island Railroad companies, who purchased it in a number of parcels from the original owners, seeing its possibilities as a future site for a park or fine residence district. The property was, in fact, selected for a city park by the authorities, but for some reason the project was not carried through. It is expected that the present owners will more than carry out the ideas of the original holders by creating a fine residence park of the same class as "Garden City Estates" and "Belle Terre Estates."

REAL ESTATE RECORDS

Key to abbreviations:

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing a Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable considera, tion and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

4th.—The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deed. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

5th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

6th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

7th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

8th.—A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only, and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction. Valuations are from the assessment roll of 1907.

MORTGAGES

August 30, 31, September 3, 4 and 5.

BOROUGH OF MANHATTAN.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

THE large number of subscriptions obtained for the city bond sale justifies conclusively one inference: The 4½ per cent. stock, which the subscribers have secured at about 102, will eventually constitute an extremely profitable investment for their purchasers. The chance to purchase city bonds at a price which nets the investor almost 4½ per cent. is one which is not likely to occur again for a period indefinitely long. As Mr. Harriman says, it was a rare opportunity, and one to take advantage of, which would justify many capitalists in retiring from business. It is probable that this stock will be selling before January 1st on a 4 per cent. basis and that before January 1, 1909, the yield at current quotations will not be much over 3½ per cent. It is evident that these bonds were issued just at the time when the tide was beginning to turn. The scarcity of loanable capital, which has been embarrassing the business of the country for such a long period, will little by little pass away, and signs are accumulating on every side of a moderate business reaction, but one which will be quite sufficient to ease the money market. It will be brought about chiefly by the abandonment or curtailment of expensive improvements. The railroads and the large corporations are adopting this policy wherever possible, and the smaller fry will have to follow suit. It does not take very long for a reaction of this kind to cause an oversupply of money in the banks. In 1903 it required less than a year for the country to pass from a condition of scarcity to one of abundance, and the wealth of the United States has increased enormously during the past four years. Within a year there will again be a superfluity of loanable capital, and such a superfluity is bound to cause an appreciation of the price of all good securities. This rise in price will be particularly noticeable in securities such as city bonds, which cannot be affected in value either by a decline in business or by political agitation. The only questions are now, How far will the business reaction go, and what bad effects will it have? These questions cannot be answered as yet. The general situation seems on the whole to be sound, but there are weak spots here and there, which may prove to be infectious. Business men will have to be prudent about borrowing money for some time to come, but this fact has no bearing upon New York City stock. Small investors should purchase all the city bonds they can at present prices. There are few easier and no more certain ways of making money.

IT is improbable that anything will come of the effort to establish a legal distinction between tenements and apartment houses. The tenement-house reformers have always been suspicious of any attempt to define an apartment in terms distinct from a tenement house, and to relax certain provisions of the tenement-house law in favor of the former. Neither can they be blamed for such a suspicion. The distinction between the two classes of buildings is perfectly obvious, when one is situated in Rivington street and the other on lower Fifth avenue, or when one costs $40,000 and the other $400,000; but this distinction, obvious as it is at the two ends of the scale, becomes almost imperceptible at a certain point in the middle of the scale. There are thousands of buildings in New York which were built as flat or apartment houses, but which have become tenements; and almost any building in which many families live, and which costs less than $1,200 for each foot of frontage on the street, may easily become a tenement. Certainly the definition of an apartment house in the Underwriters' model code is by no means beneath suspicion. Many buildings in Harlem have been planned so that every apartment contained a living-room, a dining-room, a kitchen, two bed-rooms and a bathroom, which have since become tenements. There can be no possible guarantee that a room called a "parlor" or a "dining-room" will continue to be so used. Probably the most practicable definition of an apartment house would be one which cost a certain sum per cubic foot of contents, but a building commissioner could hardly apply such a definition to the merely estimated cost of a set of plans. The one concession which might be made would be to allow fireproofed tenement houses to be called "apartment houses," and to secure certain advantages from the classification. That might encourage the fireproofing of apartment houses, which would be a useful thing to do.

THE only news which emanates from the office of the Public Service Commission in respect to the construction of new transit routes is entirely negative. The commission will not even advertise for bids on the proposed Fourth avenue subway in Brooklyn, because it believes that there is no chance of securing a bidder. This decision is undoubtedly well taken. There is no chance of securing a bidder under existing conditions, and the Record and Guide is not sorry that such is the case. The construction of another tunnel to Brooklyn and its extension along Fourth avenue is undoubtedly a desirable addition to the city's means of communication; but it is not the addition which at the present time is most desirable. Manhattan and the Bronx are in far greater need of more subways than is Brooklyn. The city is just finishing one tunnel under the East River, and it is spending tens of millions of dollars on two additional bridges. Then in addition, the Long Island Railroad Company and the Interborough Company are constructing six other tubes for the same purpose. Within five years the means of communication with Long Island will be enormously improved, whereas nothing at all is being done for the inhabitants of Manhattan and the Bronx. Such being the general condition, it would be gross favoritism for the city to appropriate $23,000,000 for another Brooklyn tunnel. If this money were appropriated it would diminish the city's debt-limit by so large a sum that more Manhattan and Bronx subways would be impossible under the existing law. No, now that the construction of new subways for Manhattan and the Bronx has been temporarily abandoned, it is only fair that the construction of a new Brooklyn subway should be abandoned also. Then, when conditions are more favorable, the whole matter can be taken up on a new basis, and the money available for this purpose can be fairly distributed according to the imminence of the needs of the respective boroughs.

THE plain fact is, of course, that under existing circumstances any new subway construction is impossible, and this impossibility depends partly upon the law, partly upon the city's financial condition and partly upon the general financial conditions. At the present time it would be difficult to raise the money for new subways, even if the debt-limit of New York was as abundant as it was in 1903, or if the credit of the Interborough Company stood as high as it did before its unfortunate merger with the Metropolitan. In addition, however, to this general stringency, the city cannot afford to appropriate money for subways out of its narrow margin, and in any event the large interest which it is obliged to pay makes it desirable that as few bonds as possible should be issued during the coming year. The Interborough Company is, of course, in a far worse position than the city. Even if it were offered a lease for seventy-five years, it probably could not raise the money for new subways on its own credit, and of course a lease for twenty years would be as valuable to it in its existing condition as no lease at all. Obviously radical rearrangements of some kind will be necessary before any further subway construction becomes possible, and the most serious question of municipal policy in New York City turns upon the extent and the character of these necessary rearrangements. The serious question is: What should the municipal government do, in order to make new subway construction possible? Of course, so far as the general financial condition is concerned, it can do nothing; but this general financial condition can be trusted to take care of itself. Within a year there will be an abundance of money available for all legitimate purposes. The task of the municipal government will be to discover the best means of turning this improvement to account on behalf of subway construction; and this task will be by no means an easy one. New subways must be either built with the city's money or with that of private corporations, and the raising of money by either of these methods is attended with great difficulties. On the one hand, so far as the city is concerned, the debt-limit is a serious obstacle, and on the other hand, so far as private capital is concerned, the restriction of the lease to twenty years is an even more serious obstacle.

THE only quick way to escape the obstacle offered by the debt-limit would be to raise the general level of real estate assessments, and in the opinion of the Record and Guide the Tax Department would be justified in taking such a step, provided $50,000,000 could be thereby obtained for purposes of subway construction. Even, however, if the debt margin were artificially increased in this manner, the difficulty of leasing a subway for only twenty years would still remain. This obstacle is more serious than the other one, and there are only two ways of getting around it. Either the restriction of the lease to twenty years must be abandoned, or the city must both build and equip, if not operate, the new subways. The Record and Guide believes that it would be a good business policy on the part of the city to equip, as well as build, a municipal subway system rather than alienate the new tunnels for a longer period; but if the municipal authorities are not prepared to assume the responsibility for such a course, they should at least resolutely face the other alternative. Both the Board of Estimate and the Public Service Commission should petition the Legislature for the power to lease subways for say forty years. With such a power they could be sure inside of another year, not only to find a lessee, but probably a lessee who would build the new tunnels by the use of its own credit. In any event the one policy which should be avoided is that of doing nothing at all. During the course of the coming winter vigorous action should be taken, which will look in the direction of the laying out and building of new subways. The city can afford to offer private capital larger inducements to invest in the transit machinery of New York, but it cannot afford an indefinite delay in the arranging of new construction. Such a delay would cost the people of New York an immense amount of inconvenience, and its real estate owners millions of money. It would constitute a serious impediment to the growth of the city, and a danger to the lives of its inhabitants. The number of passengers carried by the various means of communication can be expected to double in a little over ten years, and any further delay in providing for carrying these multiplying passengers in Manhattan and the Bronx will eventually have the most serious consequences. It is already four years since the old commission decided that the existing subway should be immediately extended, and nothing has yet been done except to accumulate obstacles. It is time that the question of removing these obstacles should be resolutely undertaken, and it is to be hoped that during the coming winter the Mayor will act vigorously for the purpose either of securing a municipal subway system or of enabling private capital to undertake the work.

Height and Area of Buildings.

SHOULD the wishes of the New York Board of Fire Underwriters prevail, the height of fireproof office buildings would be restricted in New York City to a maximum of 125 feet, and non-fireproof commercial buildings to 55 feet, or five stories. President George W. Babb, of the Board of Fire Underwriters, has informed the Building Code Revision Commission, through its Committee on Area and Height of Buildings, that a form of suggestions containing among others these specifications may be expected from his Board. These proposed limitations substantially coincide with Section 30 of the "Model Building Code" recommended by the National Board of Fire Underwriters (edition of 1905), which provides that "no fireproof building or structure hereafter erected shall exceed fifty-five feet in height," and "no building of any kind, except a church spire, shall exceed in height two and a half times the width of the widest street upon which it stands," and "in no case shall the height of any building exceed one hundred and twenty-five feet."

This definite statement from the most radical party to the issue seems from the record to have been drawn out with difficulty, as the New York Underwriters were perhaps not yet ready to go upon the record on the question. The Building Trades Employers' Association, on being asked for an intimation of its views on building height, pleaded unreadiness to answer at this time. The architects of the city, represented by Mr. John M. Carrere, call attention to the bill which was introduced in the Legislature last winter (and not enacted) and intimate that it probably expresses the local architectural feeling on the subject as nearly as any bill that could be devised. At the same time Mr. Carrere cautions the Commission against making restrictions so drastic in their nature that public welfare would require their repeal, and so bring a hardship on the owners who in the interim would be required to build under such extreme restrictions. Mr. Carrere advises that no restrictions be laid that would not be allowed to continue in operation for a long period. The City Plan Committee, as represented by Chairman Calvin Tomkins, while believing that it is time to impose restrictions, also argues for moderation.

At a hearing given by the Committee on Height and Area, Mr. Charles G. Smith, secretary of German-American Fire Assurance Company and a member of the Board of Examiners of the Building Department, presided. A letter from Mr. William O. Ludlow, of Ludlow & Valentine, architects, was first read, favorable to some limitation of building height, and then Mr. Schallcross spoke for the New York Board of Fire Underwriters. First remarking that as doubtless many had drawn the attention of the committee to the aesthetic and the domestic economic aspects of the increase in height and area of buildings, he would refer only to the question of fire hazard:

As I passed in front of a very tall building, some forty-one stories in height, which the Commission will be aware is being erected in lower Broadway, I could not help but reflect that the conditions of the fire underwriting and of the fire department in New York are very much those of the naval constructor and the ordinance constructor.

The constructor and inventor of our guns has all the time to seek to construct a gun which will pierce the armor which the experts of the navy try to harden or thicken, and improve in every respect to protect the ship.

This city is spending millions of dollars annually in perfecting the fire fighting unit (I refer to the New York Fire Department) which is probably second to none in the world—I think it is second to none in the world—but consequent upon the absence of any restriction upon the height and area of buildings, such as that which I refer to, financial interests here are presenting a condition which no fire department in the world at present is capable of meeting. That, Mr. Chairman, corresponds to the conflict between the maker of ordinances and the maker of armor plate. It will take the Fire Department years and years, if it ever reaches the point where it can defend the city against fire in such a building as that which I refer to.

It may be said, Mr. Chairman, that that is only an incident; it is a 'freak building" No; far from that being the case, I would illustrate what happened to me no later than yesterday. A stranger in our city pointed to an 8-story building downtown and asked me, "When was that building constructed?" I said, "I think in the early eighties; I will find out for you." I asked the gentleman who owned the building—whose company owned the building—when it was built, and he said in 1881; he said it was one of the four highest buildings in New York, and "When my directors decided to make it eight stories instead of six, we were in fear and trembling lest we were exaggerating things to the point of danger."

That was 26 years ago, Mr. Chairman, and that was a freak building then. If we are to carry the same ratio as we have advanced to the next 26 years, this 41-story building which we see downtown now will be one of those freaks. The 41-story building, in fact, I am told, is not the limit; a prominent life insurance company contemplates the erection of a 40-story building uptown in the near future, so that, Mr. Chairman, the suggestion which was made to me the other day by a prominent underwriter here that in the future we may have an aerial conflagration—a conflagration in the upper stories of these buildings, where it is impossible for the firemen to reach—it would seem as if such a fatality or catastrophe might even happen. I could continue to some length, Mr. Chairman, in pointing out to your honorable Commission the danger to life, and the impossibility of rescuing those who, in a panic, might be caught in the upper stories of buildings such as I refer to. From the point of view of the combustibility of its contents, your Commission should interfere, if it has not already done so. With every practical fire department there comes a point when no matter how carefully constructed, from a fireproof point of view, the building may be made, the contents of the building—the building itself is no better than the contents of a frame building, place it where you will.

The New York Board of Fire Underwriters has a special commitee which, as you know, will be at any time prepared to assist, or rather to suggest, to your committee, its own views as to the height and area to which buildings of fireproof construction and other construction shall be limited in the borough. I won't go into the details now, whatever its views may be, because perhaps your Commission will prefer to have that committed to writing, but if at any time your Commission wish the advice of the New York Board of Fire Underwriters in reference to this subject, we shall be very glad to give it to you.

The Chairman: I should say, Mr. Schallcross, that the committee would be glad to receive from you or from the board such views as you are willing to submit.

Mr. Schallcross: I will be very glad to submit them.

Through the Chair, Mr. Mayo (representing Eidlitz & Hulse, attorneys for the Building Trades Employers' Association) asked Mr. Schallcross what the Committee of the Board of Fire Underwriters considered to be a safe height for buildings, but the Chairman here made the explanation that he had, as a member of the committee, said to the President of the New York Board of Fire Underwriters that the committee would like to have a written communication from his board covering the height of all classes of buildings, as well as the area of all classes of buildings, and as the gentleman, Mr. George W. Babb, was present, possibly he had gone into the matter sufficiently to give some idea. Upon Mr. Babb answering that he might have something to say later on, the Chairman turned to Mr. Mayo and said that the committee would like to have his suggestions and ideas as representing the Building Trades Employers' Association, but Mr. Mayo had to apologize for not being able at this time. He asked for the same privilege that had been granted to Mr. Schallcross, of being allowed to submit suggestions in the form of a brief.

Mr. Calvin Tomkins, Chairman of the City Plan Committee of the Municipal Art Society, said that in the society there was considerable strong opinion on both sides of the question, but that they had never taken any decided action. To the City Plan Committee it seemed that the continued building of similar tall structures was inevitable. The principal criticism of the members of the City Plan Committee was that these tall buildings were not properly supervised, in that no system under which they shall be built exists at the present time. Of course as regarded their safety, and as regarded their interior sanitary arrangements, those matters were well provided for; but as regarded the fire risk and the easements for light and air, and as regarded what was most important of all, the room in the streets, there seemed to be no adequate public information, either official or unofficial, at the present time. Attention had been called to the fire risk, but it seemed to his committee to be essential that some provision should be made by the city for easements of light and aid. It was too big a question to be taken in hand by individual operators, and some general authority must supervise.

If these tall buildings become general, continued Mr. Tomkins, as they have in certain parts of the city, like Exchange Place and some parts of Nassau st, why the lower parts of these structures are converted virtually into cellars. There is no good advantage in building them except on corners, and they interfere with each other, but the great advantage that exists now of getting away up in the air and off away from everybody else will not exist unless some provision be taken for light and air. Again, the matter of street surface conditions should be considered in connection with that. The streets of the city—I have heard the statement made by eminent engineers—would not be able to contain the people who would suddenly come out of these buildings in case of some great shock like an earthquake or some great excitement; the streets would not begin to accommodate the people that would come out of these buildings suddenly. We must have additional subway streets, and probably additional elevated streets, cutting into the fronts of buildings, if the building of skyscrapers is to continue; and in addition to that we believe the city should provide for easements through the blocks east and west, and north and south, over a certain height, so that the air cannot be cut off entirely from the streets, or from the lower parts of the city. The real estate interests of the city itself demand that, as well as the public interest.

If it were possible to provide light and air easements by the city, possibly assessing on abutting property owners the benefits and the damages, the assessed value of property in the city would ultimately be improved by that. I don't know that such a course is practical; we are really breaking the ground in that matter now. No such condition exists in any other city, and I think we might look at it in a radical and far-reaching way, and I think we probably can arrive at immediate results. My own opinion is that we shall continue to build these large structures, at least in the lower part of Manhattan which is a rendezvous every morning for a population extending out many miles from New York City. They come to this great centre and into these immense buildings in the morning, and there is a great convenience in having the business district of the city isolated. It may be possible to geographically restrict the construction of buildings, say, below 59th street, which will impose no great hardship on the land lying above, because it has not been improved to the same extent as below. In fact, unless the matter is taken in hand by the city, the city's interest and the interest of the individual property owners are bound to suffer ultimately, and now would seem to be the time when it should be done.

If the land were treated block by block through the city, a block by itself, a much better arrangement could be made, and unless adequate provision should be made now, the time will come when it will be advantageous to take down these large structures and erect buildings block by block, instead of separately unrelated to each other in any way; and a great loss of capital would ensue if such a procedure should come to be; and our position is that we are not irrevocably opposed to the construction of tall buildings in lower Manhattan, but we think the matter should receive careful consideration, and should have some supervision and regulation, which should be made now, and if it is necessary to secure enabling legislation from Albany, to place the city in a position where it can enforce a policy consonant with its real interests—that such regulation should be formulated and obtained as early as possible.

Mr. George W. Bard, President of the New York Board of Fire Underwriters, said that the cause which the fire underwriters had for being present at the meeting and urging their views was that their interest was the largest single interest probably of any. He admitted that they were selfish, in so far that all their assets were imperiled in this city. They would like to avoid that result. They would like to avoid the humiliation which would come to them with a conflagration in this great city, with the large values that existed here, which would prevent the underwriters paying their losses in full, but, he imagined, the companies as an aggregate would not be able to pay more than twenty or twenty-five cents on the dollar. The net loss-paying assets of all the companies doing business in the State of New York was three hundred million dollars or less. A conflagration in this city which would correspond to the conflagrations which have occurred in other cities, and have not been induced by earthquakes, would be in the aggregate somewhere from one to two billions of dollars.

It seems to me, continued Mr. Babb, that if the city will regulate the height and area of buildings that it will do very much toward protecting ventures of capital; and by furnishing a stable basis for future operations it will do much toward that end. The danger from our point of view is in buildings of any height containing a great area and containing and filled with merchandise or inflammable material, but it has been pointed out to you that we are liable to another kind of a conflagration, of which we have not yet had an example, in that if we should have a city of very high buildings on our narrow streets, and we cannot very well help our narrow streets. We may have a conflagration up in the air, the fire darting out of the windows in which it originates across narrow streets into the windows of other high buildings opposite, and so spreading around, entirely out of reach of the fire department. The inflammable material in the upper stories of these high buildings would become ignited, making a complete furnace of one whole story, away up in the air, and it will make a flame, which, fanned by wind partly created by the fire itself, will probably extend across the narrow street into the windows of the buildings opposite. We might have blocks on fire so far up in the air that the fire department would be practically helpless.

The New York Board of Underwriters consider this subject of the very greatest importance to the citizens. We consider that you have a great opportunity now in formulating a building code which shall be a model. We think you have a most important duty to perform, and we hope you will make such a revision as will make this city a model in its stability, in its exemption from fire hazard and in every other respect a credit to the city.

THE ESSENTIAL QUESTION.

Mr. Babb was asked by Chairman Smith if he would give in some general way an idea of the height of buildings that may be regarded as reasonably safe, but Mr. Babb did not wish to forestall a report or suggestions which would be sent by a committee of the Board of Underwriters, of which Mr. Schallcross is the chairman, but still he would say that the underwriters felt that a building of ordinary construction, to be occupied for mercantile or manufacturing purposes, should be limited to the area of five thousand square feet and a height of five stories, which would mean about fifty-five feet, non-fireproof and no sprinklers.

"We would be willing, if the entire building were equipped with automatic sprinklers having not less than two independent water supplies, that the area might be increased fifty per cent. for such protection; and should a building of the same height be constructed entirely as we say, of fireproof construction, we would be willing that that area should be doubled. We would be willing that a fireproof structure to be occupied entirely for office purposes should be permitted to be built considerably higher than a fireproof structure to be devoted to mercantile purposes or to manufacturing purposes. We would recommend that about one hundred and twenty-five feet be made the limit of height for a building of fireproof construction to be occupied entirely for office purposes; and the limit of area for such a height we would increase—if equipped with automatic sprinklers—to twenty or thirty thousand square feet, according to its situation in the block. These are about our views so far as we have discussed them and gotten together upon them."

Mr. John M. Carrere, being called on to speak, said that a bill had been introduced in the Legislature last winter—but not passed—which seemed to him as reasonable and practicable in the way of limiting the height of buildings as any law which could be devised. It did not deal with easements and area for light and air, but merely with the height of buildings. In advising from the point of view of the architects he would say to have caution in attempting to do more than to regulate the thing in a manner that would be permanent. Mr. Carrere thought it would cause a hardship to make a regulation now that should subsequently be repealed. He thought that the way the problem would eventually be solved would be by taxation. He would be very cautious, if he were on the commission, against adopting any restrictive measures—any definite measures—establishing definite heights for buildings. He was not at all persuaded that a code or a law which would simply lower the cornice height to a uniform height, or which would have that effect, would add anything to the beauty of the city.

The Chairman asked if Mr. Carrere was in favor of taking off the limitations which we now have under our law, which limits the height of non-fireproof buildings to seventy-five feet, and also places certain limitations upon the area of buildings? Did he understand that Mr. Carrere was in favor of that? To this Mr. Carrere replied negatively, and explained that he meant to say that any limitation which may be established, even those which we now have, is apt to operate unfairly unless it is permanent.

"If you should raise the limit of the height of your buildings fifty per cent., it would be unfair to the men who have built under the existing law. If you should reduce the height fifty per cent., it would be unfair to those who want to build in comparison to those who have built; and I wanted simply to bring that point to your attention, that any regulation which is restrictive is apt to be when modified a hardship upon those that have built under that regulation, and therefore it ought to be laid very cautiously. . . . My idea is to have the limitations as broad as you possibly can and made operative as long as possible, and not limitations that are drastic and so imperative that their repeal would be asked for at an early date, and cause injustice to those who would be compelled to build under them."

THE REALM OF BUILDING.

Investigations of Structural Materials.

By Richard L. Humphrey.*

WITH the problems arising from the growing scarcity and consequent increase in the price of wood, principally lumber used in building construction, the search for a desirable substitute becomes a matter of prime importance and justifies the work now being done by the United States Geological Survey in its structural materials testing laboratories at St. Louis. The increased use of concrete in many forms during the past few years, especially for building purposes, has created a great demand for information regarding the structural value of this material. For a number of years limited investigations designed to obtain this information have been carried on by a number of investigators throughout the country, but no serious attempt at co-operation in this work had been made until a few years ago, when the United States Geological Survey, recognizing the need of information and co-operation, procured a small appropriation for making tests of structural material and invited various technical societies to take part in the work.

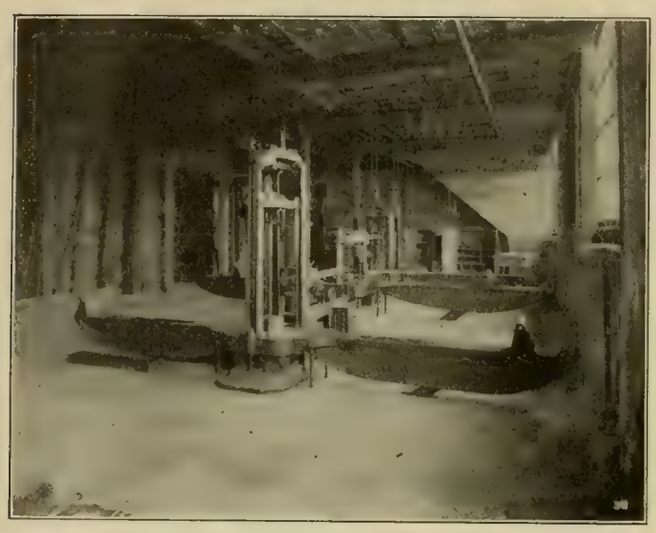

FIG. 1. THREE CONCRETE BEAM TESTING MACHINES.

A committee called the Joint Committee on Concrete and Reinforced Concrete was invited to assist in outlining the work at the laboratories. This committee is composed of members of the American Society of Civil Engineers, the American Society for Testing Materials, the American Railway Engineering and Maintenance of Way Association, and the Association of American Portland Cement Manufacturers. The leading professors of engineering from almost all of the large colleges in the country are members of this committee, and they exercise general supervision over the work. An Advisory Board composed of engineers representing sections throughout the country was at once created and has had general supervision of the work.

Tests are being carried on to determine the value of different sands, stones and other materials used in the manufacture of concrete. The material is shipped from all parts of the country by geologists connected with the work and a complete record of the material is sent in by them. At the laboratories this material is made into mortar and concrete by using the different percentages ordinarily employed in practical work and following as closely as possible practical conditions.

In addition to the study of the constituent materials of mortars and concretes, structures of various kinds similar to those used in buildings are made and tested. The equipment of the laboratories at St. Louis for carrying on this work is very complete. In addition to all needed smaller apparatus there are four testing machines of 200,000 pound capacity and one of 100,000 pound capacity, suitable for testing beams and other structures used in buildings. These machines will test beams up to twenty feet in length and are equipped to make tests of the different materials used in construction work. Three of these machines used in the beam division are shown in Fig. 1.

Besides these particular machines another one, having a working capacity of 600,000 pounds, will in a few weeks be installed at the laboratories at St. Louis. As far as known at this time there is only one other machine in the United States similar to this. This machine will make it possible to test columns, beams, and in fact all the different kinds of construction material now used. It will test reinforced concrete girders up to spans thirty feet in length and concrete columns up to thirty feet in length. The value of such tests as these is readily apparent, since their results can be applied directly to practical work. A very serious objection to the use of results obtained in tests made by private investigators is due to the fact that the tests were applied only to small specimens not nearly approaching in size the parts or pieces used in actual construction. Heretofore it has been necessary to consult the results of these small tests in order to have some basis for design, but it is now clearly recognized that the best results can be obtained only from tests made on members as large as possible, or at least on pieces as large as those ordinarily used in structural work.

All the concrete used at the laboratories is mixed in three Chicago cube concrete mixers, each of which is mounted on skids, geared to a motor and equipped with charging hopper. One of these mixers has a capacity of one cubic yard and the others will contain one-third cubic yard each. After the concrete is mixed it is carefully tamped in molds to form the different pieces on which the tests are made, such as cylinders, cubes and beams. The laboratory also uses five hollow concrete block machines, used for making concrete blocks similar to those used in actual construction, and the several different divisions—the constituent materials division, the beam division, the concrete block division, the permeability, the shear and tension and the chemical division are equipped with all apparatus necessary for conducting their tests. Although reinforced concrete is used to a remarkable extent at the present time, and both concrete and reinforced concrete construction is becoming more and more popular every day, it is evident to any one familiar with construction work that these materials will be more generally employed within the next few years.

The longest beam thus far tested in the beam division has been thirteen feet in length. Beams of this length tested are made without steel; that is, of solid concrete, and also with varying proportions of steel, ranging from very small percentages up to three per cent. A full size beam in the testing machine is shown in Fig. 2; the load is applied at the top of the beam at points four feet from each end. The men conducting the tests watch the beam very closely while it is in the testing machine, and examine its surfaces with magnifying glasses in order to locate the fine cracks as they appear. In the beginning a load of about 5,000 pounds is applied and the machine is stopped with this load on the beam. After the observers have examined the beam carefully and made a record of the cracks appearing at that time, the load is increased, and after every 1,000 pounds additional the beam is again examined until the maximum load is applied. In a large number of tests the beam shows no cracks that are visible to the eye until the maximum load is reached, when the steel reaches its elastic limit and begins to stretch fast, this result ending the test. The cracks that appeared on the beam and the loads at which these cracks appeared are recorded by photographs.

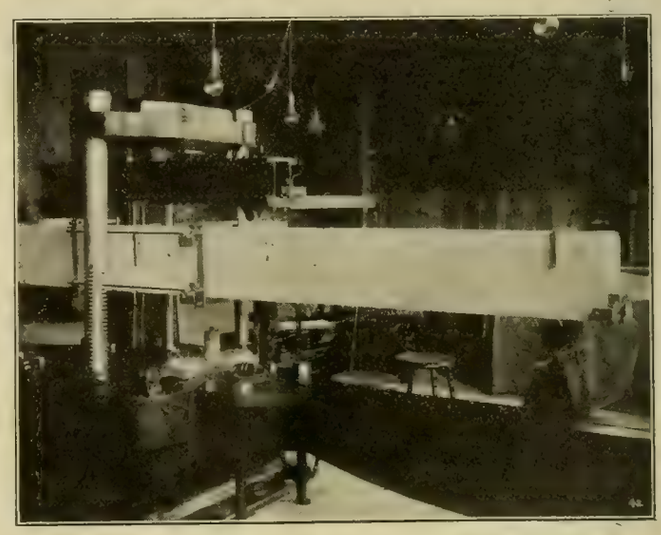

FIG. 2. TESTING A 13-FOOT CONCRETE BEAM.

In beginning tests of reinforced concrete simple round rods were used, as it was thought that more uniform results could thus be had than if any of the patented systems were used. After a complete series of tests with the round rods has been made, it is proposed to take up tests of the different forms of bars that are used in practical work, and the results will be published from time to time by the Geological Survey. Tests will be made of beams ranging from six to twelve feet in length, and because of longer span will be tested later, if necessary, in order to get results that can be applied to almost all practical conditions.

The concrete used in the different beams tested, as described above, is molded into cylinders and cubes, which are tested in order to get the direct strength of the concrete. These cylinders and cubes are all tested at different ages, generally at ages of 7, 28, 90, 180 and 360 days. The cement, sand, stone, gravel, or other material composing the concrete is carefully proportioned by weight, the correct percentage of water is used and the whole mass is placed in a mixer and thoroughly mixed. It is then deposited carefully in molds or forms, which after twenty-four hours are removed. The concrete is then moved into a storage room, and is there sprinkled with water three times each day. Each test piece is numbered on a card index, which tells where information relating to the test pieces can be found, and also indicates the dates on which the different pieces are to be tested.

A branch of the work that should be of interest to everybody, especially the small home builder, is the investigation of cement building blocks. Many houses are now built of cement blocks in preference to wood, because generally cement block construction is cheaper and better than wood, since it is fireproof, more durable and less expensive to maintain. The exterior surfaces of wooden buildings must be painted, and clapboards must be added from time to time; but when the cement block building is finished, the surface is there once for all; no further treatment, no repairs, no maintenance are necessary.

All the cement blocks used in these investigations are mixed in the concrete block machines. The concrete is mixed in a one-third cubic yard cubical concrete mixer and deposited on the floor of the testing room. It is then shoveled into the hollow block machines and compacted very firmly in the forms. Varying proportions of concrete, sand and stone are used in order to determine the relative value and economy of using different mixtures. Some blocks are made of wet concrete, others of concrete very dry, and still others of concrete having a consistency medium between wet and dry. In actual practice, concrete blocks made from comparatively dry concrete is usually preferred by the manufacturers, for these blocks harden quickly and the forms may be removed almost as soon as all the concrete is placed in the machine. By this practice it is possible to use the same machine for making a large number of blocks each day, whereas when wet concrete is used, the blocks must remain in the machine for a much longer time before they can be removed. When the concrete blocks are removed from the forms they are placed in the storage room and tested at different ages. Cylinders are also made from the same concrete that is used in the blocks, and the results of tests of the cylinders and of the blocks establish a relation between the strength of the concrete in the cylinder and that of the concrete in the block.

When the blocks and cylinders are placed in the storage-room, each test piece is numbered and its number is filed away on a card in a card index. Each card bears the date on which the test piece is to be tested and the cards are filed in chronological order. This brings the current date at the front of the drawer each morning, when cards bearing the same date are taken out and the pieces are taken from the storage-room and tested. The results are compiled on forms and later published in reports issued by the Geological Survey.

Concrete blocks are tested at the laboratories in two different ways; first as shown in Fig. 3, to see how much of a centre load each block will stand. Although blocks are not actually subjected to a load of this kind in practice, the results of this test make it possible to compare the relative values of different building blocks. Second, after the block has been broken at the centre by this load, each half is placed in the testing machine and crushed, in order to find the crushing strength of the block. The results of this crushing test show how much pressure similar cement blocks will stand when used in actual building construction.

The results of the great fires at San Francisco and at Baltimore demonstrated very clearly the fact that modern buildings are not so nearly fireproof as they should be and as they can be made. The lack of fireproofing in the past has been due somewhat to the reluctance of owners to add a small percentage to the cost of their buildings by properly fireproofing them. The failure to employ fireproof construction more generally, however, was due in part to the fact that proper information was lacking, and many engineers, architects and owners who tried to make their buildings fireproof used all the information at their command at the time of building.

The art of fireproofing has been developed rapidly within a few years, but there is still much to be done, especially in relation to the fire-resisting properties of concrete. In order to obtain information to meet these needs, a series of fire tests is being carried on by the Geological Survey at the Fire Underwriters' Laboratory in Chicago. When these tests are completed, the results will not only show engineers and architects what material is best for fireproofing and how much should be used to procure the best results, but will also teach the small builder, the builder of a home, what kind of a cement block is best adapted to make his house fireproof.

It is the consensus of opinion among engineers that a reasonably fireproof building can be constructed, and it is hoped that the art of fireproofing will be so developed in the next few years that the public will also be convinced that this is true. It is also desirable that the public should be thoroughly informed as to the fire-resisting qualities of the various classes of building materials, and it is expected that the work being done by the United States Geological Survey will furnish reliable information, not only on this subject, but also in regard to the strength and other properties of these materials.

The Production of Asphalt and Bituminous Rock in 1906.

The total production of asphalt in the United States in 1906 amounted to 138,059 short tons, valued at $1,290,340, as against 115,265 short tons, valued at $758,153, in 1905, an increase in 1906 of 20 per cent. in quantity and of 70 per cent. in value.

The term asphalt is here used in its broader sense, and is made to include all varieties, natural and refined, liquid, semi-liquid and solid, from the almost pure bitumen, or oil asphalt, to the bituminous sandstones and limestones. The production of these varieties in 1906 is shown in the following table:

Production of asphalt in 1906, in short tons.

| | Quantity. | Values. |
| Bituminous sandstone | 24,085 | $70,686 |
| Mastic | 2,543 | 24,158 |
| Hard and refined, or gum | 24,178 | 341,106 |
| Liquid or maltha | 9,900 | 86,750 |
| Wurtzilite and Gilsonite | 12,947 | 159,960 |
| Grahamite | 1,952 | 16,432 |
| Oil asphalt | 62,454 | 591,248 |

The great increase in the production of hard and refined (or gum) asphalt in 1906 over that of 1905, which amounted to only 3,036 short tons, is due chiefly to the new refinery development in Texas, although the production of this variety in California in 1906 (8,178 short tons) is 100 per cent. in advance of the total for 1905.

In the production of oil asphalt California stands almost alone, producing 62,361 short tons of the total quantity and showing a substantial increase over the production for 1905. A very small output is reported from Texas.

An advance chapter from "Mineral Resources of the United States, Calendar Year 1906," on the production of asphalt and bituminous rock in 1906, prepared for the United States Geological Survey by Joseph A. Taff, geologist, will soon be ready for distribution, and copies may be obtained without charge by applying to the Director of the Survey at Washington, D. C. The report treats briefly of the occurrence and uses of the material and gives the statistics of production, export and import.

About two-thirds of the asphalt imported into the United States comes from the island of Trinidad, off the coast of Venezuela. The pitch lake from which the asphalt is derived is about 100 acres in area and stands about 138 feet above the sea. The asphalt forming the lake is from 18 to 78 feet thick. The early reports described the material near the middle of the lake as being warm and soft, but now the asphalt is sufficiently firm to support teams at any point long enough to permit loading.

The use of asphalt as a street-paving material and as a constituent of varnishes and of roof and metal paints is well known.

NEWEST GREAT HOTEL

ABOUT a year and one-half ago Mr. H. S. Black, of the United States Realty Company, proprietor of the Hotel Plaza plant at 5th av and 59th st, this city, approached Mr. Fred Sterry with a suggestion that he look over the hotel at the Park entrance with a view to whipping it into line as a profitable proposition. Mr. Sterry looked the plant over carefully and reported that, in his opinion, it would not be a wise policy to attempt any extensive improvements therewith. Then followed the overtures of a brand new hotel, provided Mr. Sterry would run it. As a consequence, on the expiration of F. A. Hammond's contract, the old Plaza was closed, dismantled and, as speedily as possible, razed. An interesting discovery was made in the latter work. Shortly after the completion of the original Plaza it was discovered that its foundations were inadequate and unstable. In fact a large section of the northern wall settled to such an extent that it was necessary to close up the hotel and to expend a large sum of money and much time in lowering and solidifying the foundations. Excavations for the new house's foundations disclosed that, while some of the basic piling terminated in a quicksand-impregnated bog, certain of the piles had been driven to solid rock, where the ends had curled up like gigantic hooks.

The new Plaza Hotel, to be known simply as "The Plaza," has one of the handsomest foregrounds of any metropolitan hostelry in existence. It fronts on Central Park, the main entrance being on 59th st.

The two great dining-rooms of the hotel are on the eastern side, facing on the Plaza. These connect directly with the tea room and are separated by a corridor opening upon the Plaza. The sides of this passage are of glass, removable at will, thus making it easily possible to consolidate the separate rooms into one vast dining hall. As one enters the house from the 58th st side, a women's reception room occupies a suitable space at the right, with three elevators to the top floor, whereby any of the upper portions of the hotel may be reached independently of the main office. Five marble staircases also communicate from the street with every floor.

THE NEW PLAZA HOTEL.
Henry J. Hardenbergh, Architect.

To the northward of the main dining-room is a restaurant and cafe for men; this occupies the 5th av corner and has its entrance directly from that avenue. Another distinguishing feature of the Plaza is its ballroom. It is a handsomely decorated apartment, capable of affording ample facilities for about five hundred people. One of the especial items of this apartment, and one which appeals to one's sense of the fitness of things, is the stage, applicable for a speaker's rostrum, an orchestra and the scenic settings of a theatrical production. On occasion of the floor space being all required for dancing or other purposes, the custodian of the apartment has but to touch a button, the whole structure rises and assumes its province as a balcony, connecting with those on two sides of the apartment, thus forming a continuous gallery. It was no mean feat of electrical installation to lift bodily a steel-frame platform of this character, several tons in weight, to a height of 15 ft. without hitch or friction.

A typical floor of the hotel is arranged with single sleeping rooms with baths, double chambers with two beds and baths; and, from a parlor, one bedroom and bath, the sequence may be extended to parlor, with as many bedrooms and baths as may be desired. The visitor is impressed with the subtle combination of solid elegance and delicate beauty, an effect that must have required no small degree of skillful tact to accomplish.

The principal owners of the hotel, which will be opened on September 23, are Harry S. Black, president of the U. S. Realty and Improvement Company; John W. Gates, who is to occupy a forty-five thousand dollar a year suite in the new hotel; Hallgarten & Co., bankers, and Benjamin Beinecke. The George A. Fuller Co. is the builder. The hotel represents a total investment of $12,500,000—of which $3,500,00 is capital stock, $5,000,000 on mortgage and $4,000,000 on short term notes.

—The first battleship to be propelled by turbine engines is now in course of construction in the Fore River ship building yards at Boston. This big battleship, No. 29, will be equipped with Curtis steam turbines with a total capacity of 25,000 horsepower. The high efficiency of these turbine engines, the absence of reciprocating parts, vibrations and consequent strains are expected to make this battleship the speediest in the Navy. The electrical apparatus on No. 29, and a sister ship to be built by the Newport News Ship Building Company, has been contracted for with the General Electric Company. The generating sets for supplying light and power on both the ships will be driven by small Curtis turbines. Four 300 kilowatt turbo-generating units will be installed on each ship. Approximately 100 motors, of from 2 to 50 horsepower, will be used to operate the auxiliaries, including the forced draft fans, hull ventilation, turret turning, ammunition hoists, winches, cranes, laundry and workshop motors. The battleships will also be equipped with four 36-inch and four 60-inch searchlights. The Curtis steam turbine is best known in the electrical field in connection with the various types of General Electric turbo-generators, of which nearly a thousand units, aggregating over a million horsepower, have been installed during the past four years.

Are Skyscrapers Dangerous?

COMMENTING upon the alarming prophecy by Mr. George W. Babb, president of the New York Board of Fire Underwriters, that there is danger of the skyscraper-district of New York being destroyed by fire, Architect Fitzpatrick, the executive officer of the International Building Inspectors' Society, says that while such a thing is not beyond the realm of possibility, it is highly improbable under present conditions, and could, at slight expense, be made an utter impossibility. The skyscraper-district of New York cannot be compared to anything there was at Baltimore or in San Francisco. In both conflagrations the tall buildings suffered by reason of the vast amount of poor building there was all about them. Fire found but comparatively little to burn within them, and in a great many cases, though damaged themselves, they served as a bulwark, a protection to adjacent and more combustible buildings. In Baltimore, as a matter of fact, as soon as the fire reached the skyscraper district, small as it was, it burnt itself out in them, and they actually saved the city beyond them, stopping the fire much as a dyke does the inrush of floodtide.

"In New York the downtown district is immeasurably better built generally than is that of any other city. There are more tall buildings, and these, serving almost exclusively as offices, contain the minimum of combustible material. Their tall steel frames, protected and enclosed with imperishable brick and hollow tile fireproofing, give a fire in the contents of the buildings nothing of a structural nature to feed upon and destroy.

"No, the skyscraper district of New York is about the safest place from fire in the whole country, and if the owners of the buildings would but go to work and put wired glass in metal sash in the windows where they have not already done so, thus making it absolutely impossible for fire to find ingress into the tall buildings from without, that district would be so safe that little or no insurance would need be carried upon the buildings about which Mr. Babb is so much perturbed."

Figures of Wage Increase.

The annual investigation of the Bureau of Labor into wages and the retail prices of food, the report on which has just been placed in the hands of the printer, shows that in the principal manufacturing and mechanical industries of the country average wages per hour in 1906 were 4.5% higher than in 1905, the regular hours of labor per week were 0.5% lower, and the number of employes in the establishments investigated was 7% greater. The average full-time weekly earnings per employe in 1906 were 3.9% greater than in 1905.

During 1906 wages were increased generally in nearly all industries, 40 of the 41 industries covered by the investigation showing some increase.

In the building trades the increase is 6.1 per cent. In the manufacture of electrical apparatus and supplies the increase was 10.1 per cent. In street and sewer work done by contract the increase was 8.7 per cent.; in iron and steel, Bessemer converting, 8.5 per cent., and in the manufacture of cigars, 8.4 per cent. In the manufacture of bar iron the increase in wages per hour was 6.9 per cent. Briefly stated, two industries showed an increase in hourly wages of more than 10 per cent., 7 industries an increase of 5 per cent. but less than 10 per cent., and 31 industries an increase of less than 5 per cent. In the industries as a whole, weighted according to importance, the increase in hourly wages was 4.5 per cent.

Points on the Material Market.

Plenty of money, but thin in spots.

Lime is in heavy demand, with prices firm.

Wanted—For a short period—an automatic distributing machine for investment money.

Building activities have reached the point where the money market is the all-important question.

Brick builders are getting their materials cheap at present. Common brick is at the lowest level of the season.

Contractors and builders will now get the money coming to them from the City, as Comptroller Metz has had great success with his bond sale.

The only feature in the smooth wire market during the week was the advance of five cents per 100 pounds. Business is still small, although specifications against old contracts are heavy.

Over 4,000 tons of steel will be required in the construction of the Queens approach to the Blackwell's Island Bridge, for which the Maryland Steel Co., 71 Broadway, is low bidder, at $758,600, as reported last week.

Mr. J. P. Morgan's leadership unquestionably made the City bond sale a great success. So many followed his flag, he did not get all the bonds he expected, and so he has millions left, for which he must seek other investments.

An American consul in France writes of the opportunity to sell American lumber, such as red gum, oak, cypress and poplar. Correspondence should be in French, and measurements given according to the metric system. Quotations should be in francs.

R. G. Dun & Co. report that in most sections of the country commercial activity is fully maintained, and negotiations for fall and winter trade indicate no loss of confidence, but at a few points the weather has not favored the crops, which causes conservatism pending more definite information.

Business in hardwoods continues heavy, and prices are stiff. There is likewise a growing tendency on the part of some of the largest buyers here to curtail purchases to the minimum in a belief that the hardwood situation will ease up considerably, both in the matter of supply, as well as price.

W. H. Kirtland, the well-known slate dealer, said that the tendency to slowness in speculative building in this city had undoubtedly hurt the slate business to a great extent. Much of this material is used in flat houses and apartments. Roofing slate, however, is in good demand and the only trouble is that there is not much to be had. Recently the quarries raised the price 25 cents per square, and it is said that all of the producers of roofing slate are working hard to catch up with orders.

Before the establishment of American tin-plate manufacture this country took much more of the Welsh product than all other countries combined. The United States to-day receives less than one-seventh of the exports from Wales, though still the largest single customer. For the fiscal year ended June 30 our imports of tin and terne plates were 63,629 gross tons, as compared with 53,937 tons in the previous year. Meanwhile our production is at the rate of about 550,000 gross tons a year.

Another silent testimony of the confidence remaining in the country's continued prosperity is the large order for railway equipment just contracted for with the General Electric Co. by the Utah Light and Railway Co., of Salt Lake City. The Utah company is planning large extensions to its present 90 miles of track and will install 50 new cars. The contract calls for fifty complete quadruple equipments consisting of 200 GE-80 40 horsepower motors with K-28 controllers. In addition the company has ordered 74 GE-80 motors, with extra controllers, circuit breakers, rheostats, etc., for the re-equipment of old cars.

Building interests have now endured the money stringency for more than a year, and under all the circumstances they have held up well and given evidence of the sound basis on which they are proceeding. Everywhere there is confidence in a return of the maximum yield of work, equal to the record of the year 1905, as soon as the tide of outside money now pouring into the voids of the market begins to gain upon the demand and to lower the rates of interest. The lessened building in Manhattan has aided in maintaining rent schedules, and real estate values, as well as to indirectly fill vacancies in apartments caused by a previous overproduction and this summer's large emigration to the suburbs.

New Public Building in Washington.

(See Illustration.)

The new building of the International Bureau of American Republics will be unique, not only in Washington, but in all the world. It will serve as the international headquarters or offices in one national capital of twenty-one different American nations. The nearest approach to it will be the new Temple of Peace now being erected at The Hague. The cost of this Pan-American structure, when it is fully completed and ready for occupany, will be nearly $1,000,000, of which Mr. Andrew Carnegie generously contributed $750,000, and the different American nations approximately $250,000.

The revised drawings of the architects have just been approved by the United States Secretary of State, Elihu Root, Chairman of the Governing Board of the Bureau, and John Barrett, the Director and chief administrative officer, after having been originally selected from the largest architectural competition in the history of Washington, in which 130 leading North American architects entered. The winners in this contest were Albert Kelsey and Paul P. Cret, associate architects, of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

This imposing international building will stand on one of the most attractive and commanding sites of ground in the national capital, commonly known as the Van Ness Tract, which covers five acres, or about two hectares, facing the Presidential grounds, or White Lot, on the east, and Potomac Park on the south, at the corner of 17th and B streets. This site is only two blocks below the Corcoran Art Gallery, next to the new building of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and within a short distance of the Washington Monument.

The dimensions of the building will be approximately 160 by 160 feet, or 52 by 52 meters. The main portion will stand two stories above a high studded basement, and will, in turn, be surmounted by dignified balustrades. The rear portion, in order to cover the capacious Assembly Hall, will rise still higher. It will be constructed throughout of steel and concrete, with the effect of a Spanish stucco finish and with white marble steps, foundations and trimmings. The roofs will be of colored Spanish tile, and the interior exposed portions will be decorated with polychrome terra cotta.

The general architecture will suggest Latin American treatment out of respect to the fact that twenty of the twenty-one American republics are of Latin origin, but it will possess such monumental characteristics as will make it harmonize with the improvement of Washington. No building contracts yet awarded.

Monolith Building Nears Completion.

Nearing completion in West 35th Street, between 5th and 6th avenues, is the twelve-story "Monolith" Building. Its walls, foundations and piers are of concrete. In these places concrete is at its best. Cast-iron columns are protected from fire by terra cotta blocks.

In the floor construction a compromise has been made between all-concrete floor and a steel I-beam floor with concrete or hollow tile arches between the beams. The concrete beams have been retained, but like steel beams they have between them hollow tile blocks which protect all but their bottom edges in event of fire. Inside partitions are all made of porous terra cotta hollow blocks, so that each room is capable of localizing any fire which might start within it.

Building a Skyscraper.

REPRESENTED herein is the new home of the Trust Company of America, at 37-43 Wall st, which will be occupied next Monday, Sept. 16. About 90 per cent. of the building was rented before it was ready for occupancy, on May 1st last. The list of officers include Oakleigh Thorne, president; Frank L. Hilton, secretary; H. B. Fonda, treasurer.

A modern office building often houses 4,000 persons, and the amount of daily business transacted in such a structure is proved by a recent count of elevator traffic, which showed that in a single building more than 60,000 persons, a number about equal to the entire population of Yonkers, Portland, Me., or Oakland, Cal., had been transported up and down during business hours.

TRUST COMPANY OF AMERICA.
37-43 Wall Street. Francis H. Kimball, Architect.

The work of putting up such a building is one which requires many months, even before the foundations reach the level of the street, and during the past year the Trust company's building has furnished a striking illustration of the possibilities of modern construction methods.

With the increase in the number of huge buildings the construction of suitable foundations has become a science in itself. Not only must the weight of the building be known, but also the character of the soil and rock beneath the building site. The foundation contractors, after getting the architect's figures as to the weight of the structure to be erected, turn to their files and from them learn the probable conditions to be found when the excavations are made. The ability to gauge these conditions is based on knowledge accumulated gradually as a firm's business increases, and it becomes a valuable stock in trade.

Planting skyscrapers on Manhattan, however, is a simpler task than similar operations carried on in some other cities. Here nature built upon a rock foundation, with a comparatively thin layer of soil for a covering, in consequence of which the work of supporting a building, though arduous, is not a difficult feat of engineering.

To reach rock bottom in excavating for the Trust company's building it was necessary to sink the foundations far below the tidewater level, which was reached at a level about 30 feet below the curb. At that level there was constructed, as the first step in sinking each caisson, a working chamber for the "sandhogs," or laborers employed in the excavation.

The trade of the "sandhog' has grown to such importance that its members are bound together by a union, which has drawn up, with experience as a basis, a set of rules the most important of which regulates the length of time a man may work under various degrees of air pressure. The normal pressure of the atmosphere is approximately 16 pounds to the square inch. In caisson sinking the pressure is artificially increased one-half pound to every foot added to the depth of the excavation. In ratio to the pressure the strain on human endurance increases. Thus, while the "sandhogs" may work for eight hours under no more than 20 pounds' pressure, when the pressure rises as high as 25, four shifts of men work in every 24 hours.

The immediate welfare of the "sandhogs" is guarded by a lad who sits just outside the caisson with his eyes glued for hours at a time on an air gauge, on the dial of which is registered the slightest fluctuation of the pressure inside. It is his business, by means of valves, to keep the pressure steady and to notice and give warning of any unusual conditions.

Building Operations for August.

A great volume of building and construction is still going on throughout the United States. Official reports, from some fifty representative building centres show a gain in twenty-two cities and a loss in twenty-eight cities as compared with August, 1906:

| City. | Aug., 1907, cost. | Aug., 1906, cost. | Per cent. gain. | Per cent. loss. |
| Baltimore | $676,628 | $712,970 | .. | 5 |
| Birmingham | 200,257 | 205,744 | .. | 2 |
| Chicago | 4,492,275 | 5,439,175 | .. | 17 |
| Cambridge | 96,400 | 94,675 | 1 | .. |

JUST AN ADDITION

System M A three tier addition on top

Not as large, to be sure, as many we have finished or have now in work, but more important than many for the following reasons:

The original building was most substantially built by Architect Post. The architects for this addition, Koehler & Farnsworth, would accept no construction less substantial. Time of completion was a most important factor. Price was also not disregarded.

System M (patents pending) won this job twice in competition and is now being installed by the

New Catalogues.

"ELECTRIC HEATING AND COOKING DEVICES FOR MARINE USE" is the title of a handsome publication just issued by the General Electric Company as Bulletin No.. 4523. The pamphlet is bound in a neat cover and contains illustrated descriptions of small apparatus particularly useful in ships' galleys, staterooms, smoking-rooms, sick bays, etc.

A ship's lighting plant, usually of more than ample capacity for intermittent load, offers at once an available source of supply, which, utilized for cooking, heating, etc., would provide numerous real and profitable conveniences with small increase in cost.

The electric heater, on account of its compactness, neatness, easy regulation and simplicity is ideal for stateroom use. The General Electric Co. manufactures several forms, including luminous radiators and non-luminous air heaters. One or two-quart water heaters, electric wash bowls and electric shaving mugs are familiar conveniences, and electric flat irons in sizes from 3 to 24 pounds are supplied for the laundry. Among special devices particularly servicable on shipboard may be mentioned electric soldering irons, glue pots, curling iron heaters, surgeon instrument sterilizers, heating pads, cigar lighters, etc.

Two distinct forms of heating elements are used by the General Electric Co., known as the cartridge and quartz enamel units. Both heating units are practically infusible and indestructible, but can be readily replaced if damaged by accident. The makers have taken great care in the design to insure the most efficient application of the heat and sufficient radiating surface so that nearly all the apparatus may be left in circuit indefinitely without fear of burn out.

"BYZANTINE MOSAICS.—A Brochure on the Establishment of a New Industry in Louisville by the American Mosaic and Tile Company," is the title of a neat little booklet issued by the company referred to.

The brochure presents some historical facts touching mosaic work in Rome and Venice, and demonstrates the ability of the company to furnish a very high order of that line of artistic and classical work. This is largely due to their having secured the services of Albino Tizian, whom they induced to come to this country for the express purpose of introducing art mosaic in Louisville. Mr. Tizian is a thoroughly competent artist in this class of work and comes to them after a long and honorable association with the well known house of A. Salviati & Co., of Venice. The beauty of mosaic work is undisputed and those interested in the artistic should write the company for a copy of this booklet.

LOCK-JOINT METAL SHINGLES.—Published by the Eller Manufacturing Co., Canton, O.

The new lock joint employed on the Champion Shingles is one of the most ingenious patented devices that has ever been brought to our attention. Those interested in roofing in any of its various forms, will do well to investigate this system. A copy of the catalogue can be secured free of charge by addressing the manufacturers as above. The Eller Manufacturing Company, successor to J. H. Eller & Co., is an extensive manufacturer of metal ceilings, cornice, syklights, window frames, eaves-trough, conductor pipe, tin plate, hangers, roofing, siding, metal shingles and the like.

How to Cut Tile.

The tile is marked with a lead pencil along the line where it is to be cut. The tile setter places it upon his knee and with the aid of the chisel, beginning at one end of the lead pencil line, he makes a number of slight indentations across the tile by means of a quick light blow with the hammer. It is necessary to deepen this indentation, depending on the tile, by cutting along it a second and sometimes a third time. The indentation completed, the tile is turned over and struck gently with the narrow edge of the hammer, and it nearly almost splits along the line of indentation. In making this indentation the tile must not be placed on anything hard, but on a yielding surface. The knee of the mechanic is the best suited and the most convenient. If the cut is at all irregular, it may be dressed with the chisel and hammer, holding the tile between the knees. It can be made perfectly true by grinding it on a firebrick sprinkled with sharp sand and wet with a little water.

How "Antique" Oak is Made.

The manufacture of antique oak is one of the easiest of processes. The boards, moldings, panels, or whatever pieces are required, are made of oak which has just had time to dry sufficiently to prevent excessive warping.

They are then placed in a dark room, on the floor of which and quite close to the furniture to be "aged" are placed several bowls, plates and so forth of liquid ammonia. The room is then hermetically closed up, and the wood is left for a month or so, according to the age which is required. The coloration will extend to a depth of nearly a quarter of an inch, if the room is kept closed for a few months.

Aids to Business Making.

A prominent 5th av broker, whose initials are "M. C.," said to us the other day: "The list of property owners in the Real Estate Directory is invaluable. If we ever hear of a property being sold we look at once to see whether the seller owns any in a locality in which we are interested. That method has given us more cheap property than any other."

Aids to Business Making.

The object of real estate records is to increase your business possibilities to an extent inconceivable to any one who has not used the Real Estate Directory and Record & Guide Quarterly. And yet we are told at times, "We don't go after that kind of business." What would you think of the hunter who had a gun, which would only kill at one hundred yards, if you offered him a gun which would kill at two hundred yards, and he said: "I don't want it. I never bag game at two hundred yards."

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD.

Managing an Apartment House.

THE MANAGEMENT of property is a distinct and in some ways a most troublesome feature of the real estate business. Many brokers do not undertake it, as it requires so much of their time that the sales end of the business necessarily suffers. So many matters come up for daily adjustment; so many complaints from tenants, many of them most unreasonable, that it takes a man of peculiar temperament to stand the strain.

The first thing to do when a house is received in a broker's office is to go through each apartment carefully and note what is necessary to place it in good condition. The plumbing should be tested, the roof examined and the furnace looked after, that the fire can be lighted on the first cold day. The main flue from the firebox should be cleaned and coal ordered during the summer months when the price is cheapest. Then all is ready to build the fire and save untold trouble. Probably more complaints come into a broker's office on the second day of the first "cold snap" than on any other day during the year; and it is one time when the tenant is right, for there is more sickness after the first cold November days than at almost any other period. A great deal of such trouble can be avoided by foresight on the part of the agent in charge.

Now to the question of repairs. It is a difficult matter for the agent to satisfy the owner, as their ideas frequently are radically different. The question continually asked by owners of property is, "Why are decorators' bills so high? Last year they were not nearly so large." The additional cost of labor, material, etc., is gone into at some length by the agent, and while the owner in a measure sees the force of the explanation, he cannot forget that he has to pay out more money, though he entirely overlooks the fact that he is getting more rent than he did in former years.

To successfully take charge of an apartment house the agent's office should be for various reasons in the vicinity of the property. Should an accident occur, such as a bad leak, the agent can get to the house quickly; a prospective tenant nearly always seeks a broker's office in the neighborhood in which she wishes to locate; and should the call be at the house first and the prospective occupancy be referred to the agent by the janitor, it is an advantage that the distance is not far. There is every reason from both the owner's and the agent's standpoints why the agent's office should be as near the house as possible.

In taking charge of and managing an apartment house successful results depend largely on the character of the janitor. A good man, however, is very hard to get. It is false economy to underpay him, for, if he were taught to remember that he is in the employ of the owner of the house, instead of some few tenants who tip him, it would be much easier to get satisfactory results from a house. It is almost impossible for a tenant who fails to tip the average janitor to get a civil reply from him, though such a condition would not exist were a better class of man employed. The owner lays great weight on the fact that the janitor gets his rooms free. Those occupied by the janitor and his family nevertheless are often ones that could not be rented, and while it is true he has a place in which to sleep and eat, he must have sufficient wages to supply his other wants and make him desirous to hold his place.

A regular system should be adopted in the collection of rents, and the tenants should be induced, in a polite manner, to have the rent ready on a certain date. If the agent does his part and calls in person at the apartment, at the time expected, he will have better success in collections. How often does an agent hear that "the money was ready for you yesterday, but you did not come." Get the tenant to understand—putting it as nicely as possible—that the agent should have his money at a stipulated time, as there are other houses to be visited and that an accounting is expected at regular periods by the owner, and much will have been accomplished towards making tenants regular in their payments, owner's well satisfied and an agent's business cares less disagreeable. After all, tenants are creatures of habit, and an agent can induce them to "get the habit" of paying their rent promptly. At all events, the reverse is true; a dilatory and undiplomatic and irregular agent can make poor paying tenants of even the best of their class.

The agent should make arrangements with carpenters, plumbers, glaziers, painters, etc., to have them give preference to the agent's work, so that when an order for repairs is given it will receive immediate attention. The class of work, the generosity in expenditures on a house, depends entirely on the class of building. In connection with a tenement which rents, say for ten dollars a month for three rooms, great care should be exercised in repairs, or payments in such items will soon amount to three or four months' rent.

Registration of Titles.

The appointment by Governor Hughes of a commission to examine into the Torrens system of land registration has focused the attention of real estate men on that method of real estate transfer. For the benefit of our readers who may be interested in this matter, the Record and Guide presents the following paper from a lawyer of New York, who is not a member of the Torrens commission, but has made a study of the subject.

THE agitation in New York State for the adoption of a system of registration of titles, commonly known as the "Torrens System," has arisen because of obvious defects in our present system. Real estate owners, brokers, attorneys and, in fact, all persons who have been close observers of the method of searching and examining titles for purposes of transfer or mortgage loans, have become convinced that some method should be devised whereby the transfer of land can be made with greater freedom and with a minimum of expense. It is fortunate, however, that the Legislature at its last session did not pass the bill introduced at that session, the provisions of which were practically unknown to real estate owners throughout the State. No method of land transfer, different from that now in use, will be generally adopted until the real estate public are convinced that the proposed system is free from defects and involves no risk or hardship by reason of its adoption. For this reason the appointment by the Governor, pursuant to an Act passed by the Legislature of a Commission to examine into the Torrens System of land registration, should prove of great benefit in establishing the facts upon this subject.

The bill introduced at the last session of the Legislature of this State, is largely patterned after the Illinois statute passed in 1897. It appears that the system provided for under the Illinois statute has been adopted in only one county in Illinois, namely Cook County, in which the City of Chicago is situated. The attitude of real estate owners in the City of Chicago toward this system of land registration is therefore of much interest. Since the adoption of the system in Chicago 2,071 certificates of title have been issued, representing real estate valued at $9,492,660. During the year 1906 there were 911 transfers under the Torrens System, and they covered property the value of which was given as $1,685,995. During the same period there were recorded under the old system 29,795 transfers, representing a total value of $132,000,156. Under the Illinois statute provision is made for an indemnity fund, somewhat similar to that contained in the proposed bill introduced in the New York Legislature. The amount of the indemnity fund in Cook County on May 1, 1907, was less than $10,000.

One possible reason for the failure of the Torrens System to come into more general use in Chicago, is that the lenders of money on bond and mortgage apparently have not cared to make loans on real estate registered under the Torrens System. The provision of the Illinois statute, that two years must elapse from the time the title is registered until the applicant can secure a final certificate, free from attack, has deterred many applicants from using the system. A similar provision or statute of limitation was incorporated in the bill introduced in the New York Legislature.

The experience in other commonwealths throughout the United States has not been materially different. The Torrens System went into effect in the State of California in the year 1897, but up to the first part of this year no decrees have been issued under it. In the State of Oregon and Colorado a similar system has been adopted, but does not seem to have been generally used. Minnesota passed a Torrens Act in 1901, and it is in operation in three counties in which the cities of Duluth, Minneapolis and St. Paul are situated. In St. Paul the system appears to have been popular, there having been 2,464 certificates issued since the law went into effect. In Minneapolis the record is not so favorable.

The matter of the adoption of a Torrens System of land registration was first formally presented to the Legislature of the State of Massachusetts in the year 1891, and was before the Legislature each year thereafter until the act was finally passed in 1898. The chief point of divergence between the Massachusetts act and that of Illinois, of interest to property owners, is the fact that only 30 days need elapse from the time that the examination is completed on behalf of the State until a final certificate is issued, instead of a period of two years under the Illinois statute.

For some reason which does not yet appear, the Torrens System has not been generally adopted by real estate owners in the State of Massachusetts. In some counties, mostly in the rural section, there have been no registrations of title under the act since its adoption in 1898. In the northern district of Bristol County, where the City of Taunton is situated, only three titles have been registered in nine years. In Salem, situated in the southern district of Essex County, 94 certificates have been issued since 1898, and in the year 1906 104 instruments of various kinds were registered under the Torrens System as compared with 20,928 instruments recorded under the old system during the same year. In Fall River not more than two or three titles have been registered in any one year since the law went into effect. In Franklin and Nantucket counties no registrations have been made. In the City of Worcester 49 titles have been registered in all; in Barnstable County, 22; in Norfolk County, 136.

The working of the Massachusetts system in the City of Boston should prove instructive to the commission appointed by the New York Legislature, and will no doubt be clearly investigated. The chief objection made to the Massachusetts statute by its opponents is that it is unconstitutional. The State of Illinois has sought to obviate this attack on its statute by providing a two years statute of limitation, and a similar provision was inserted in the New York bill. The constitutionality of the Massachusetts statute has never been definitely determined. It was distinctly upheld by the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts, the opinion being written by Chief Justice Holmes, now of the United States Supreme Court bench. A writ of error from this decision to the Supreme Court of the United States was dismissed in December, 1900, upon the ground that the petitioner for the writ did not have such an interest in the plot of real estate affected by the registration under the Torrens act as to be damaged by any action thereunder. The question of the constitutionality of the act was therefore not passed upon. X.

Land Taxation.

GOVERNOR HUGHES and Representative Cannon, in their speeches at Bluff Point took the same ground which was taken by Mr. Edward Polak in his interview in last week's Record and Guide, when he said that "the increase of taxation on land in Germany is a faint attempt of the government to get back public wealth that has been appropriated by private individuals. The Governor said:

"The disposition has been manifested in former days to regard the State as something rich, something powerful, something full of privilege from which a man can get something for his individual enrichment without thought of the community. That disposition is less frequently apparent and it will not flourish successfully long. We are suffering in New York here and there from ill-considered grants made by the State.

"Not long ago a question came up in regard to a grant of water power on the St. Lawrence. A great community desired industrial development; capitalists were eager to make the required investment; the question came before me and it seemed to me important that a precedent should be established that the water powers of the State were for the benefit of the people of the State, and that while industry should be welcomed and encouraged and no improper obstruction placed in the way of industrial or commercial progress, yet those that received preference from the State should render to the State its honest due.

"And it must be recognized that no one in the future under the watchful eye of the people is going to get away with very much that belongs to the community as a whole without rendering a due return and without getting it on concessions which promise benefit to the community as a whole."

Speaker Cannon endorsed the remarks of the Governor, and added:

"I might make mention of the fact that the State of Illinois giving up all the bed of the lake to the centre of the lake granted to the Illinois Railroad every foot of land that they should reclaim that was adjacent to their track, and that grant, if it had stood, would have been worth five times the whole Illinois Central system. It was tried in court and the court said that the sovereign State could not divest itself by legislative enactment of that power exercised for the benefit of the people. That was a good decision; it was right and proper."

Commenting on the foregoing excerpts, Mr. Polak remarked this week that the case of the Illinois Central Railroad related to only one piece of public property which the railroads have taken. The total amount of public lands which the railroads have appropriated must reach into the billions.

"The Pennsylvania Railroad has a franchise (land) in Pittsburgh which is conceded to be worth $7,000,000, yet the railroad company refused to pay its actual taxes on this land and furthermore disputes the right of the city of Pittsburgh to levy taxes on this land at all.

"Governor Hughes in his speech at Bluff Point, N. Y., makes a clear distinction between private property and public property. He enunciates the principle laid down by a great economist: "That which belongs to the individual should be his as against the world, and that which belongs to the community should be theirs and not the individuals.' As soon as the people will recognize the distinction between wealth produced by the community and wealth produced by the individual, then will be recognized the difference between just and unjust property."

Personal.

Mr. Edward O. A. Glokner, member of the firm of Louis Becker & Co., 2003 Amsterdam av, has returned to the city after a vacation of several weeks at Asbury Park.

Codification of Ordinances.

The report of the committee on Codification of Ordinances, submitted to the Board of Aldermen August 27 and published September 6, contains the General Ordinances of the City of New York, with the Building Code, the Sanitary Code and the Park ordinances printed as chapters. The general ordinances embrace the substance of all legal ordinances found to be in existence on August 1, 1907, after eliminating acts affecting only certain sections of the city and retaining only such provisions as were not already included in the General Ordinances. This has necessitated the subordination of the local ordinances to the provisions of the general ordinances.

It seems to the committee to be desirable that all ordinances which may hereafter be enacted shall be general in their character, and so far as possible, shall, when introduced, be introduced as amendments to certain specified sections of the Code.

No changes have been made in the Building Code other than those made by the Bureau of Buildings, except the changes of the words "Commissioner" to "Superintendent" of Buildings, "Department" to "Bureau" of Buildings, and the names of certain other departments referred to in the Building Code have been changed to comply with the names of the departments in accordance with the provisions of the charter.

The repealing clause of the Building Code has been omitted for the reason that the general enacting clause found on the first page of the General Code covers the provisions of such repealing clause. The Sanitary Code contains only such amendments as have been made by the Board of Health and duly certified by the Secretary of said Board to the City Clerk. What is true of the Sanitary Code with reference to amendments is also true of the Park Ordinances.

For the purpose of calling attention to the new matters which are recommended as proposed amendments or revisions of the Code, the committee has underlined such ordinances and portions as contain a change of words or of substance. This rule has been followed in cases where the matter embodied in the amendment was formerly an ordinance or part of an ordinance, referring to only a portion of the city, but now incorporated by the proposed amendments in some general ordinances.

In several cases the committee has recommended the repeal of certain ordinances, on the ground that they conflict with the provisions of the Greater New York charter; or that the provisions of the Greater New York charter have been found to cover all the provisions of an ordinance, and to have provided for the subject of such ordinance in a more complete way than the provisions of the ordinance itself. There are several instances where the committee has eliminated certain sections which are mere special resolutions and do not come within the proper definition of an ordinance. Instances of this sort may be found in reference to the establishing of markets, court yards, certain specified streets, and the appointment by the Mayor of trustees whom the Mayor would have power to appoint, in any event.

The enacting and repealing clause of all amendments has been stricken out, in place of which will be one general enacting and repealing clause. In one or two instances the committee has recommended a new ordinance. These instances, however, occur in cases where suggestions have been made by some department or official or by some body of citizens who have deplored the lack of some ordinance to cover each point in question. It will be noted that, in all such cases the ordinance suggested supplies an apparent defect in the Code or rounds out what is now an incomplete or unenforceable piece of legislation.

A New Way to Attract Home Buyers.

Perhaps one of the most attractive propositions which has as yet been presented to prospective home buyers is that offered by Wood, Harmon & Co. in connection with the sale of 20 brick and stone, semi-detached, 2-family houses which that firm are completing in 44th and 45th sts, near 18th av, Brooklyn. The houses in question have six rooms and bath on the second floor and five rooms and bath on the lower floor and will be formally placed on the market on the 30th day of September. It has been announced by the builders that all who purchase before the date of opening will receive a complete set of furniture for one apartment free of expense. The offer specifies curly maple bedroom, furniture, brass bedsteads, and complete mission sets for the dining-rooms and parlors. The purchaser may suit his taste in this respect, however. The plan is unique and is attracting widespread attention.

A Mortgage for $2,200,000.

There was recorded during the week a mortgage for $2,200,000, made by the Fifth Avenue and Thirty-fifth Street Realty Company, in favor of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, covering the southwest corner of Fifth av, and 35th st, 85.9x150, upon which a building of 11 stories in height is now being erected. The obligation is due May 1, 1910, and bears interest at 5½%.

Review of the Week.

THERE is now a greater division of opinion among the real estate fraternity respecting the outlook for a revival of active realty trading than has existed for some time, and, while it is not to be denied that the present state of the real estate market is an enigma which baffles solution, even by trained students of conditions, there need be no cause for concern. Any unusual combination of circumstances and events may usually be counted upon to work a deterring influence on real property negotiations, and the present is no exception to the rule. The market is just now suffering from the prolonged effects of an assuredly stringent money condition as applied to mortgages. It is, besides, handicapped by exceptional opportunities for investment which well rated stocks and bonds are at present offering. Moreover, a succession of holidays, both legal and religious, have not been without their diverting influences; in fact, it is doubtful if a more effective aggregation of depressing factors could be found. Withal this, prices on the whole remain firm, reflecting a strong undercurrent of optimism, and, so far as may be judged, there is little liquidating in evidence among the operators, which is sufficient to indicate their confidence in the present level of values. Broadly speaking, the vast majority of Manhattan and Bronx realty is now in stronger hands, and, in most instances, its owners have so fortified themselves from loss by clever financing of mortgages that they are prepared to hold on indefinitely, knowing full well that upon the loosening up of mortgage funds and a stiffening in the prices of stocks and bonds that buyers must eventually meet their demands. This condition of tightness, so to speak, is not without its good effects, however, for it is acting as a timely check to the many small margined speculations which was characteristic of much of the trading for the several seasons immediately preceding the present. It is frequently asserted that there is a lack of buyers in the field, but the correctness of this reasoning is disproven by the fact that not only are many of the old investors seeking fresh opportunities for a profitable turn, but their ranks have lately been considerably swollen by others equally anxious to take a hand in the game; but between the unwillingness of the buyer to meet the higher exactions of the seller, and the difficulties encountered in the present mortgage situation, the average broker is experiencing no end of trouble in his attempt to make both ends meet. This condition seems but temporary and the purchaser must sooner or later become reconciled to the new level of values. In the meantime there are no signs of falling prices, although the market is congealed.

Among the interesting transactions, the sale of the southwest corner of 5th av and 48th st, at a figure approaching $500,000, foreshadows another business building in the 5th av section. Over on the middle west side private dwellings were the feature, and in upper Harlem the sale of the Eighmie building in 125th st furnished a topic for much speculation in that locality. Across the Bronx an increase in the reported sales of lots and 2-family dwellings is noticed, and the monotony of dealings in that zone was broken by the purchase of a block front on the Southern Boulevard which is to be improved by the erection of a large piano factory. The total number of private sales reported is 61, of which 13 were below 59th st, 21 above, and 27 in the Bronx.

An experienced real estate collector desires to make a change in his position, and a man experienced in mason and estimate work seeks a position as superintendent of construction. Further particulars on these matters will be found in Wants and Offers. It will also be noticed there that an opening exists for an experienced renting man familiar with the district south of 23d st, and that a real estate operator and broker advertises that he would join forces with a high-class man or firm.

The Columbia Fireproof Door and Trim Co. (recently incorporated) has purchased the business of the late Samuel I. Rockmore, for many years a manufacturer of metal ceilings and metal-covered woodwork, whose office and plant is at Blake and Bristol sts, Brooklyn. The new company is headed by J. A. Rappoport, formerly of the National Fireproof Sash & Door Co., associated by Samuel Dolgow. The factory is in full running order, and in a position to furnish estimates on all classes of work in its line. Telephone 894 East New York.

The condition of the realty market in the Long Acre section is most unsatisfactory to brokers, and sales are difficult to make, owing to the prices that owners are asking for their properties. Houses to rent are very scarce and when a sign "to rent" is placed on a house it seldom remains there long, for people seem willing to rent a house with a 60 and sometimes even a 30-day possession clause. While such a condition exists it is most difficult for a broker to make the seller concede anything, consequently the market is "quiet and steady."

The recent sale of the southeast corner of 53d st and 5th av, to Mr. Edward Holbrook, president of the Gorham Company, is a great relief to the owners of property in the avenue below 59th st. The property was under contract from Mr. Harry J. Luce, and the intending purchaser, after making two payments, decided to abandon the plans that he had for the property; namely, building of a studio apartment house. The difficulty that he encountered was the procuring of a satisfactory building loan; so Mr. Luce released him from his obligation. There are four old-fashioned four-story brown-stone dwellings, Nos. 667 to 671 5th av and No. 2 East 53d st, in the parcel.

The new Plaza Hotel, 5th av and 59th st, furnishes a striking example of the tightness of the money market. This property is situated in the heart of "fashionable New York," at the main entrance to Central Park ,and is surrounded by residences of the monied men of the city, yet the owners were confronted by a very serious condition when trying to raise money to complete the hotel. They had exhausted the money obtained by the sale of stock and the $5,000,000 mortgage held by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company and were in need of additional money to complete the structure. It was tentatively decided to issue a second mortgage, but the condition of the money market made this impossible, and it was decided to request all stockholders of record to take three year notes in proportion to the amount of stock held by them. The requests which met with immediate response and assured the success of the undertaking. The hotel will open with more than fifty per cent. of its rooms permanently occupied.

THE AUCTION MARKET

Excluding the successful sale conducted by Joseph P. Day at Belle Harbor, Rockaway, on Saturday last, at which a total of $139,925 was secured, the few auction offerings for the week were made up entirely of legal sales, the results of which were rather unsatisfactory. On Tuesday Samuel Goldsticker sold in foreclosure a vacant plot 100x100 on the west side of the Southern Boulevard, 225 ft. north of Jennings st, to the plaintiff in the action, E. M. Greacen, for $12,000. The amount due under the judgment was $19,190. On Thursday both of the advertised foreclosure sales, which included a 3-sty brick synagogue at 58 and 60 Rivington st, and two 6-sty brick tenements, 85x98.9, at 306 to 312 East 27th st, were adjourned. In fact, there was little of interest to draw even a fair-sized attendance. Next week's budget promises to be more attractive, for among other parcels scheduled to be sold are a number of private dwellings which are offered by Joseph P. Day in the way of a special sale, to take place at the Vesey Street Salesroom on Sept. 19th, at which offering a large and representative gathering is expected to be present.

Time Money Scarce.

The time money market on New York is quoted nominally at 5 per cent. for 30 days. For 60 and 90 days, 6 per cent. is bid and 6½ per cent. asked. Other periods are generally quoted up to six months at 6 per cent. bid. Each loan is a matter of special negotiation and commissions are being paid based on the class of collateral offered. The quotations given apply to good mixed Stock Exchange collateral. Transactions based on all industrial collateral, where such loans are effected, range from ½ to 1 per cent. higher than the foregoing figures. A loan on all industrial collateral was made this week for six months at 8 per cent. Money brokers said they could secure 7 per cent. on prime mixed collateral.

Obituary.

Marx H. Beringer, senior member of the firm of M. H. Beringer & Co., and one of the oldest real estate men in the city, died suddenly at his home at 108 East 74th st on last Tuesday morning. He was 81 years old, and was ill only one day. Mr. Beringer was born in Bodenheim, Germany. He came to this country in 1848, and settled in the South. After the war he came to New York and invested in real estate. He was successful from the start and was soon one of the leading operators of the city. For 25 years he was a member of the firm of Lalor & Beringer, his partner being a brother-in-law of John D. Crimmins.

A Quickening on Staten Island.

Since Labor Day there has been a large increase in the number of lots and plots sold in Richmond Borough, and from present indications the demand is likely to exceed that of the fall of 1906. Wood, Harmon & Co. continue to report sales, the latest being 4 lots in Addition No. 1, South New York; also 9 lots in Addition No. 3, and 71 lots in Addition No. 4. The 6-room cottage which this firm has offered to the person giving the best reasons for the purchase of lots at South New York will be presented some time in Christmas week. It is understood that so far there are over 500 contestants, and the number is increasing daily.

Other sales in that borough have recently been concluded by the Cuozzo & Gagliano Co., who sold for the St. George Realty & Construction Co., at Fingerboard Terrace, Grassmere, 11 lots to various buyers.

Tile and Cement Roofs.

A very beautiful effect can be given to a concrete roof if clay tiles or varied light-toned colors be partly imbedded in the concrete. Such an experiment was shown at a recent arts and crafts exhibition. The effect was precisely that of the old roofs to be seen in Spain.

OF INTEREST TO PROPERTY OWNERS.

Fire Limits in The Bronx.

MUCH resentment is shown in the Bronx against the recommendation of the Committee on Fire Limits, of the Building Code Revision Commission, to prohibit the erection of frame buildings south of Fordham road, Kingsbridge road and Pelham av, as it is held that such an ordinance enacted at this time would obstruct the most desirable form of development in the borough. It is agreed that frame building in rows must be prohibited, but that detached frame cottage building should not be interfered with when dwellings are planned to stand on plots having not less than fifty feet of frontage each. The Civic League of the Bronx has voiced the prevailing feeling on the subject in these words:

Whereas, It has been proposed to the Building Code Commission to extend the fire limits in the Bronx to a point one hundred (100) ft. north of Fordham road at the Harlem River, and extending easterly a similar distance north of Kingsbridge road and Pelham av to one hundred (100) ft. west of the Southern Boulevard to 182d st to the westerly side of the Bronx River; and

Whereas, This would prevent the erection of detached frame cottages along the Grand Concourse and in such sections as Mount Hope, Highbridge, Morris Heights and Fordham Heights, where the development is mainly detached cottages; and

Whereas, It is desirable that frame buildings in rows be prohibited. In our judgment there is no necessity at the present time for such extension of the fire limits as would permit detached frame dwellings; therefore be it

Resolved, By the Board of Trustees of the Civic League of the Bronx that the Building Code Commission be respectfully urged not to extend the fire limits as proposed, but to exempt the limits referred to from the requirements for brick buildings; and it is further

Resolved, That the secretary be and hereby is directed to send a copy of this resolution to the Bureau of Buildings, Borough of the Bronx, and the Building Code Revision Commission.

Mr. Albert E. Davis, prominent architect in the Bronx, who was secretary of a previous Building Code Commission, and hence is acquainted with all the principles involved, considers that the fixing of an arbitrary zone within which "no frame or wood structure shall be built" is illogical and ill-adapted to conditions in the Bronx. Mr. Davis says that within the new territory of hills and valleys—bounded by the existing and proposed fire limits—an area twice that of the present restricted area, there is much undeveloped property; while the development which has taken place differs as radically as the heart of the city does from a suburban town. In the easterly section, either voluntarily or by reason of the Tenement House Act, the buildings are largely of brick construction, while in the central and westerly sections they are chiefly detached cottages.

"The Deputy Chief of the Fire Department in the Bronx informs me," continued Mr. Davis, "that there are very few fires in the frame district, the Bronx fires being most all in apartment houses or tenements, and yet all of those over three stories are now required to be of brick.

"To insure protection against the spread of fire, the better way would seem to be to prohibit the erection of frame buildings in which large numbers of people sleep or are employed, or which are of an extra hazardous character, anywhere within the city limits. This would include tenement houses, hotels, lodging houses, hospitals, schools, asylums, convents, factories, office buildings, theaters and stables.

"It seems equally reasonable to prohibit the erection of frame buildings in rows in any part of the city, because the fire risk is as great whether within or without an arbitrary limit or imaginary line. In my judgment, detached frame cottages ought not to be prohibited in any part of the Bronx, or, for that matter, of the city. They are usually occupied by careful, thrifty, intelligent citizens of the most desirable kind, and add to the attractiveness of the City. Any restrictive measure tending to increase the cost of building homes and to drive this class of citizens to the suburbs, is inimical to the City's best interests."

Water-Meter Decision.

A decision recently rendered by the Supreme Court in the test case (Smith vs. O'Brien, as Commissioner, etc.), conducted for the council of the House and Real Estate Owners' Association of the Twelfth and Nineteenth wards, by Mr. Adolph Bloch, is considered of the greatest importance to property owners. It is in regard to the power of the Commissioner of Water Supply to require the installation of water meters on the water pipes furnishing water to the stores, apartments in rear of stores, toilets in halls and yards of the tenement houses.

Under the decision of Justice Keogh, the Commissioner has power only to require a water meter to be placed in the store itself, where the water is furnished for business consumption. He has no power to require the metering of water used in the apartments in rear of stores, nor in the halls or yards.

Realty Interests Gratified by the Bond Sale.

The surprising result of the sale of $40,000,000 of 4½% City bonds, which was subscribed five times over, on Tuesday, and that at a little above par, is a staggering blow to those who have so persistently questioned the solvency of the City of New York, and effectually puts an end to all disturbing talk in this connection. Many of the bids for the new issue run up to 103, and the desire to secure the bonds is evidenced by the large number of registered bids, which equalled a total of 886. This showing is abundant proof of the stability of the City's credit, and the sale obviates all possibility of a financial crisis, which was previously believed to have threatened the municipality.

There are few who received the news in a greater spirit of appreciation than did the contractors who have for so long a period been waiting for their money. It will take about $16,000,000 to liquidate the present obligations, which have been increasing at the rate of three and four million dollars a week. It is perhaps needless to say that the result of the bidding is extremely gratifying as well to realty interests, as it will render certain the early completion of many important public improvements, such as the opening of streets and the building of sewers, upon which depend the successful marketing of considerable vacant as well as improved property.

Treating Old Trees.

Grand old trees that are rotting away can be saved. Why then should we be deprived of their beautiful foliage and invaluable service? Property owners have been careless in this respect, and unkind in their treatment of old friends.

When a tooth begins to decay a sensible man has it filled. The dentist cuts away the decayed parts and fills the cavity with gold, silver or cement.

Trees can be treated in the same way, and their lives indefinitely prolonged. Cut out all decayed wood and fill the cavity with Portland or natural cement. Anybody can do it, but many owners in fine old towns of New England and the Hudson River region are employing foresters to do it.

—The plan of submitting wills to a rigid criticism, after they have been made and before the testator's death, is new in the sense of its becoming popular. It is also justified by results.

Tearing Down and Building Anew

MR. CHARLES A. GERLACH, of Madison av and 59th st, the well-known real estate authority, expressed his views yesterday on some matters that are a little out of the ordinary course of discussion. There are few men in New York who have had greater or more extended experience in building high-class apartment hotels and who are more intimately acquainted with the realty situation and the value of property, especially in certain sections of the best residential districts. Discussing the subject of building in New York and the fact that in nearly every important street buildings were being torn down to make way for more costly ones, Mr. Gerlach said that he did not believe in tearing down well-constructed buildings and putting up new ones as good financial business propositions:

"The loss of rent and the carrying charges for new construction bring the cost of a new building to a point of a 3% or possibly 6% rate. I claim that old buildings, with judicious improvements to meet the requirements of the building departments of the city, as any intelligent architect, builder and renting agent could advise, would be desirable in most instances. This, of course, would be after careful examination of the premises. Alterations under these conditions would thus retain a large portion of the tenants, and while the improvements are being made, an increased rent might be obtained from the old tenants.

"Further requirements from other applicants could be met and on the whole a much larger and safer return could be made on the investment. According to my idea this would be better than tearing down and reconstructing in the present uncertain conditions of labor, material and money market, which enable only wealthy people with money in the bank lying idle to demolish and to build anew.

"You can pick out," continued Mr. Gerlach, "any number of large buildings, hotels, apartment houses and office buildings and figure for yourself the cost of an adequate alteration, and the cost of tearing down and reconstructing, and you will find almost the business lifetime of an owner would be required to get back the money that he has sunk. Every location in New York has its own peculiarities, and, drawing a circle around the location, each is, as it were, a city itself, with a large population within the radius of a mile. Thus it is easy to figure with judgment on values regarding alterations, and there should not be so much reckless tearing down.

"There is a notable instance in the Plaza Hotel. Whether the present new hotel will pay a greater return on the upwards of twelve millions cost than the former hotel built only ten years ago, which was fireproof and was good for another fifty years, is a question. It must not be forgotten that the building that has been demolished to make way for the new one cost about $2,500,000. Would not alterations costing, say $200,000, have answered the purpose of the investment instead of erecting the present costly building?

"When we speak of general conditions of real estate in the different boroughs, I believe that any investor who will carefully examine and look over the records of sales and transfers and form his opinion with the advice of active operators in the location before investing, will certainly make no mistake and will get many times a greater return on his investment than from any other known form yielded by capital.

"There are certain reasons why New York City property should be more valuable than that of any city in the Union. It is not because it is on an island and has a limited area. It is owing to the fact that one can borrow from 60% to 90% of its value on bond and mortgage. Moreover, with adequate improvements in New York property a tenant can always be found at a good profit. Therefore New York City property is always an exchangeable commodity."

—The only way to treat a pavement after it is once down is to let it alone. In many cities of Europe a conduit runs on each side of the street, and in this all the light wires and pipes of every description are placed. It sometimes becomes necessary to distrub the surface of the concrete over this conduit, but the paving itself is never molested. The spectacle of a gang of men digging up a street pavement in any leading city of Europe is quite unknown.

Economy of Tiling.

The price of labor is an important element in the cost of tiling, and as wages vary considerably in different localities, it is impossible to quote prices on a tiled floor and wainscoting which will hold good for all places. Roughly speaking, however, good tiling costs from about 40 to 50 cents per sq. ft. for floors, and from 60 to 75 cents per sq. ft. for walls. At first glance this seems to be a large amount to be paid for a floor or wall covering for the bathroom, kitchen, laundry, vestibule or porch, which are the parts of the house where tiling is most necessary. It should be remembered, however, that in laying a tile floor one saves in so many ways that in spite of the fact that the initial cost of tiling is considerable, it is, nevertheless, the most economical of all flooring materials in the parts of the house mentioned.

A tile floor, when properly set, is virtually everlasting. It requires no repairing, painting or oiling. It is not necessary to cover it with a carpet. Ordinarily it can be cleaned by simply flushing it off with water. This is a tremendous saving of labor in comparison with the laborious scrubbing and oiling necessary to keep the wooden floor in proper condition.

A house with a tiled bathroom, kitchen, butler's pantry, vestibule and porch always looks fresh and clean and is free from the disagreeable musty odor so characteristic of old houses, This is caused by the germ of decay, bred in the decomposing organic matter that has been absorbed by wooden floors and walls which are being constantly spattered with water or other liquids containing animal and vegetable matter.

The decorative, sanitary and durable qualities of tiling are so great that there is no better way of practicing real economy than by figuring closely on all other parts of the house, so as to have sufficient surplus to meet the initial expense of tiling the bathroom, kitchen, butler's pantry, laundry, vestibule and porch.

How Jenney Handled Grafters.

By SCOTT N. HUGHES.

WILLIAM LE BARON JENNEY, the Chicago architect, who died recently in Los Angeles, was a man of odd characteristics. He was "straight," but too charitable ever to bend backwards. He recognized human frailties, but seldom condemned the frail man.

Jenney despised worse than anything the grafter, and his manner of dealing with that type of man was effective.

One day Jenney was in his private office when a man who wanted to provide certain materials for a building then under construction came in and approached John Ewen, then a "cub" in Jenney's office, with a flagrant bribe offer. He offered Mr. Ewen $50 if his material was used.

Mr. Ewen was seized with an inspiration. Instead of throwing the man out of the office, he said: "Mr. Jenney always handles that end of the business. Go in and see him." Then he awaited the explosion.

TEACHES YOUNG MAN A LESSON.

The man innocently approached Mr. Jenney and made the proposition.

"Sit down a moment," said Jenney quietly. A moment later he looked up and said: "Young man, are you new in the business?"

If you want to know who is building, and who, therefore, is in the market for building materials, read the RECORD and GUIDE.

"Yes, sir, I'm just starting. I want to get in right. My stuff is good, and I want a chance."

"Well," said Mr. Jenney, "there are two ways to do business. If you want to do the best kind of business, with the best firms, don't do as you have done to-day. I have no doubt that is the way to do business with some firms. If you are after that class of business that is the proper way to get it. But if you want the best business don't approach any one as you have me. I'll give you the contract at your figures. If you can afford to give me $50, you can afford to knock $50 off the price to the owner. Let's reduce your figures $50 and give the builder the benefit."

BIG CONTRACTOR PAYS BRIBE.

Another and severer lesson he administered to a big contractor. This man was prominent socially, financially, and in religious circles, and through Jenney he got the contract for a skyscraper. One day, while the building was in course of construction, he entered Mr. Jenney's office and handed him a check.

"What's this for?" asked Jenney.

"It's the usual 10 per cent. of the first payment—your share," he added, significantly.

Mr. Jenney took the check, chatted for a time with the man, and finally went out into the workroom.

"What's the amount of that contract?" he asked Mr. Mundie, his partner.

Mundie told him.

Jenney figured for a moment, muttered, "Yes, the amount is correct," and then retired to his private office and indorsed the check over to the owner of the building.

Nothing more was heard of the matter until the end of the month, when the crooked contractor received from his bank a check indorsed both by Mr. Jenney and the owner of the building.

There was nothing for him to do but to take his medicine. He appeared in Jenney's office, expecting to be flayed for his tactics, but nothing of that sort happened. Mr. Jenney remarked:

GIVES MONEY TO THE OWNER.

"I am extremely glad to know that you can afford to make the lowest bid on a building, and give the owner 10 per cent. back and still make money on it, but don't you think it would be more businesslike just to subtract 10 per cent. from the total contract price and save all this red tape of sending the check to me and having me indorse it over to the owner?"

There was not a word of condemnation or reproof and only a few who learned of it from the owner ever knew of the occurrence.

Mr. Jenney did not cast out that contractor, but continued to do business with him. And when Mr. Jenney built his own home he gave a contract for part of the material to this man—and the man skinned him.

Progress on Great Public Improvements.

Publication of a month's record of excavation in the Culebra cut makes possible a comparison of the rate of progress in the building of the Panama Canal with railroad operations on almost as great a scale. With thirty-eight steam shovels the government forces handled 880,000 cubic yards of material in this month. In the building of the Lane cut-off of the Union Pacific Railroad, the contractors in May removed 417,000 cubic yards, or almost half the Panama total, with only six steam shovels.

In this 12-mile line that is being built from Omaha to Lane there are 3,000,000 cubic yards of excavation, fills that involve the handling of 2,500,000 yards of material, and cuts of as much as a mile in length in which the roof of an 8-sty building would be level with the natural grade at the top, where the cut is 400 feet wide. The largest fills are 2,500 and 3,000 feet in length. Two-thirds of this work is completed, and the Union Pacific's new line, saving nine miles in distance and avoiding the grades and curves of the present route, will be ready for the laying of track in November.

REAL ESTATE RECORDS

Key to abbreviations:

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing a Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable considera, tion and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

4th.—The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deed. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

5th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

6th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

7th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

8th.—A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only, and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction. Valuations are from the assessment roll of 1907.

MORTGAGES

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

September 6, 7, 9, 10, 11 and 12.

SOME weeks ago the Record and Guide predicted that the naturally upward tendency of the stock market would be constantly checked by the influence of bad news, caused by a slow process of business contraction, and the course of the market recently has justified this prediction. First the fall in the price of copper, and then the diminution in the volume of new business written by the steel manufacturers were used to depress prices, and as a result of these conditions severe and successful attacks were made both on the copper stocks and on the leading industrials. It was remarkable, however, that the general list withstood this pressure very well. It receded, but it did not recede very far, and it soon reacted when it became evident that the selling was over-done. It is probable, however, that the industrials will remain a weak point in the market for quite a long time. No one can assert with any confidence, how far the business reaction will go. They talk at present of a diminution of business amounting to twenty-five per cent., but it may easily reach larger figures. As long as no panic occurs, it is improbable that railway stocks will be purchased very much cheaper than they can be at present, but it is quite possible that the very best industrials may go lower before they go higher. How low they will go will depend upon the extent of the business contraction. If companies such as the Steel Corporation and American Car and Foundry are again obliged to abandon dividends on their common stocks, the preferred stocks may fall ten points more; but unless the business contraction becomes very acute some such loss would appear to be the limit. Steel preferred went to 50 in 1903, but its position is much stronger now and its limit is more likely to be fixed by the low record of a stronger industrial stock in 1903 such as Car and Foundry. The preferred stock of that company did not go much below, and the business outlook will have to be very desperate in order to justify a lower price than that. The surpluses of the conservatively managed companies have been almost doubled since during the period of abundant business, and they are all in a much better position to stand a lean season. Moreover their managements know very well that as soon as the money market becomes easier and the credit of the railways is restored, many improvements, which have recently been abandoned, will be resumed. Just at present good railway stocks are relatively cheaper than the industrials, but if the latter go much lower this condition will not continue.

THE impression is coming to be more and more general that some restriction on the height of buildings will be imposed in the revised Building Code. When the Board of Fire Underwriters go so far as to ask that non-fireproof business buildings be restricted to an area of 5,000 square feet and a height of 55 feet, and fireproof buildings to a height of 125 feet, it is evident that the movement in favor of restriction is assuming formidable proportions. Supposing such a restriction to be adopted, it is an interesting question as to what its effect would be. For one thing it would, we believe, practically prohibit the erection of non-fireproof commercial buildings, except in cheap neighborhoods and for manufacturing purposes. It would mean practically that all office and loft buildings would be of fireproof construction and would be built to a height of eleven stories. So far as loft buildings are concerned, we do not believe that such a result would mean a very radical change from that which happens at present. A few fifteen or sixteen-story loft buildings have been erected on Fifth avenue and elsewhere, but their number is small and their prohibition in the future would not be a great hardship. The number of non-fireproof loft buildings, six or seven stories high which are constructed under the existing law is also comparatively small, and we do not believe that their prohibition would be a severe hardship, or would substantially affect the price of real estate in the wholesale district. On the other hand, the limitation of the height of office buildings to eleven stories would mean a drastic alteration of existing methods and conditions. The average office building is now built to a height of twenty stories, and if this height were practically cut in half, considerable changes would be effected in real estate values. Almost twice as many office buildings would have to be erected in order to accommodate the same number of tenants, and these buildings would cover practically twice the area. Property some distance from the existing centres of business would be favorably affected, because it would be sooner reached by the march of improvement, whereas unimproved property nearer existing centres of business would, for the time being, be worth somewhat less. We do not believe that they would continue to be worth less because tenants would be willing to pay proportionately higher rents for the more convenient locations but for the time being a restriction would affect unfavorably the position of high-priced property. If any of our readers believe that the results of the proposed restriction would be different from that described above, we should be glad to publish their opinions.

IT has been suggested that the purchase by the city of the Belmont tunnel would be the best means of solving that difficult problem, and the Record and Guide cordially acquiesces in the suggestion. The Belmont tunnel should be purchased by New York, extended at least as far west as Long Acre Square, and connected in the best possible manner with the existing subway. Some equitable arrangement could surely be made whereby the city makes the purchase, authorizes the extension of the tunnel, and then leases to the Interborough Co. for a sufficient sum to cover its outlay. Such an arrangement would have at least two advantages. It would give the city ownership of and control over a tunnel under the East River which should be made an integral part of the rapid transit system of the whole city, and which can only be made by such a purchase. Secondly, it would make the tunnel far more useful to the public than it can be under existing conditions. At present, owing to the lack of effective connections on the Manhattan side its utility will be seriously limited, whereas, if it were extended to Long Acre Square and subsequently connected with all the longitudinal subways running north and south it would constitute a very useful addition to the rapid transit system of the city. Under existing arrangements the inhabitants of Queens have no very direct method of reaching the amusement center at Long Acre Square; and the Belmont tunnel, properly connected, would supply that deficiency. It would not only constitute a great convenience to the residents of Queens and a part of Brooklyn, but it would also improve the business of the theatres, restaurants and shops in the vicinity of Broadway and Forty-second street.

MR. ALLAN ROBINSON, in a recent interview, has given expression to the policy in respect to rapid transit, which the "Allied Real Estate Interests," proposed to advocate. That policy is the thoroughly sound one of insisting upon the all-importance of the construction of new subways; and it is certain that the representative real estate organization can in no other way perform a better public service. The Utilities Commission is so much preoccupied with its investigation of the Interborough-Metropolitan Co. that it is neglecting entirely the far more important matter of arranging for the construction of new subways. Its investigation has not been without good results. A certain improvement in service, particularly during the non-rush hours is taking place, and if these results have been accomplished at the expense of a complete destruction of the credit of the Interborough-Metropolitan Company that is not the fault of the commission.

The old Metropolitan Company was financially rotten, and its rottenness was eventually sure to be exposed. This achievement, however, leaves untouched the really essential matter—which is to provide for the construction of new subways. The Record and Guide discussed in its last issue the various obstacles which will have to be removed before the subways are built, and we need not repeat that discussion. It may be noted, however, that Mr. Robinson comes out strongly for the repeal of the so-called Elsberg amendment to the Rapid Transit Law, and it is probable that a strong effort will be made to effect this repeal during the coming session of the Legislature. There can be no doubt that for the present the alternatives are either the repeal of the Elsberg law or else the equipment and the construction of a municipal subway system. The Record and Guide would prefer the second alternative, but if public opinion is not prepared to go so far, the crying necessity for new subways makes the revision of the Rapid Transit Law preferrable to the indefinite delay of new subway construction. For the moment the important thing is for the Public Service Commission and the Board of Estimate to reach some basis of agreement so that they can go to the Legislature with a joint application for a specific action. If the Board of Estimate recommends one policy and the Public Service Commission another, it is probable that the whole business will be postponed for another year.

Are Skyscrapers Dangerous?

NOT IF THEY'RE BUILT RIGHT, SAY ARCHITECTS.

MR. GEORGE W. BABB, president of the New York Board of Fire Underwriters, has caused a sensation by prophesying that the financial district of New York City would some day be wiped out by fire. Skyscrapers, said Mr. Babb, are getting too high, and their height is a source of danger.

Builders and architects do not agree with his belief that lofty buildings, in themselves fireproof, can help on a conflagration. They say, on the other hand, that the more fireproof buildings there are—and every skyscraper put up these days is fireproof—the less liable is the congested downtown section to be devastated. In effect, they say, every fully protected structure is a barrier to the spread of heat and flames.

Some estimates put the value of the buildings and their contents on the lower end of Manhattan Island at two billion dollars. It is of greatest importance that this vast aggregation of property shall be safe, and the men who own it have not been asleep. The owners and the builders know that the first requisite is not size or height or beauty, but that it is absolute safety. Everything else is sacrificed to that. There are those who think that the new style of architecture is not beautiful, but that is not the issue now. The question raised by Mr. Babb is: "Do skyscrapers present a menace to the city?"

Mr. Nicholas Le Brun is architect of the building that is to be the highest in the world, even higher than the Singer Building. This record-breaker-to-be is the tower of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Building, at Madison av and 24th st. It will have forty-eight stories above ground and two below ground, fifty in all. This is what Mr. Le Brun says:

"In my opinion, Mr. Babb's idea is a mistaken one. He is undoubtedly sincere, but thorough study of the structural qualities of the modern high building should convince any man that the skyscrapers are a hindrance to fire. The science of fireproofing has reached such a perfection in New York that there is almost no chance of a disaster in the downtown district—that is, as far as the high buildings themselves are concerned. More and more the trimmings, and even the contents of buildings, are being made fireproof. That window sill"—Mr. Le Brun pointed toward the window near his desk—"is metal and cannot burn. Look at that cabinet of drawers; that is made of metal, too. Walls and floors are made of material that is unburnable.

"In a thoroughly fireproofed building, if a fire started it would be confined to one room, or to one floor at most. It could not reach another building. Besides, with the new high pressure water mains water can be poured on the fire, no matter how far up in the air it is.

"Every floor of the best type of skyscraper is equipped with standpipes and hose. Far from being a danger, I should consider a high building a help, since water could be poured out of its upper windows upon a fire."

Mr. Paul Starrett, of the Fuller Construction Company, perhaps the largest building concern in the metropolis, says:

"I am surprised that Mr. Babb, familiar as he should be with the records of great fires, could have made the assertion that the modern high building is dangerous as a fire risk. All experience has proven the opposite; it has been the skyscrapers that have stopped the spread of fires—that have stayed where every other building passed away."

The builder here directed attention to a huge photograph on the wall, which showed the district burned over in the Baltimore fire, with skyscrapers still standing. These lofty structures alone withstood the heat of the conflagration, their frames being almost totally undamaged.

"There," said Mr. Starrett, "you see how dangerous the modern fireproof skyscraper is. When the fire came to those high buildings it either stopped or went around them—it could not burn through them. The most perfect type of the fireproof building is that made of steel and terra cotta hollow tile, the steel for the frame and the tile for column covering, floors and partitions.

"When a skyscraper is properly built there is nothing about it to burn except the little furniture that its offices contain. In this building (the Flatiron) where we are now there was a fire on a lower floor some time ago, when a man threw a match in a waste paper basket filled with celluloid cards. Up here on the twentieth floor we heard some racket down there. Then we heard fire bells and, looking out of the windows, we saw people staring up at the Flatiron! It didn't distrub us, because we knew the fire couldn't spread. We stayed right here and attended to our work. In a little while the fire was out and all was quiet again."

The highest building now standing is the Singer. Not yet finished, it already overtops the hitherto record-breaker, the Park Row Building. The architect is Mr. Ernest Flagg. Some years ago Mr. Flagg opposed the erection of skyscrapers, but now appears as the designer of one forty-seven stories high. He could not stop the skyward tendency, and so he fell in with his brethren. Asked to state what he thought of Mr. Babb's statement he said:

"I think that Mr. Babb, in some respects, is right. There are high buildings which are not fireproof. There are those which have entirely too much wood in them. And that kind is dangerous. But if a skyscraper has nothing about it that can burn—why, naturally, it can't burn. In designing the Singer Building I was unrestricted as to the materials I should specify, and I selected those that would make the building absolutely safe. Steel and terra cotta hollow tile—that is the combination. The frame, the covering, the floors, the partitions—all of them are unburnable.

"The window frames and trimmings are metal, too, and cannot take fire. The amount of furniture that is combustible is so small that it is not to be considered. If, by any chance, a flame did start it would not get out of the room where it started. It would have nothing to feed upon."

Mr. Flagg's opinion is that of a host of other architects and builders. "Put up buildings of stuff that can't burn," they say, "and then there can be no danger. Every skyscraper will be a barrier against the spread of a conflagration."

Cost of Building Loans.

IT IS a serious thing that a builder has to face to-day if he wishes to get a building loan on a house that he is contemplating building. Of course the prime reason is the stringency of the money market, but even leaving that feature aside loaners of money look at the man very hard, look his proposition over several times, and it is extremely difficult to get them to consent to let the actual cash out of their possession. There are several other reasons besides the one already mentioned why the loan men are so slow to close a deal of that kind. The overproduction of building in some parts of the city, the class of houses that have in some instances been built, and the lender wishes to satisfy himself that the future is assured for the kind of building that the borrower wishes to erect.

There was a time when a smart builder was able to "loan out" on his building—that is, borrow as much money as the building and land cost—but that day is past. The loaner of money on real estate is an expert, not only in land values, but also on what a building costs to construct, and he is no longer willing to take all the risk, and is unreasonable enough to require the builder to take some of it.

A certain block front upon Washington Heights which was nearly all vacant was improved with two elevator apartment houses, and they received a generous loan and the buildings were well built, sold for a satisfactory sum, loan paid off and the deal completed. Shortly after this a certain builder started four houses on the same block, and though they were non-elevator houses, still they were a good class of house. He received his building loan, but before he had finished, plans were filed for three 6-sty "walk ups" nearly opposite, and he had a very bad time placing his permanent loan because the character of the street was changed. The owners of the elevator apartment houses did what they could to start and maintain a first-class street, but a few houses completely spoiled their plans and reduced the market value of their holdings.

Money for building purposes is at a premium just at the present time and there is usually between eight and ten per cent. bonus. This condition is bound to exist so long as money is in unusual demand. Were there not so many vacancies throughout the apartment section and the demand better, undoubtedly the money for building loans would be freer, as much of the element of risk would be done away with.

THE REALM OF BUILDING.

The Trust Company of America's New Office.

ONE of the handsomest banking offices in the United States will be thrown open for business next Monday morning when the new headquarters of the Trust Company of America will be formally opened to the customers of the concern. The new building itself, which is at Nos. 37 to 43 Wall st, is practically occupied, so far as the offices are concerned, but the Trust Company's quarters did not reach full completion until last week.

The structure has a 60-ft. front in Wall st and the banking office is about 45 ft. wide. The company's quarters take up the main floor, basement and mezzanine gallery. In construction the interior is of white Alabama marble with the fittings and screens in handsome bronze. The banking floor has a wainscoting 15 ft. high, and above that the wall is ivory tinted. About the only ornate feature of the apartment is the capitals of the great columns on the side wall, which are decorated with a golden scroll work. The interior of the banking-room is of Renaissance design; the furniture, desks and wooden trimming of solid mahogany.

The floor of the main room is mosaic, colored white and dull red, while above are stained glass skylights. The banking-room is in the shape of a double rotunda connected by a corridor 16 ft. wide. On each side there are arranged the various cages, and to the rear is a large apartment for the bookkeepers. Almost all the desks and file cases are of metal, and the system of tel-autographs and interior telephones is most complete.

From the mezzanine gallery the banking floor conveys a very handsome impression. There is an absence of obstructing pillars and the room looks big and stately. On this floor is the private office of President Oakleigh Thorne and John E. Borne, chairman of the Board of Directors. This room is in the front of the building, and in the rear is the board room and room for the company's attorneys.

In the rear of the main floor are a private elevator for passengers and a book-lift which conveys the heavy books and security boxes to the vaults in the basement. The front of the basement is given to the stock transfer department. This is a particularly large branch of the company's business, as it acts as agent for about 250 companies. On this floor also is the country check department in which thousands of checks a day are handled. There is also a spacious room in which account books and records are kept, and another contains an extensive filing system. This combination of offices is probably as near an approach to fireproof construction as has been made. A special point has been made of the ventilation, and thermostats are distributed throughout the offices to control the temperature.

Hearing on the Fire Limits.

The probability is that the majority report of the Committee on Fire Limits will not be adopted by the Building Code Revision Commission in the face of the storm of opposition that has arisen. At Wednesday's hearing property owners and builders asserted that experience teaches that a city of detached frame cottages is ten times less liable to be swept by conflagration than a tight-built brick city. No one objected to the prohibition against frame houses in solid rows, but there was unanimity among the representatives of property interests that it was for the welfare of the city that detached frame building should not cease.

Congressman Waldo, of Brooklyn, estimated that the extending of the fire limits as proposed in the 26th, 29th, 30th, 31st and 32d wards of Brooklyn would reduce property values one hundred million dollars. Mr. T. B. Ackerson, one of the largest builders in Flatbush, reminded the committee that according to situation lots are fitted or not fitted to certain kinds of improvements. A lot on lower Broadway, Manhattan, was adapted to a particular kind of building, and lots in other sections to structures for different uses. Flatbush was a district adapted for frame cottages and it would be a great wrong to prohibit further constructions of that nature.

Several building operators of Brooklyn, among them a representative of the John R. Corbin Co., asserted that if frame construction is prohibited it will force them to abandon their building projects in that borough and to carry on their operations in Long Island outside of the city limits or in New Jersey. Representatives of various taxpayers' associations also spoke in opposition.

T. B. Ackerson, of the Ackerson Construction Company, and Henry C. Johnson and John A. Leach, of the Astoria Taxpayers' Association, protested against the regulations as proposed for Queens Borough. Mr. Ackerson pointed out that in Long Island City in the area it is proposed to restrict to brick construction the population is only ten persons to the acre. Mr. Leach stated that in one district of Astoria for seventy square blocks there is not a single building. Most of the proposed brick area, he stated, is now devoted to market gardening or to salt meadow.

Residents of the Bronx who made addresses in opposition to the extension of the zone of frame construction from the present southerly limit at 161st st to Fordham and Kingsbridge road and Pelham av, were W. W. Niles, James L. Wells, Henry M. MacCracken, chancellor of the New York University; J. Harris Jones, Albert E. Davis, R. I. Brown and Colin P. Bliss.

Mr. Niles pointed out particularly the injustice that the new regulation would do to the University Heights section and the district embracing Morris Heights and Fordham Heights. All of these, he said, were being developed on essentially suburban lines. Cottages were being built on plots of large dimensions and vacant property was being sold with restrictions that would prevent the building of houses in rows or attached.

Albert E. Davis, an architect, formerly president of the North Side Board of Trade, spoke on behalf of the Heights Taxpayers' Association, which is composed of residents of the section of the Bronx north of Central Bridge and west of Jerome av. He called attention to the fact that only a few months ago more than one thousand lots of the Ogden estate had been sold to home seekers who had reckoned upon building to a very large extent detached frame houses. To prohibit frame construction in the Ogden estate district, he asserted, would mean that a large area would not be improved perhaps for many years to come. Such a condition would not only retard the growth of the Bronx, but would deprive the city of the taxes that would be paid on the buildings that would be erected there if existing conditions are allowed to continue. He suggested that the commission might properly make a provision that the building of frame structures should be confined to eighty per cent. of the width of each lot. That, he stated, would allow ample protection against fire losses or danger from conflagration.

It is not thought that the report will be adopted. Fire Chief Croker, Alderman Kuhlke and the superintendents of buildings in the various boroughs affected, who are ex-officio members of the committee, did not sign the majority report, and there has since been presented a minority report which permits detached frame cottages when erected each on not less than two lots, and occupying not more than eighty per cent. of such a plot. The Brooklyn delegates said they would not oppose such a provision, but thought that eighty per cent. should be changed to seventy.

A Quick Method of Valuing Buildings.

There are frequently occasions when a knowledge of some rough system of arriving at the cost of buildings is desirable. The method now most often employed by a practical real estate men, architects and builders is to multiply the cubical contents of a structure by a mean price per cubic foot based upon the known average cost of buildings similarly constructed. This system is frequently characterized as imperfect and at best merely an indefinite suggestion of value. However this may be, the element of personal judgment without doubt enters into the question, and in arriving at a reasonably correct valuation one must possess a good knowledge of the cost of construction obtained from experience in such matters. The cost per cubic foot for the average nearby frame dwelling is at present approximated at fifteen cents. For flats from 18 to 24 cents per cubic foot may usually be applied in forming a rough estimate, and for office buildings from 40 to 50 cents. It must be distinctly remembered that there is no fixed rule to follow in this regard, as conditions and the prices of materials vary greatly from time to time. The system may be followed with much success by any intelligent layman when the rudiments are well understood, but in the hands of an expert it is infinitely more reliable than many of the hit-or-miss methods in daily use.

Railroads Can't Raise Rate on Brick Before Jan. 1.

The National Paving Brick Manufacturers' Association has succeeded in preventing the railroads operating in the territory of the Central Freight Association from raising the freight rates on paving brick until January 1. Judge R. W. Archbald, of the United States Court of the Middle District of Pennsylvania, sitting in Scranton, granted an injunction restraining all railroads operating in or out of Pittsburgh from raising the rates before January 1.

The granting of the injunction is a very important legal decision in that it gives shippers standing in the courts to appeal from a raise in rates at any time the shipper thinks the rate is exorbitant.

The entire controversy over the freight rates on paving brick has arisen from a decision recently rendered by the Inter-State Commerce Commission in the Stowe-Fuller case. It was decided by the commission that a brick is a brick, without any distinction as to quality, and that the railroads had no right to charge different rates for handling them.

Heretofore the rate on fire brick for shipment has been 25 cents per hundred from Chicago to New York; on building brick 22½ cents per hundred and on paving brick 20 cents per hundred. After the Stowe-Fuller decision the railroads decided to increase the rate on bricks to 22½ cents per hundred without any distinction as to the quality of the brick.

This increase meant ruin to a majority of the paving brick manufacturers in the country, because of outstanding bids and contracts, which were based on a shipping price of 20 cents per hundred. The association at once decided to appeal not only to the Inter-State Commerce Commission to fix a fair rate for shipment, but to the United States Courts to prevent the putting into effect of the new rate.

Concrete Foundations.

CONCRETE is also replacing timber not only in the reinforced construction of buildings, but also in foundation work. Concrete piles are being used to replace timber piles in a large number of modern factories and up-to-date constructions. It has the advantage of permanence and immunity from decay, and is comparatively cheap.

In wet or filled-in areas where the ground water level is more than 6 ft. below the surface of the ground, and the character of the soil is such that it is necessary to go still deeper for a suitable bearing stratum, a concrete pile foundation is much cheaper than any other type of construction. Under these conditions a solid masonry pier on a timber-pile foundation would require, first, an excavation to below water level properly sheeted and braced. Second, driving of piles and cutting them off below the water level. Third, would be capping of the piles and building the solid pier to grade. Fourth, continuance of pumping through most of the operation. Fifth, backfilling the excavation. The whole constituting a long, tedious operation lasting several days for each pier. In contrast to this, a pier of simplex concrete piles is built from the surface of the ground, no excavation being necessary except for the cap itself. An extra heavy pile-driver especially equipped for this work drives a hollow steel form of suitable length, 16 ins. in diameter, and equipped with a special driving point, to resistance. A small batch of 1-2-4 Portland cement concrete is then dropped into the steel form; the form raised about a foot, by a pulling arrangement attached to the leads, and a heavy metal rammer dropped on the concrete. The effect of this impact is to open the jaws of the driving point and force the concrete out of the pipe and into the adjoining soil. Another batch of concrete is then inserted, the form raised a short distance and the concrete rammed. These operations are repeated until the form has been raised above the ground and the space it occupied in the ground has been filled with concrete.

The time taken to install one pile may run from 15 minutes to 1 hour, depending on circumstances. Twenty-eight piles 20 ft. long were driven, on a recent contract, by one machine in six hours. Thus a four-pile pier to support 120 tons can readily be built in one half a day, as against the time (several days) required by the other method.

The simplex concrete pile thus formed (of the same diameter throughout) acts as a column and also develops a very great skin friction from the extreme roughness of its exterior surface caused by the ramming of the concrete into the surrounding material. The use of simplex concrete piles is increasing, not only in New York, but all over the States, and some installations have been made in England, Germany and France. In some of the foundations built on simplex concrete piles in New York City, the Building Department tested the piles with a loading of pig iron amounting to 50 tons per pile without any settlement. In practice the piles are designed to carry 30 tons each.

The Foundation Company, 115 Broadway, New York, is now constructing a foundation of simplex concrete piles for the new power-house of the Isaac G. Johnson Foundry at Spuyten Duyvil, New York City. The site is about 1,000 ft. east of the Supyten Duyvil station and can be seen from the station, and is readily reached by taking the subway to Kingsbridge (225th st) and then walking one-half mile, or by taking a local train on the N. Y. C. & H. R. R. to Spuyten Duyvil station.

The Production of Asbestos in 1906.

Commercial asbestos includes two distinct types of fibrous minerals. The term asbestos was originally applied to actinolite or tremolite, but the more important asbestiform mineral is the fibrous variety of serpentine known as chrysotile. This variety is always associated with serpentine, which is derived from the alteration of eruptive rocks. It has been reported as occurring in commercial quantities in Massachusetts, Vermont, North Carolina, Wyoming, Arizona, Washington, Oregon, and California.

The eastern townships of the province of Quebec furnish the greater part (85 per cent) of the world's production of asbestos. In 1906 Canada exported 59,864 tons of asbestos, valued at $1,629,257, most of which came to the United States. Improved methods of mining are being introduced in Canada and the output there is increasing.

Both forms of abestos are applied to many uses, depending in part upon the fibrous character of the material, but also upon its non-conductivity of heat and electricity. The best grade of chrysotile fiber is spun into thread, yarn, and rope, and woven into cloth. The yarn is largely used for packings and the cloth for theater curtains, while fabrics containing asbestos woven with other fibers are made into various household articles in which heat insulation rather than fire-proof character is required.

Asbestos is extensively used for plastering and for making lumber that is employed in buildings where insulation against fire and electricity are desired. Its use in fire-proof structures, and especially to envelop electrical conductors, is constantly increasing.

The production of asbestos in the United States in 1906 was 1,695 tons, valued at $28,565, as against 3,109 tons, valued at $42,975, in 1905. The imports in 1906 were valued at $1,076,170. The output of all existing asbestos mines is insufficient to supply the demand for this product, and the leading manufacturing firms interested in the industry are diligently searching for new deposits.

An advance chapter from "Mineral Resources of the United States, Calendar Year 1906," on the production of asbestos in 1906, by J. S. Diller, is now ready for free distribution.

Product and Appliance.

FLEXIBLE METAL TUBING.

A tubing suitable for covering flexible cords as an additional protection against mechanical abrasion, is now being manufactured and placed on the market by the New York Flexible Metallic and Tubing Company, 155-161 Lafayette st, New York City. This tubing is particularly applicable as a covering for cord pendants, as its extreme pliability permits of its hanging in perfectly straight lines, a seeming impossibilty with other metal coverings now on sale for similar purposes, which generally hang in twists, kinks and angles. By thus lending itself to graceful lines and curves, the tubing should be peculiarly well adapted for use in connection with high-class fixtures in private residences where an unusual degree of flexibility is often desirable in extensions to fixtures, as in libraries and cosy corners.

HOUSE CLEANING BY ELECTRICITY.

The Electric Renovator Manufacturing Company, of Pittsburgh, Pa., make a portable apparatus which, for convenience and adaptability to any sort of house cleaning, has never been equalled. It is called the "Invincible," resembling the ordinary carpet-sweeper in its general appearance. The material used in construction is chiefly aluminum, making the machine very light and easy to handle.

A one-half horse-power motor is directly connected to a turbine and brush. Revolutions of the brush serve to agitate the nap of the carpet and loosen the dirt, while the turbine creates a vacuum which acts as a suction drawing up all dust and dirt and depositing it in the dust receiver provided. Carpets can be thoroughly cleaned on the floor, and every corner is reached. Nothing need be moved. Attachable appliances are also provided for treating walls, ceilings, cornices, chandeliers, curtains, rugs, pictures, and stairways; mattresses, cushions, upholstered furniture and pillows may be aerated as well as cleaned by these appliances adapted to their wants.

The Sandusky Portland Cement Co., manufacturers of Medusa waterproof compound, report furnishing water-proofing material for the following works: Grand Rapids Refrigerator Co.'s plant. The material is also being used in the reinforced concrete dam being built by the D. L. & W. Ry.'s Coal Department, at Scranton, and was used in the A. Booth & Co. cold storage plant at Detroit, Mich. The Atchison, Topeka & Sante Fe Ry. is using an immense quantity at Albuquerque, N. M., and at Summerville, Texas. Albert Kahn, architect, and President of the Trussed Concrete Steel Co., Detroit, Mich., who is the inventor of the Kahn system of reinforced concrete, used the material throughout the construction of his private residence just completed.

The United States Civil Service Commission announces an examination on October 23-24 to secure eligibles from which to make certification to fill a vacancy in the position of draftsman (male), qualified as inspector of construction, at $6 per diem when actually employed, in the Immigration Service, Ellis Island, N. Y., and vacancies as they may occur in any branch of the service requiring similar qualifications. Applicants for this position must have had experience in the supervision of buildings under construction. Persons who have not had such experience will not be admitted to the examination. Two days of eight hours each will be allowed for this examination. The first two subjects will be given on the first day, and the third subject on the second day. Age limit, 20 years or over on the date of examination. The examination is open to all citizens of the United States who comply with the requirements.

Quick-drying floor varnish. Dissolve 1 part by weight, of shellac in 2 to 2½ parts of 90% alcohol, add 1 to 2% of copaiba balsam or Venetian turpine and sufficient umber and ocher. The wood being colored as desired, a coat of clear varnish can be given to increase the brilliancy.

Catalogues.

CEMENTOLOGY.—By Howard B. Green. Issued by the Whitehall Portland Cement Company, Land Title Building, Philadelphia:

How can the surface of concrete be made pleasing to the eye? The booklet mainly addresses itself to this question, and gives in full the specifications as adopted by the City of Philadelphia (Bureau of Surveys) covering this class of work. The treatment gives life and texture to the surface of any structure, and is in great contrast to the monotonous and uninteresting concrete surface generally seen. The surface is produced by using a stiff scrubbing brush or a wire brush with a liberal supply of water flowing direct from a hose. The washing out of the cement from between the stones removes the possibility of hair cracks, and the color of the stone is the prevailing color of the finished surface. The specifications are as follows:

Granolithic surfacing, when required, shall be composed of 1 part cement, 2 parts coarse sand or gravel and 2 parts granolithic grit, made into a stiff mortar. Granolithic grit shall be granite or trap rock crushed to pass a ¼-inch sieve and screened of dust. For vertical surfaces, the mixture shall be deposited against the face forms to a least thickness of one inch by skilled workmen as the placing of the concrete proceeds and thus form a part of the body of the work. Care must be taken to prevent the occurrence of air spaces or voids in the surface. The face forms shall be removed as soon as the concrete has sufficiently hardened, and any voids that may appear shall be filled with the mixture. The surface shall then be immediately washed with water until the grit is exposed and rinsed clean, and protected from the sun and kept moist for three days. For bridge seat courses and other horizontal surfaces, the granolithic mixture shall be deposited on the concrete to a least thickness of 1½ inches immediately after the concrete has been tamped and before it has set, and shall be troweled to an even surface, and after it has set sufficiently hard shall be washed until the grit is exposed.

SYSTEM M.—23 pp., quarto, illustrated. By the Standard Concrete-Steel Co., New York, 413-17 East 31st st.

An exceptionally well-written catalogue, giving a complete exposition of the construction methods of the Standard Concrete-Steel Co. System M is an independent light steel frame, which is subsequently so united to concrete that the two become a reinforced construction. The upright iron or steel supports and the steel floor members can be formed with sections of any shape which are found most suitable to make a light, independent structure capable of maintaining its form. The steel uprights are erected plumb and the steel floor members are set level. The girders are connected to the uprights to keep them plumb, and the floor beams are connected to the girders to make a sufficiently rigid structure. This steel frame forms the guides for the erection of the wooden or other moulds into which the concrete forming the floors and forming the covering of the uprights is to be poured. The steel is so designed and placed with reference to the concrete that they combine, and the concrete and steel together become a true reinforced structure. This reinforcement cannot be displaced or misplaced by careless workmen. The steel girder members are made up in various ways. Where an increased depth can be given to the girders, the steel floor beams are run continuously over the top of the girder and clamped down to the same. Where it is required to keep the same depth with all steel floor members, the beams are framed into the side of the girder in the usual way.

It is quite evident that in order to make the combined steel and concrete forming the floors a truly reinforced structure, the tensional steel must all be located below the neutral axis of the beams. The amount of steel required for both stiffness of the independent steel structure and for tension in the subsequent reinforced beam is determined and made a certain percentage of the amount of concrete required in floors, forming the compression member to the beam. The great advantages of this form of construction, not only in economy of steel but in simplicity of design and erection, are apparent on inspection.

The connections are of the most simple kind, as they are only needed to hold the construction rigid during erection, the concrete forming the permanently rigid connections. Considerable variation in the length and fitting of floor members can safely be allowed, as the concrete fills into and combines the several parts.

A most important practical advantage of this construction lies in the fact that with a few sizes of beams and channels from stock almost any reinforced floor can be erected, while in the all-steel construction the size and weight of the beams and girders, if designed economically, must be nicely adjusted to the spans and loading; in this construction the adjusting is done mainly with the concrete, by increasing or decreasing the height of the concrete above the steel floor member.

This system possesses the same advantages that the all-steel construction has over reinforced concrete where steel bars are used, viz., safety and rapidity of erection. To construct reinforced concrete with any form of disconnected steel members or with any form of reinforcement which does not make itself self-sustaining the invariable procedure is to construct with wood or other material an independent temporary structure. This independent temporary structure must be erected, plumbed, braced and tied in such a way that nothing incidental to the concrete construction will disturb it.

With System M any kind of walls, partitions, stairs or other feature ordinarily used in buildings are practical. Where brick curtain walls are to be carried the light steel skeleton is constructed with light curtain wall girders and the floor concrete is carried around them in a manner similar to the reinforcing concrete of the floor girders. The soffeits of these wall girders become the finished lintels of windows, and the face brick is lined up on the front of the concrete; the brick wall is started on top of the concrete wall girder.

Aids to Business Making.

The object of real estate records is to increase your business possibilities to an extent inconceivable to any one who has not used the Real Estate Directory and Record & Guide Quarterly. And yet we are told at times, "We don't go after that kind of business." What would you think of the hunter who had a gun, which would only kill at one hundred yards, if you offered him a gun which would kill at two hundred yards, and he said: "I don't want it. I never bag game at two hundred yards."

—Germany and Great Britain supply the Italian demand at present for good quality bathroom furnishings, exporting stock at a price favorable to the Italian trade. A bathroom is fitted out by German or English firms in Italy for about $120, and at this price the Italian buyers get a very good outfit. Proprietors of private houses and hotels throughout the Kingdom generally place their orders with German or English houses. If American stock could be imported into Italy at thirty or sixty days, or even longer time for payment, this class of trade could be grappled with and should bring results if attacked in the correct way. The American manufacturer bent on this line of effort must be able to fit out a standard American bathroom in Italy, of good appearance and, above all, of good quality, below $120 before thinking of introducing his goods into Italy. The English are doing it through resident Italian representatives.

BUILDING NOTES

An electrical show is to be held in Madison Square Garden from September 30th to October 9th.

An artificial ice plant is on exhibition at the show room of the Metropolitan Engineering Co., 124 West 42d st.

President Haffen, of the Bronx, is about to open bids for $1,000,000 worth of contracts for street repairing in the Bronx.

A fine collection of architectural drawings and photographs, giving details of famous buildings, arches and statuary, can be purchased. See Wants and Offers.

Bridge Commissioner Stevenson predicts that the opening of the new Blackwell's Island Bridge will take place by September, 1908. He states that work is progressing faster than usual.

The steel work on the Metropolitan Tower is now going through the eleventh story. On the 24th st side, the northeast corner, some of the stones in the granite base course above the sidewalk level are now in place.

It has been demonstrated by Prof. Norton, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, that a coating of liquid Portland cement held on the surface of steel will effectually preserve the steel for an indefinite period.

The Standard Concrete Steel Co. is now delivering iron on the new packing house for Messrs. Conron Bros., to be erected at Brook av., near Grove st., Bronx, which contract was secured only a few days ago, to be erected in its system M.

With the close of August, for one year, "looking backward," the net installation gains of the New York Edison Co. again exceeded a million sixteen-candle equivalents. This figure, of course, includes all services, motors, as well as lamps—the former now aggregating 155,795 horse-power.

The August issue of the General Electric Company contains an important article on "Gyroscopic Forces," and other articles of a more practical nature to electrical engineers and contractors, as "The Manufacture of a Large Direct Current Generator," by E. B. Raymond, and in other particulars it is an extremely good number.

Work on the first skyscraper for West 14th st, southwest corner 5th av, now building by the Van Schaick Realty Co., is showing advancement, the steel work being up about three stories. Milliken Bros. have the steel work and the Hedden Construction Co. is the general contractor. The site and building is estimated to cost about $1,800,000. Buchman & Fox are the architects.

The well-known house of Riker, the chemists, will open the largest drug store in the world on the first of October next. The feature of this remarkable store is the immense soda fountain built entirely of marble and onyx, with silver mountings. This fountain is of such unusual beauty and dimensions that it cannot fail to attract all who are interested in the possibilities of the rare stones employed. The fountain is the production of A. H. & F. H. Lippincott, of Philadelphia and New York, under the management of Mr. John H. Fredericks.

A petition in bankruptcy having been filed against the John V. Signell Company, builders, the total liabilities are said to be more than $2,000,000, and the nominal assets in excess of this amount. It is understood that the five buildings occupying the land between Broadway, 143d to 144th sts and Hamilton pl, which are unfinished, belong to the company, and also another large building at Claremont av and 127th st which is completed and rents for about $2,000 a month. Judge Hough, of the United States District Court, appointed Lawrence B. Cohen receiver.

The Porter Screen Mfg. Co.'s New York office, 36 East 23d st, managed by Mr. MacCormack, reports a very satisfactory screen business for the year just closing. Their new Rustless Bronze Wire, Invisible Spring, Sliding Screen, for either outside or inside windows, in cabinet wood finish, steel or solid bronze metal frame, has proven a great success. They are the sole agents in this vicinity for the Watson All-Metal Screen, and are making elaborate preparations for the coming year, to be able to give prompt and efficient attention to requests for estimates for screening entire house openings, also porches.

The Reliance Ball Bearing Door Hanger Co., 1 Madison av., has just secured the largest single order for elevator door hangers ever given out. This order is for hangers for the Hudson Terminal Buildings. Among recent orders also secured by this firm are the following: World Building Addition, Apthorpe Apartments; 61st st. and Park av. Building, 10-12 Maiden Lane Building, Robt. T. Lyons Apartment House, 97th st. and Riverside Drive; Mills Hotel, No. 3, 36th st. and 7th av.; Kennilworth Apartments, Central Park West and 75th st.; the Darlington Store, Brooklyn; Metropolitan Club, Washington, D. C.; U. S. Post-office Building, Laredo, Texas; Presbyterian Hospital, Allegheny, Pa.; Portland Commercial Club, Portland, Ore.; Hudson Building, Detroit, Mich.

The differences existing between the Pittsburgh controller and the commissioners over the wording of the contract with Palmer & Hornbostel, of New York, for the erection of the soldiers' memorial hall were satisfactorily adjusted yesterday. The controller paid to the firm $30,000, representing about 60 per cent. of the fee for the preparation of plans and specifications and supervising the erection of the building. The controller objected to the payment of 10 per cent. to the architects for all inside furnishings, and as a result of this the contract was not signed until yesterday. It was agreed that the architects should receive 10 per cent. for all furnishings specially designed, and 5 per cent. for all furnishings selected by them. Their fee in this respect depends upon whether they are consulted.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD.

House Hunting on Washington Heights.

THE prospective tenant who wishes to rent an apartment on Washington Heights has a far better chance of being suited now than ever before. It is considered quite the proper thing to go "shopping" among the brokers' offices, and this fad is causing the brokers a lot of trouble, as they talk long and earnestly to the customer and to little avail.

A broker on the Heights said that nearly all the renting is done from the buildings and not from the offices direct, so much so that in many cases they have a "renting office" established on the premises to be rented, and the lists furnished from the office are placed carefully in the shopping bag and lost in its archives along with forgotten dress goods samples and other things that usually go to make up that article of attire complete.

Heights real estate is best comprehended when considered in two sections, though it might be sub-divided into many classes of real estate. Section 1 might include the stretch between 136th and 160th street, and Section 2 the portion between 160th street and Fort George. It will be remembered that the Heights is only from three to four blocks in width and about three miles in length, so really there is not so much property there.

In Section 1 there are four classes of property, viz.: private dwellings, elevator apartments, non-elevator apartments and "old law" houses. The section has some advantage over that property above 160th street, as it is nearer the business district and has somewhat better transit facilities, there being a surface line running east through 145th street to Harlem, in addition to those lines running north and south.

The demand for private houses is far greater than the supply and there is practically nothing to be had, but in the apartment proposition the owners have a serious problem to face. There has been an enormous amount of building during the two years just past and now the owners have arrived at the interesting stage where they must get revenue from their holdings and fill their houses as speedily as possible.

The prospective tenant is quick to see the condition of affairs and promptly says, "Now is my chance to get even for everything that I have had to put up with in the past. I will hold off a little while, though really that apartment in No. — West —— street is just what I am looking for, but I think that I can get some more repairs or a little free rent by waiting awhile." But to her dismay when she comes around "in a little while" some more progressive tenant is occupying the apartment, and then, no matter where she may locate, she always harps back to the apartment that "she did not get."

As in many other things, there are two classes of tenants, those favoring the "old law" house and those who will not take anything but the newest. Those in favor of the "old-law" house claim that one gets larger rooms, more closets and more real comfort at a cheaper rent than in the new houses, while those who differ from them, for their side, claim that new-law houses have handsome entrances, larger air shafts, more light and are more prosperous looking, though tenants have to pay more rent. The condition on the Heights briefly are as follows: Those houses which give the most for money received, whether old or new-law houses, are those that are first filled, while those which are improperly constructed are suffering.

In Section 2 there is another condition to be faced, viz., that it is in a less developed condition. Some of the streets are unfinished, though in the course of a year it will look vastly different from what it does at the present time. There is one big improvement going on at the present time, paving Broadway north of 169th st to Fort George with asphalt blocks, and while a number of the side streets are completed, still the city is at present working on many, and there are quite a number which will not be touched for a year or so. There are really but two main streets in this section, namely Broadway and Amsterdam av, the extension of Riverside drive can hardly be counted, as it is strictly a driveway under the management of the Park Department and does not lend itself to the apartment house proposition. There is only one business street, Amsterdam av, though there are a few stores on Audubon av, and the condition of the store rentals is most satisfactory. There are but few vacancies at the present time and those occupied command good rentals.

There has been a great deal said about what affect the American League grounds have on the property in the neighborhood, and the consensus of opinion among the brokers is that it is a good thing to have something to regularly bring people to any section. That when once they get used to traveling to a new location, the time consumed in transit does not seem so long. There are a great number of people who used to say, "What! live on Washington Heights? I guess not if I know what I am doing." But after having gone up there a few times and observing the location and natural beauties, they speedily change their minds and stop being like the man who remarked, "I am open to conviction, but would like to see the man who is able to convict me."

The number of new houses that have been erected on the Heights during the last two years is certainly astounding, and to one who has not been in that location for that period it seems as though they were in an entirely new city. Old landmarks have been replaced by modern buildings and familiar views have been changed almost beyond recognition. There has certainly been an overproduction of apartments, but it will not take a long time before things will adjust themselves. There has been a great deal of changing of tenants, and possibly one of the best indications is that in ten election districts there have been 1,600 removals since the last primary; that is, that number of voters have left the districts and their places have been taken by others. The primary lists this year will be far in excess of any year's record in the past.

Concessions in rent are allowed in some cases, usually the first two weeks, and if the tenant stays six months she is allowed an additional two weeks — completing the month. They are held off six months until they get the final two weeks as an evidence of good faith that they will be permanent and not just a monthly tenant.

The Heights section has one great thing in its favor, both from the standpoint of the owner and the tenant. It is cool in summer, getting the prevailing southwest winds off the Hudson, and the occupants of houses there are less liable to leave town during the summer months than those in less favored locations. Probably there is no city in the world in which there is so much moving around from house to house as in this city, and in a great measure that accounts for high rentals. Were things on a more permanent basis, and the owner did not have to figure such a large per cent for "Loss of Rent" it would certainly react in favor of the tenant and the cost per room net would be less. The old saying should be changed to read, "It is cheaper to pay rent than move."

Other Buyers Besides the Operators.

A great deal of importance has been attached of late to the statements that operators are no longer buying realty as frequently as formerly, and while this may be true in a sense, and is doubtless the result of present high prices, it pales into insignificance in the light of the fact that in round numbers there are 20,000 more property owners in Manhattan this year than last, which is sufficient proof that there are still plenty of laymen and others who may be counted on to buy realty even though the operators retire permanently from the field.

What a House Costs in Flatbush

IN the minds of most New Yorkers Flatbush is practically unknown. Some fifteen or twenty years ago land sold by the acre at from $800 to $1,500, or say by the lot at from $60 to $100, and plenty to be had. The garden truck farmers raised vegetables for the city market. New Yorkers knew the region when they passed through it on their way to Coney Island. The old Dutch families clung to their traditional exclusiveness and no welcome hand was held out to the stranger looking for a place in which to settle. Prospect Park to the northwest seemed to shut it off from the city (then) of Brooklyn. Though older than its neighbor, it was years behind it in all that goes to make up progress. Occasionally a horse car went through to Canarsie lane, often one got off at the park, and rather than wait footed it a mile or more. The Old Dutch Church was the centre of its life and influence; exclusiveness and a lack of neighborly hospitality were the predominant characteristics of the place. Now all is changed, and why?

First and foremost, because owing to the introduction of the trolley and the connections made by which the cars of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Co. and of the Brighton Beach R. R. were enabled to run over the Brooklyn Bridge (the latter via the Kings County or Fulton Street Elevated R. R.) at a cost of five cents, people were able to reach New York in from 30 to 40 minutes. And secondly, because certain far-seeing men called attention to the attractiveness of the location and its vast possibilities. The response was not long in coming, great tracts of land were purchased by these real estate boomers, as they were termed, from the original owners, many titles being over 100 years in the same family, assistance was offered in the shape of loans for the purpose of improvement, and liberal terms made in the purchase of plots. Those desirous of buying and settling, reading the advertisements, were impressed with the desirability of the place, and after visiting and investigating the neighborhood, began a settlement which has each year grown to large proportions; until to-day Flatbush is by all odds the most active and growing section of the Borough of Brooklyn, if not the City of New York, from a real estate standpoint. First detached frame houses were built on 40-foot front plots, then came the apartments, and now the 2-family brick houses. These latter offer to the purchaser an opportunity of living in a house with all modern improvements; open plumbing, electric lights, etc., having two entire floors, basement and first floor; and renting the upper floor, separately furnished as to heating, plumbing, etc., thus getting their own quarters practically rent free, for these second floors rent for from $35 to $50 per month, and offer surroundings for a small family not obtainable in an apartment house.

A good house of this description, of from 17 ft. to 20 ft. x 50 x 100, can be obtained in residential neighborhoods within easy access to cars to New York, for from $7,500 to $9,000. The absence of tenements, the facilities for bringing up families in the midst of schools, churches, parks, trees, wide streets, and away from the crowds, all make a combination of benefit absolutely unattainable in Manhattan or the Bronx, even at three times the price. The school system is one of the very best. New buildings are now open to the thousands of children who seek their privileges; the water supply is not equaled in any of the boroughs of the city. These conditions naturally educate a class of citizens of a high order, and result in a community unique in a metropolitan district. All the advantages of a city without the confinement, noise and bustle are there found. For a man of modern means, say with an income from $1,000 to $5,000, I know of no part of the city where he can get as much return in health and pleasure as in Flatbush. For the builder and operator, the opportunity offered for profits in real estate is almost a certainty, as the demand is an ever increasing one and of a legitimate character.

Flatbush as a community has no exact counterpart, a large section laid out with due regard to artistic effect, convenient to all parts of the Greater City, the ocean shore, where a young married man may take a family and live well, sure that his children will have the advantages of education, and be free from obnoxious surroundings, perfect sanitary provisions and abundant water of the purest. Surely all these, together with reasonable prices, combine to make a home proposition unequaled. The near approach of the completion of the 4-track Brighton Beach R. R., which will give additional transit facilities, together with the completion of the Brooklyn subway and tunnel connection with the Manhattan subway, mark additional steps forward and surely will result in a reduction of time to New York, together with added comfort. Practically speaking, there are no houses to rent in Flatbush. One goes there to live, and such are the terms under which houses can be bought, it is cheaper to buy than to rent, and in addition to the independence of ownership, share in the ever-increasing value of the property.

Manhattan has ceased to be a section where the man of moderate means can live, unless he is content to become a flat dweller. I maintain the advantages to be found in Flatbush for family life are absolutely unique, and when this fact becomes known, the already remarkable growth witnessed during the past few years will be outdone. Within a few years Brooklyn will be, according to the percentage furnished by the city authorities, the most populous of any of the five boroughs. When will New Yorkers, as the dwellers of Manhattan call themselves, throw off their insularity and investigate? When they do, they will act and find it is to their advantage. Broad thoroughfares, shaded walks, abundance of all the comforts of city life, with fresh air and open country added, the independence of ways of travel to and from one's business in the metropolis, present a rare combination.

Torrens Commission Organizes.

The commisisoners appointed by Governor Hughes to investigate the Torrens system of land registration held their first meeting on Wednesday at the rooms of the Real Estate Board of Brokers, 156 Broadway, Manhattan. One of the first matters acted upon was the permanent name of that body, and it was decided to adopt the title of "New York State Commission to Investigate the Torrens System of Registering Titles." Mr. David A. Clarkson, who is chairman, said that two committees which were appointed at the first meeting will proceed at once to make preliminary investigations. One is to report at the next general meeting upon the best method of obtaining the latest facts on the subject, and is also to draft a circular communication to be sent to officials of States and foreign countries where the Torens system is now in use requesting full information. The commission has arranged to meet at 55 Liberty st, where it will hold its next meeting on the first of October.

Aids to Business Making.

A lucrative department of a real estate office is the leasing of tenement property entire. The expiration of these leases should be noted in the margin of the Record and Guide Quarterly in variously colored inks. Thus August written in red in the margin of the Quarterly of 1902 would mean that the lease expired August, 1907. Green would mean 1908, etc. This applies as well to lofts and stores. The owner of the property should be located in the Real Estate Directory.

PRIVATE SALES MARKET

Review of the Week.

ALTHOUGH real estate trading in general is responding slowly to the tireless efforts of the professional negotiator, the character of recent dealings is sufficient to indicate that there is at least a good demand for specialties at this time. This is further accentuated by an important deal in Chambers and Reade st realty which was closed during the past week, involving a sum approaching a million dollars. The parcel mentioned may be said to have been among the few large available sites for improvement in the City Hall section. It will be recalled that formerly there was some talk of the city acquiring the entire block in Chambers st east of Broadway as a site for the new Court House, and although the idea is generally understood to have been abandoned there are those who believe that this improvement will be made. Based upon this hypothesis the acquisition of property in that block, aside from other influences, is likely to prove a speculation of some moment.

While the majority of purchases during the week were cash transactions, an inspection of the budget will nevertheless show that an increasing number of exchanges are taking place, plainly reflecting the continued high tension of the mortgage market. Not only is the unfavorable situation in this respect largely responsible for the abnormally small volume of trading, but it is temporarily interfering as well with the progress of building throughout all the boroughs of the city. Building loans are still difficult to procure, and usually when granted the lender takes advantage of the period of stringency by exacting higher charges for the accommodation. This condition, whatever its real cause, appears to be confined to the metropolitan district, for elsewhere mortgage money is plentiful, as is attested by the quantity of outside funds which have lately been invested in mortgages on New York City realty. Those in a position to judge look for an early easing-up in this direction, which will likely be followed by a decided quickening in real property trading, likewise a renewal of active building operations. Meanwhile, but little liquidation is recorded, and prices may still be said to be firm.

Aside from the large purchase of property in Chambers st trading in lower Manhattan realty has narrowed down to commonplace transactions. Above 59th st the results of the past week seem to indicate that private dwellings will continue to be the feature in that zone, at least for the remainder of the present season. Up on Washington Heights an increased number of sales is noticed, and over in the Bronx, besides the purchase of a block front on White Plains road, a row of ten houses on Grant av was sold before completion. The total number of private sales reported is 49, of which 7 were below 59th st, 26 above, and 16 in the Bronx.

SOUTH OF 59TH STREET.

CHERRY ST.—Ruland & Whiting Co. sold for the Nassau Bank to Harris Shapiro the 5-sty building 246 and 248 Cherry st, 42x138x irregular.

A Million Dollar Deal.

CHAMBERS ST.—Through the efforts of E. A. Tredwell, the Century Realty Co. and the Alliance Realty Co. sold for about $1,000,000 cash 43 to 47 Chambers st, running through to 21 to 25 Reade st. The parcel fronts 75.1 ft. on Chambers st and 74.9 on Reade st, the total depth being 151.4 ft. The name of the purchaser has not been revealed. It is understood though that he contemplates improving the site in the immediate future with a large business building. About 11 months ago the property was acquired by the Century Realty Co. for about $700,000, the seller in that instance being the Russell-Erwin Mfg. Co., who will continue to occupy the premises until January, 1908. The parcel is admirably situated, and is generally regarded as an ideal location for a modern office building. Adjoining the premises on the east is the American News Co., and on the west the building of the Emigrant Industrial Savings Bank. As this block has frequently been mentioned as a site for the proposed new court house, property thereon offers no little attraction as a speculative proposition.

THOMPSON ST.—Morris Denbosky sold to Lewis Kresner 168 Thompson st, a 3-sty tenement, 18x75. This parcel is situated between Bleecker and West Houston sts. Mills House No. 1 is diagonally opposite.

A Quick Turn.

NEW BUSINESS

Can be obtained by advertising in the RECORD AND GUIDE.

Geo. W. Robinson is the buyer of 309 West 107th st, recently sold by Thomas Shanley through Hillenbrand & Nasoit.

A number of apartment hotels in the district between 27th and 30th sts have been opened within the last year or so and they all report renting as very good with prices well maintained.

Herbert J. Cantrell, of Jerome and Fordham avs, Bronx, says that renting in Fordham Heights has been excellent, and that the demand for apartments and 2-family houses in that locality is unabated.

For some time past real estate operators have been buying up corners on Madison av, south of 34th st, and have placed them in the market for sale and to lease for long terms for business purposes.

Judge Guy, of the Supreme Court, has appointed Terrance Sullivan receiver of the rents of 44 Allen st pending a suit brought by Samuel Scheindelman against the H. L. Feldman Realty Co. and others to foreclose a mortgage of $6,800.

It is gratifying to the owners of business buildings on 5th av., above 23d st., the way stores, lofts and offices are being rented. The average price is between $2 and $2.50 a sq. ft., and it is difficult to procure a place of considerable size.

There is a strong undertone to the realty market in the section between 25th and 34th sts, Madison and Lexington avs. The property is in strong hands and it is predicted that there will be a material advance in values during the coming winter.

On lower 5th av., where there are still a few old dwellings that have not made way for business houses, it is customary for the owner to defray the cost of the alterations if for a short-term lease, but if for a long term, as 21 years, the tenant pays the bill.

There is a very good class of stores on Park av., above 59th st., and they draw their custom largely from the residential section west to 5th av. Store rents are high, but, judging from the small number of vacancies, there does not seem to be much trouble in securing tenants.

An old landmark in 30th st, east of Madison av, is doomed to go. Occupying part of a 34-ft. lot is a 3-sty frame dwelling which is being used at the present time, and very appropriately, as an antique shop. This property was sold about two years ago, and that sale was the first in about fifty years.

It is reported that Geo. B. Wilson, of Philadelphia, is the buyer of the six 5-sty flats at the junction of West 125th st and Hancock pl, sold recently by Leopold Weil for Harry Shwitzer.

Wood, Harmon & Co. sold 11 of the 2-family houses just completed in 44th and 45th sts, near 18th av, Flatbush, Brooklyn. The buyers are Andrew Olsen, William C. and Walter Nida, John S. Mirth, August West, Edward J. Plant, Mrs. Mary V. McLaughlin, E. J. Plant, Jr.; Eugene La Voe, Mary J. Tatten and Mrs. M. Whaley.

Wilgus, Kelly & Co., who recently opened spacious real estate offices at 3 East 14th st, appear to be well satisfied with the present and future outlook of the firm's business. Messrs. Wilgus & Kelly were formerly with Osgood, Pell & Co., 5th av, and are well known in real estate circles. With them are associated S. H. Hannan, broker, and W. F. Beal, the prominent operator.

John Donnelly, who was the broker in the sale of the northwest corner of Lexington av and 30th st, reports that there is in course of construction a 6-sty building for the use of the School of Applied Design for Women, which will be opened about January 1 next. The list of officers and directors includes Messrs. Henry B. Wilson, Charles G. Emery, Frank Tilford, Elihu Root, Archer M. Huntington.

Mr. David A. Clarkson, of Ogden & Clarkson, 60 Liberty st, Manhattan, in alluding to the quiet condition of the realty market, expressed the belief that the present situation is due in no small degree to the attractions in the stock market. In support of this theory he pointed to the large gain in the number of holders of New York Central stock which has increased within the last year from 9,000 to 15,000.

That part of the city bounded by 5th and Park avs., and 60th to about 90th sts., is practically devoted to private dwellings of the most advanced type. Everything that has been found for the comfort of the owner has been utilized to advantage, and that section is the "show part" of town. There are some apartments on Madison av. in this district, but they are few and far between and of the highest type.

A position is desired by a man familiar with real estate and who is an expert as well in construction. Another position is wanted by an experienced renting man with a good record. See Wants and Offers. It will also be noticed there that an opportunity is offered to dispose of an interest in an established real estate business, and an advertiser wishes it known that he has storage room for builders to let. In the same column attention is called to a set of atlases which are offered for sale.

Those private dwellings that are in the course of construction on 5th av., above 59th st., and on adjoining side streets, are being built according to the fashion of the present year; namely, white marble. The fashion changes frequently, and it is only a very few years ago that red brick with white trimmings surplanted the brownstone building, and the fashion to follow was light brick; then came the lime-stone front, and now white marble, which, by the way, goes back to the style of about 1875. The combination certainly makes a "city beautiful."

There is rather a unique building in the course of erection at 27 and 29 East 30th st. The entrance is through 121 Madison av., and, in reality, it is an addition to that building. The new addition is arranged as a 2-story house, part of each apartment being on two floors. The tenant that occupies the first floor front has his bed rooms and bath on the second floor back, while the occupant of the second floor front has his bed rooms on the first floor back. There are three rooms and bath to an apartment, and two apartments to a floor. The plot is 40 ft. front, so the rooms are all large and light. The parlors average nearly 20 ft. square, while one bed room is 16x22 ft., and the other 14x20. There is no provision for housekeeping, and it is classed as a bachelor apartment house. There has not been a vacancy in No. 121 Madison av. in sixteen years, though there have been some changes of tenancy during that period. Rather an unusual condition of affairs. A. O. Heddick is the architect.

THE AUCTION MARKET

THE past week's auction offerings were of a greater variety than was contained in the budget for the preceding period. In addition to the monotonous legal sales the list included several of a voluntary nature for which good prices were realized. On Monday Bryan L. Kennelly sold to C. W. Wilonick for $11,300 a 3-sty brick building, 22.10x56.5, at 716 Washington st. Another parcel at 413 Lenox av, 25.5x90, a 3-sty dwelling, was knocked down by the same auctioneer to Ernest M. Strong at $25,600, considered a satisfactory figure. At the stand of Joseph P. Day, Nos. 10 to 20 West 138th st, three 6-sty brick tenements were struck off to the plaintiffs, Isaac Lieberman and Harris Friedman for $134,701. The amount due on judgment in this case was $2,119, subject to other mortgages for $119,135. On Tuesday no business was transacted in the auction room, but at the Court House in White Plains Bryan L. Kennelly sold about 327 acres of land in north Yonkers for $177,300, averaging nearly $540 per acre. This parcel was offered as a result of a foreclosure suit brought by the estate of Collis P. Huntington against Francis H. Kneeland. There being no competition the plaintiff secured the property. On Wednesday, among other properties, Mr. Day sold in foreclosure a parcel at the northwest corner of 2d avenue and 3d street, 24x100, a 4-sty brick building, with store, to Wm. H. Davidow for $40,500, and at another sale of a like nature he struck off a vacant plot, 50x100, on the south side of 236th st, 100 ft. east of Keppler av to J. B. Powers for $1,700. The third instalment of the Kneeland property was also sold on Wednesday. It consisted of 76 lots on Aqueduct, Harrison and Tremont avs, Macomb's road and 176th st, and was knocked down by Bryan L. Kennelly to the plaintiffs on a bid of $160,000.

The Truth Distilled.

Once in a while the truth plumps out concerning some of the much acclaimed "suburbanettes." For example, as it can be found unadulterated in a recent Mount Vernon weekly:

"Let us be honest among ourselves. Can we, in view of present conditions, conscientiously urge those who are not now of us to share our lot? What have we to offer? Here are a few of the inducements: The poisonous water, the obnoxious and dangerous trolley service, the lighting extortion, the excessive railroad charges, the ice swindle, the exorbitant rents, the unparalleled apathy of the people concerning these ills and their entire indifference to all municipal questions. Until conditions are changed Mount Vernon seems to be a place to get away from."

Does any other little sister wish to speak?

Managing an Apartment House—II.

To the Editor of Record and Guide:

My experience in managing property for the last ten years or more, both as a clerk in several offices, and managing property directly for the owners, has proven to me that it is not essential that an agent's office be located near the property over which he has absolute charge and sole management. In fact, I can quote many instances when the management of a house has received more careful attention, and the premises more regularly visited when the same is at a distance from the agent's office, than when across the street or around the corner. It is true that successful results depend largely on the character of the janitor, and it is essential that the managing agent be sufficiently discerning to select the proper man.

When one is hunting for an apartment the matter resolves itself into three heads: 1, locality; 2, price; 3, appearance.

The prospective tenants having decided on the neighborhood in which they wish to locate, make a thorough search for apartments within their means, making a mental note of those which are the most attractive in appearance, inquiring not only at the house showing the agent's sign, but also where an entrance is clean and shows careful attention. If the price and the arrangement is satisfactory, the prospective tenant, usually the wife, communicates with her husband or makes an appointment for the agent to meet her husband at his office, which is invariably downtown, and if references are satisfactory the lease is signed. This applies to one class of apartments as well as to another.

I claim that all New York improved property can be managed, considering all the conveniences for travel and telephone, just as successfully from a distance, as well as with an office on the premises.

WILLIAM S. DENISON.

141 Broadway, Manhattan.

Continued Lot Buying on Staten Island.

Wood, Harmon & Co. recently compiled a statement showing the results of their 15 months' operations at South New York, Richmond Borough. The total number of lots sold at that time equaled 4,208, the aggregate selling price being $1,259,150, and the average price per lot about $300. In all 25 houses have been erected or are now in course of construction, of which 12 were completed and sold for $62,820. The building fund now totals $40,000 and will eventually amount to $100,000. It will be divided among those who actually start building during the first five years from the beginning of the undertaking. The chief tracts which have been opened are Additions 1, 2, 3 and 4, the first two having been almost entirely sold, and the third nearly so. At this rate it will take but a short time to close out the entire holdings of the company at South New York.

Of Interest to Property Owners.

The Water-Meter Test Case.

VIEWS OF THE COUNSEL OF THE UNITED REAL ESTATE OWNERS ON THE KEOGH DECISION.

THE Department of Water Supply several months ago issued a large number of orders, requiring the owners of tenement houses in which there were stores to install water-meters "on pipes supplying the store floor, basement and yard of the premises." Under the construction placed by the department on the law, the Department claimed power to require a meter in every house in which there was a store, and it was frankly stated by the Water Register that orders would be issued in every such case. Hundreds of members of the United Real Estate Owners' Associations received these notices.

The statute under which the Commissioner derives his power is the following:

Section 475 of the Greater New York Charter:
"The commissioner of water supply is authorized in his discretion to cause water meters, the pattern and price of which shall be approved by the Board of Aldermen, to be placed in all stores, workshops, hotels, manufactories, office buildings, public edifices, at wharves, ferry houses, stables and in all places where water is furnished for business consumption, and if authorized to, either by resolution or ordinance of the Board of Aldermen, in all apartment houses, tenements, flat houses and private dwellings."

The Department claimed the right not only to meter the stores, but the apartments in the rear of stores, basements under the stores, toilets and sinks in the hall on the store floor, toilets and all other fixtures in the yard, etc. In other words, all of the fixtures on the store floor, basement and yard of the premises. The owner was given thirty days in which to comply with the order and upon failure to do so, the orders would be promptly issued to the City Plumber, who installed meters and charged the expense as a lien upon the premises. The charges of the City Plumbers in these cases were notoriously exorbitant.

In order to test the power of the Commissioner and to prevent the enforcement of what were considered unlawful orders, the United Real Estate Owners' Association decided to institute and prosecute to final judgment a series of test cases. The case of Smith vs. O'Brien was accordingly selected.

Mr. Adolph Bloch, of No. 99 Nassau st., counsel for the United Real Estate Owners' Association, upon being interviewed by a representative of the Record and Guide, with reference to the recent decision of Justice Keogh in this case, gave this account of the matter:

"The Department had issued orders requiring the installation of water-meters in premises No. 302 West 20th st., 191-93 8th av., 259 West 19th st., and 263 West 19th st., in this city. These premises presented all the questions sought to be decided. Some of the stores had apartments in the rear thereof, separated by solid wall partitions. These were occupied by the tenants of the stores, and contained the usual water fixtures, laundry tubs, toilets, sink, etc. Other stores in these premises were occupied wholly independent of any apartment. In all of the houses there were toilets either in the halls or in the yards, used jointly by the tenants of the stores and of the apartments above.

"We desired to bring the matter fairly and squarely before the Court for a decision. An application was made and granted for a preliminary injunction and an order to show cause why an injunction should not be issued pendente lite. This motion was argued before Mr. Justice Davis, who decided, upon the affidavits and briefs submitted, in favor of our contention and granted an injunction, restraining the Department from enforcing the order until final judgment had been rendered upon the trial of the case.

"It was the contention of the City upon the trial of the case, which was held before Judge Keogh, of the Supreme Court, briefly stated, that the Commissioner had authority to meter any water to which the tenant of any store has access. In other words, if the store was used as a stationery store, in which there were no fixtures and the store-keeper occupied the apartment in the rear of the store as a dwelling for his family and himself, using the water supplied in the apartment for domestic purposes and occasionally for use in the store, washing windows, scrubbing floors, etc., then the Department had authority to require the metering of the supply pipes in the apartments, because the tenant had access to such pipes and might, and in some cases would, use the same for a purpose connected with his business. Because a tenant of the store had access to the toilets in the yard, even though they may be used jointly with other tenants, yet, it was contended, that the City had a right to require them to be metered.

"I contended, as counsel for the plaintiff, that the language of the Statute was clear as to the intention of the Legislature. Water-meters should, in the discretion of the Commissioner, be required in stores, workshops, hotels, manufactories, etc., and places where water is furnished for business consumption, but should not be required to be placed in apartment houses, tenement houses and yards, except upon the authority of the Board of Aldermen. The effect of the order as referred to would be to place them in tenement houses. The reason for the distinction made by Section 475 is sufficiently obvious and familiar to the people of the City and has frequently been adverted to at hearings before the Legislature and the Board of Aldermen, when suggested changes of the law on this subject have been brought forward; namely, that it is public policy to curtail the waste of water furnished for business purposes and to encourage the use of water furnished for domestic purposes. In our crowded tenement districts, people would not keep clean if the water they used were to be paid for by measure. On this ground, all of the recent attempts to increase the power of the Commissioner in respect to the metering of tenement houses have failed. If the theory of the City were to prevail, this distinction of the law would be utterly ignored and apartments of store keepers and tenement houses would be required to be metered if they happened to be on the same floor as a store or near to it.

"It is to be noticed that Section 475 of the Charter does not authorize the Commissioner to regulate by water-meter all water used for business consumption, or all water that is furnished for business consumption, and it does authorize him "to cause water-meters to be placed in all stores, workshops, hotels, manufactories, office buildings, public edifices, at wharves, ferry houses, stables, and in all places where water is furnished for business consumption." It was evidently the intention of the Legislature to have water which is furnished for all purposes of business regulated by meters. The Statute enumerates some such places where water is used for business purposes, as stores, work shops, hotels, etc. It omits others, as theaters, opera houses, etc. It refers to them by the general description: "places where water is furnished for business consumption." The expressions given "stores," "ferry-houses," etc., make it perfectly clear as to what sort of "places" are referred to. Dwelling apartments and tenement houses are not "places in which water is furnished for business consumption," according to the proper interpretation of the Statute. It is not possible to meter every drop of water used for business and leave unmetered every drop used for domestic purposes, because a small quantity of water may be occasionally deferred for other purposes. Stores in which there are water fixtures through which water is furnished for business consumption would, therefore, be metered, but only such stores and not other portions of the premises.

"Judge Keogh, on the trial of the case, after hearing all of the witnesses and proofs presented by both the plaintiff and the defendant, and after consideration of the briefs submitted, rendered a decision sustaining our contention. He signed findings, and judgment was accordingly entered, by which it was adjudged that the Commissioner of Water Supply had no power to require the metering of any portion of the premises except the store proper, in which water fixtures were contained and by which water was actually furnished for business consumption. In other words, the apartments in the rear, toilets in the yard, used in common by the tenants of the house, etc., need not be metered, and the orders of the Department in that respect are absolutely null and void. The Corporation Counsel had concluded not to take an appeal and his time to do so has expired, so that the construction placed by the Supreme Court upon Section 475 of the Charter is now the law.

"I think that by the conduct of this case to a successful conclusion, the United Real Estate Owners' Association has rendered an important service to realty interests throughout the City. There are many houses in the City of New York, in which all of the fixtures throughout the house have been metered in obedience to former orders of the Department. In my opinion, the owners have unquestionably the right to disconnect the meters from all fixtures, except from those actually in the store itself. Mr. Ira J. Ettinger was associated with me in the conduct of this litigation. At our suggestion, committees have been appointed by the various local organizations constituting the United Real Estate Owners' Association for the purpose of considering the individual cases of members. In our opinion, the effect of the decision is that not only are the owners relieved from the burden of metering rear apartments, toilets, etc., but, in all cases where this work had been done pursuant to the orders issued, such portions of the premises may be disconnected from the meter.

"The grave question is also presented, whether the orders issued by the Department in the usual form are not absolutely illegal, and, consequently, the enforcement thereof by the Department was unwarranted by law, and we have now under consideration the advisability of instituting further actions for an adjudication declaring the charges made by the City Plumbers as unauthorized and to require the Department to cancel them as liens against the premises."

Oppose Extension of Fire Limits.

REALTY interests and residents of the Bronx are thoroughly aroused over the proposed extension of the fire limits in that borough, for if the new lines suggested by the Underwriters and the Fire Department are actually established the construction of frame buildings will be prohibited in that portion of the Bronx south of Fordham rd. and Pelham av., with the exception of the section of Hunt's Point east of Spofford av, and Casanova st. It is argued that the proposition is ill-timed, unnecessary, and not adaptable to the era. A large part of the territory in question has already been given over to villa construction, and extensive property interests are desirous of continuing this class of improvement as heretofore. Should the proposed change become operative it is said that it will undoubtedly retard building of every sort in the West Bronx for several years to come, because of the increased cost of construction thereby.

Perhaps the greatest hardship would be felt by the small home seekers, many of whom have been planning to improve their vacant lots with moderate cost cottages and two-family houses. If the proposed extension of the fire limits is established they will be compelled to adopt other and more expensive building materials or dispose of their holdings, perhaps at a loss. This would result in the migration of a large number of desirable but disappointed citizens to places beyond the boundaries of the city. Not only would its influence be inimical to the best interests of the municipality, but harmful as well to both real estate and building activities within the territory affected.

In commenting on the situation Mr. Herbert J. Cantrell, of Jerome and Fordham avs., said he was of the opinion that the Committee on Fire Limits had taken up the subject prematurely, and that if the recommendations of the Fire Committee were adopted lot-owners would be subjected to considerable hardship. As far as building is concerned, Mr. Cantrell is also of the belief that the extension of the fire-limits would act as a deterent in this respect for the next five years. The present is no time for brick construction, he affirmed.

So far as the Middle Bronx is concerned, there is less opposition to the new fire line, although Mr. W. L. Varian, of 2777 Webster av., said that it would surely drive out the two-family house builder, and have a tendency for a while to interfere with the sale of vacant lots. The latter opinion is shared in by Mr. Walter E. Brown, of R. I. Brown's Sons, 3428 3d av., who said in unmistakable terms that the matter was being carried too far, and would, besides injuring the prospects for the sale of vacant property, discourage home-seekers and put a damper on many projected building operations.

It is the concensus of opinion, however, that frame building in rows should be prohibited, but that the construction of frame villas or single or two-family cottages of the detached order on plots fronting not less than 50 ft. should not be interfered with.

POSITION OF THE CIVIC LEAGUE.

Mr. W. W. Niles, of Niles & Johnson, 11 Wall st., President of the Civic League of the Bronx, informed the Record and Guide that the chief reason why the league is opposed to the extension of the fire limits is the belief that such extension is unnecessary and on account of existing conditions would be extremely harmful.

The Bronx will be without adequate transit facilities for many years to come, and the massing of population will exist only in the immediate vicinity of the existing transit lines. The rest of the Borough for a long time to come will have a population of little relative density and which will call chiefly for small residences and detached two-family houses. These should preferably be built of frame, not only on account of the original expense of building, but because they will be temporary and must eventually give way to more substantial buildings.

To extend the fire limits as proposed, would be to practically put an end to any further development throughout the greater part of the Borough, included within such extended fire limits, and would be a mistake which would cause enormous loss, from which the Borough in all likelihood would never recover. The prospective enormous increase in transit facilities to New Jersey and Long Island make it imperative that this mistake should not be committed. It might be well as a compromise measure to prohibit the erection of any frame building to accommodate more than two families anywhere within the Bronx.

Harlem Property Owners' Association Meeting.

At a meeting of the Harlem Property Owners' Association, held on Friday evening, Sept. 13, at their rooms, No. 147 East 125th st, a committee was appointed to recommend to the committee appointed by the judges of the Municipal Court to revise their rules, and of which Justice Lauer is chairman, certain modifications in regard to Landlord and Tenant cases, as to the granting of time in hold-over cases when the first of any month falls on a Sunday or holiday, or when the first and second fall on a Sunday and Monday, as in September; the appearances of the judges on the bench at 9 A. M. sharp and not the clerk, and that when the judge is absent from court some other judge be assigned to his place. The question of the recent water meter decision, and also the excessive city plumbing charges, were matters also taken up.

Washington Heights Taxpayers.

F. Flanigan, has died, and his heirs resign the contract, which has been in a large measure executed.

House Numbers.

A recently adopted ordinance relates to the conspicuous numbering of buildings in Manhattan, which is one of the matters in which the Washington Heights Taxpayers' Association collaborated with the West End Association, but the requirements do not seem to be widely known to taxpayers.

Section 1. The owner of every building in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, upon a street to which street numbers have been assigned, shall cause the street number of the same to be plainly and legibly displayed in such manner that the same may be seen and read from the sidewalk in front thereof.
Sec. 2. Any person violating this ordinance shall be liable to a penalty of $25, to be recovered in an action which shall be brought by the Corporation Counsel after giving thirty days' written notice to the owner of the building to comply with the ordinance. Such notice shall be given by depositing the same, together with a copy of this ordinance, in a postpaid wrapper in the New York post office, addressed to the owner of the building at the building.

Obstruction in Streets.

Where there is an obstruction of a permanent nature upon a public street, particularly where it is of long standing and a right to maintain it is asserted, a court of equity will entertain jurisdiction of the matter upon an injunction proceeding brought by the city. Where a permit for a vault contemplated an opening under, but not through, the sidewalk, and the ordinance in force when the permit was issued regulating such openings expressly limited them to the space within five feet of the building line, an opening through the sidewalk and beyond that distance constituted a nuisance per se. No lapse of time will deprive the public of its right to have an encroachment on a highway removed, where the encroachment does not extend to the full width of the highway and entirely cut off travel. Where it does not appear that the city at any time possessed authority to permit a certain encroachment upon a public street, it may not be inferred by lapse of time that a permit therefor was issued.

Large Profit in Police Farm.

It is understood that the Queens County Grand Jury is likely to investigate the facts connected with the acquisition of the police horse farm at Flushing. The city paid $105,000 for the tract which consists of about 22 acres located in the vicinity of Kissena Lake. Previous to this purchase the same property was sold by Frederick Schumacher to James A. Hennessy for $22,000. Mr. Hennessy was the representative of the Cortland Realty Company. The parcel then found a purchaser in Geo. A. Logan, who conveyed the property to Dr. E. P. Porter, who finally sold the tract to the City of New York as a police farm and stable.

New "Poor's Manual" Out.

The following are the members of the House and Real Estate Own- issued. It is in all respects the most complete volume of the entire series, embracing 2,000 pages of condensed information concerning the railroad, street railway and industrial corporations of the United States.

Allied Real Estate Interests and the Building Code

REAL ESTATE interests may be expected to give considerable attention to the report of the Building Code Commission when it appears and to ask for an opportunity to do this before the Aldermen take final action. From present appearances there will be no chance for property interests to be represented in the framing of the code in advance of the report, as real estate interests are not definitely represented. Apart from the representatives of the municipal government, only underwriters, architects, engineers and builders are charged with this work, and owners have no voice. In a report which the Law Committee has made to the Allied Real Estate Interests of the State of New York, the recommendation is made that the association not only concern itself with the building code revision but also with the charter revision soon to be undertaken. Throughout the city extends a feeling that property interests should be consulted and not ignored when such fundamental bodies as the Public Service, the Building Code and the Charter Revision Commissions are named.

The first subject which receives the attention of the Law Committee of the Allied Interests in its report is the matter of the amendments to the Mortgage Tax Law which were deemed necessary to perfect it. The committee prepared a draft of the bill which was introduced by Senator Page and Mr. Wainwright, and thereafter participated actively in the hearings before legislative committees on the subject, and had considerable influence upon the form of the bill which was finally passed and has become Chapter 340 of the Laws of 1907. This bill incorporates in the law the matters which were desired by this Association and perfects it in technical details.

In addition to this work the Committee held weekly meetings, at which all bills relating in any manner to real estate were examined and discussed, and reports were made to the Board from time to time as to the desirability of the proposed legislation and the form of the bills, with recommendation as to the action thereon. This work was valuable and in some measure influential, both in preventing undesirable legislation and in promoting desirable bills, especially in criticising proposed legislation on matters of form and technical detail. The Committee recommends that this work be made a permanent feature of the organization:

There is much legislation proposed each year which affects real estate directly or affects the procedure and substantive law relating to the ownership and evolution of real property which should be carefully examined and criticised, both for matters of substance and form. So far as your committee is advised, there is no other organized effort in the State to watch legislation on behalf of the real estate interests.

There are other subjects which should engage the attention of this organization and its law committee in the future. A commission is now sitting to revise the Building Code of the City of New York. The work of that commission should receive attention and arrangements should be made to protect the interests of real estate owners so far as they can be affected by the work of that commission and to make suggestions as may be advantageous to builders and owners of real estate.

The commission to revise the city charter may appropriately take up subjects which will affect the interests of real estate owners in various ways, and we should seek an opportunity to make suggestions to that commission upon the subjects which affect the interest of our members, especially as it may be possible through that commission to settle the subject of bay windows and other projections upon the public streets. If that subject be not settled in the charter revision, the settlement of it will be a very important activity in which this organization must engage during the next session of the Legislature.

A commission is about to be appointed to consider the advisability of introducing a title registration system in this State. This matter is important to our members, and this organization should be prepared to aid that commission with advice and information and to receive through that commission knowledge which will aid this organization in determining whether it would be advisable to adopt such a system in this State.

Rapid transit legislation, the examination of the revision of the real property law, and other subjects which will come up during the next session of the Legislature, will furnish plenty of work for the law committee which will act during the next year. All these subjects are important, and action on them will be necessary from time to time. For that action, the advice of your law committee will be necessary.

The committee expressed appreciation of the support and consideration which it has received from the Board and expresses to the President its thanks for his sympathetic, active and laborious co-operation with its work, and participation in its deliberations. The report is signed by Walter Lindner, Stanley W. Dexter, R. B. Babbage, E. F. Clark, Middleton H. Borland.

REAL ESTATE RECORDS

Key to abbreviations:

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed. i. e.. a deed wherein all right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing a Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable considera, tion and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

4th.—The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deed. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

5th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

6th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

7th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

THE receivership of the New York City Railway Company will, it may be expected, cut the knot of a difficult situation, which it was beyond the power of financial ability to unravel. By means of a receivership it should be possible to simplify the organization of the surface-car lines in Manhattan, reduce their fixed charges to a figure justified by the earnings, and provide the money for necessary improvements. One cannot predict as yet with any certainty that these results will be achieved in a year or two, because litigation may intervene and delay a satisfactory settlement; but a solution of this kind cannot be delayed for long. The plain fact is that the street-car lines cannot earn their fixed charges, and the interest of the creditors and stockholders of the companies will be benefited by a reorganization, which will do away with the piling up of a deficit in order to declare a dividend. Manifestly, also, the interests of the public who use the cars will also be benefited by a receivership, for the company should emerge from its legal difficulties in a much better situation to fulfil its responsibilities. Why is it that a corporation, controlling all the surface-car lines in the most densely populated Borough of New York City—why is it that such a corporation should be unable to meet its liabilities? This question cannot be fully answered until after a complete official investigation has been made; but the salient conclusions which such an investigation will justify can already be sketched. In the first place, the business of consolidating the street railways of Manhattan and of transforming them into electric roads, while it was extremely profitable, was also extremely costly. The existing franchises and properties were acquired at high prices, which were represented by fixed charges on the earnings of the consolidated company; and the purchasing corporation was subsequently obliged to raise more money for improvements by the same means. Furthermore, it is apparent that the men who brought the consolidation about were not above the good old practice of milking the corporation for their own benefit. To a large extent these heavy expenses incident to consolidation could not be avoided, but if the company had been managed scrupulously in the interests of all its stockholders they could have been very much reduced. The object of the directors of the corporation was to bond the company and its subsidiary corporations for just as much as they could; and they undoubtedly increased the capitalization more than was necessary.

QUESTIONABLE financial methods were used by the organizers of the Metropolitan Company from the very start; but this fact did not prevent their operations from being in the beginning brilliantly successful. The stock in the company was selling about ten years ago for over 200, and its prospects were apparently of the brightest. Its earnings had been increasing steadily and largely. The improvement in the service, consequent on the electrification of the lines, enabled the trolley cars to attract many passengers from the elevated roads. The traffic on the elevated roads decreased for a number of years, while that on the surface lines was increasing at a ratio out of all proportion to the growth of the population. It was this extraordinary success at the outset which proved to be the undoing of the company. Its directors assumed that its earnings would continue to increase at much the same ratio, and all their financial plans were based upon such an expectation. They did not realize that the large increase in traffic was due in part to exceptional conditions, which would not and did not endure. As a matter of fact the change came very soon after the late Mr. W. C. Whitney succeeded in buying in his last competitor, which he did in 1899. The surface lines were obliged to compete first with a very much improved service on the part of the elevated roads, and later with the Subway. In this way many passengers were diverted from the surface cars—passengers which these cars would never have obtained in case the work of giving Manhattan really rapid transit had been undertaken at an earlier date. Even this increased competition, however, is not sufficient to explain the fact that for five or six years the earnings of the street-car lines have been practically stationary. No matter what the competition for long-distance traffic, the surface cars would have been fully compensated for its loss by the increase in the more profitable short-distance traffic—provided they could have maintained the quality of their own service. The failure of the company has been due far more to a deterioration in the efficiency of its own service than an improvement in that of the rapid transit roads. This was a contingency on which the financiers of the old Metropolitan Company never counted; and it is the contingency which is chiefly responsible for the present receivership of the system.

SINCE 1901 the increase in the general street traffic in Manhattan has been enormous. During that period the amount of business transacted on the island was not far from doubled; and the number of vehicles using the streets has increased almost to a corresponding extent. It is this condition which has made it impossible for the City Railway Company to improve its service, or even to maintain its old efficient standard. Their cars are subject to many more delays; and during the winter months it is impossible to move a sufficient number of cars past certain important points of intersection. The embarrassment, which the officials of the company have experienced in running its cars is, as the Record and Guide has frequently pointed out, the chief reason for the deterioration in the service; and this contention has been fully justified by the testimony offered to the Public Service Commission. The plain fact is that the street system of the Borough of Manhattan is wholly inadequate to the traffic it is obliged to carry; and the New York City Railway Company, as the most important business concern using the streets, has suffered from it more acutely than any other line of business. But in the course of time other lines of business will suffer in a similar way, because the congestion of street traffic is just as sure to become more acute as is the business of Manhattan to become more abundant.

IF THE FOREGOING description of the reasons for the receivership of the New York City Railway Company is true, they justify certain important references. The most important of these inferences is that the service offered by the company to the public will not be materially improved by a financial reorganization, or by the simple expedient of running more cars. The only effectual means of improving it will be to make arrangements which will enable the traffic to move more freely. Much can be accomplished in this respect by means of traffic regulations, such as have been suggested by the company's officials; but even such regulations will be an alleviation rather than a cure. The traffic conditions will never be radically improved without a replanning in certain essential respects of the street system of Manhattan. Of course the city will never undertake the portentous task of laying out a new street system for the benefit of the City Railway Company, but eventually it will be obliged to undertake it for the benefit of every corporation, firm or individual who use the streets for other than pedestrian purposes.

The Land Values of New York.

THE enormous increase in New York City land and improvement values, shown in the annual report of the Department of Taxes and Assessments, has already been noted in the Record and Guide. The complete report of the department for 1907, just issued, contains much of value, not merely to real estate owners and residents of the city, but to persons elsewhere, interested in public affairs and improved taxation. The report demonstrates that New York personal property pays much more in taxes than is generally supposed, or would appear from casual inquiry. Under the general property tax, personal property in New York is 8.2 per cent. of the total assessment; in Buffalo, only 2.2 per cent., and in Rochester and Syracuse, under 5.5 per cent. But these figures are far from telling the whole story. Bank shares are not included, as they pay a flat tax of one per cent., amounting last year to almost three million dollars. Trust companies are not included, as they also pay a flat tax which, however, all goes to the State, though nearly all such companies are in this city. Then, too, mortgages on which the recording tax has been paid, half of which tax goes to the State, are exempt from assessment as personal property. The total amount of this specially taxed personal property is some $700,000,000, were it on the personal list. These facts should be remembered when our legislators next advocate inquisitorial laws to get still more personal property on the rolls in this city, on the assumption that that class of property does not pay enough here.

A commendable change in policy is announced in regard to one phase of personal property taxation. Domestic corporations have always been compelled to file reports, being thus under a listing system that does not apply to individuals. Hereafter a new blank form will be supplied to corporations, containing questions that can easily be understood, and the answers to which will give results that balance. The new forms assume that taxpayers are honest, and there is no attempt at questions to trap the unwary. This policy accords with the announcement by President Purdy last winter, that the department's duties are judicial, and that it should protect the citizen in his rights as well as obtain for the city its just due. Several important amendments to the law are described under the head of "Remedial Legislation." Real estate buyers will benefit by changes in the method of apportioning taxes on divided parcels. Heretofore, after the second Monday in January, no apportionment could be made until the tax bill was received from the Finance Department in October, and in consequence of the many applications at that date, some 25,000, there were delays of several months. Now the Tax Department can apportion assessments until June 1, on notice to the parties interested, and after that date will furnish the data for apportionment of the tax to the Finance Department, so that there should be very little delay. It will be some time, however, before the system can be in thorough operation.

It is, however, in real estate assessment that the report contains features of the most novel and general interest. In the appendix is reprinted the article on assessments which appeared in the Record and Guide of June 29. There is a summary of the manner in which the ratio changes between land and improvement value, which has already been quoted in these columns, and attention is called to an overlooked fact, in these words: "To do justice to those whose property is stationary or receding in value, the utmost vigilance is demanded in increasing assessments where values are rising." As a building constantly deteriorates (barring additions and alterations) from the time of completion, owners of improved real property, particularly where land values are stationary, are vitally interested in seeing that assessments on appreciating property shall keep pace with the increase. With the needs of the city increasing and the appreciating property not contributing its full share, the stationary property will have to pay more than its due.

For the first time the department makes public in its report the total of the land values in the city and each borough. And while buildings are not assessed as such, their value is the difference between what a parcel of land would sell for if unimproved, and what it is worth with the improvements. So for purposes of comparison, the total building values so ascertained have been entered in the tables, which show also our land and improvement values per capita and per acre compared with other large cities. We give the more important comparisons below:

| New York: | Land value per capita. | Impt. value per capita. | Total assessed land value. | Total real estate assessment. |
| Manhattan .... | $1,230 | $600 | $2,712,261,571 | $4,035,251,301 |
| The Bronx..... | 588 | 364 | 216,060,946 | 349,732,095 |
| Brooklyn ..... | 336 | 415 | 480,211,365 | 1,072,026,385 |
| Queens ..... | 574 | 345 | 123,585,700 | 197,939,850 |
| Richmond ..... | 319 | 295 | 25,471,922 | 49,060,111 |
| Total City ... | $828 | $500 | $3,557,591,504 | $5,704,009,652 |
| Boston ..... | $1,067 | $692 | $635,449,200 | $1,047,499,500 |
| St. Louis ..... | 248 | 236 | 198,357,550 | 387,363,750 |
| Detroit ..... | 333 | 285 | 124,989,520 | 232,016,400 |

NOTE.—The figures for New York and Detroit are for 1907; the other cities are for 1906.

The tables give the land and improvement values in every section and ward for 1906 and 1907, showing in each case the percentage of increase. From these figures one can see the assessment work in detail, and if familiar with actual conditions, judge intelligently of its value. These tables, moreover, are an index and a guide to the character and extent of city development.

Some idea of the immensity of the real estate interests of the city of New York can be had by noting that the mere annual increase in the assessed value of ordinary real estate was $377,000,000, within ten millions of the entire value of real estate in St. Louis; and that one year's increase in land value was $190,000,000, which exceeds the value of the buildings in St. Louis or Baltimore, or the whole real estate assessment in New Orleans or Milwaukee. Such values stagger the imagination. The report says that "the assessed value of the land alone exclusive of improvements in the city of New York is greater than the assessed value of all the real estate, improvements included, in the State of Pennsylvania." And it must be remembered that the land values of New York are not limited by any productive capacity of the soil itself, nor do they exist merely because of the number of people living here. They have arisen because this city is the gateway of the New World, with the activities and industries of the eighty million people of the United States to add to its desirability as a place of exchange and market for products. What will these values be in another twenty or thirty years, with the increase of the wealth and population of the nation, and when increased transportation facilities have expanded the metropolitan district to include probably ten million people?

Must Skyscraping Cease?

By JOHN M. CARRÈRE

THERE has been considerable agitation in the city of New York and other American cities, from time to time, with regard to limiting the height of buildings. It has seemed to me, with the modern conditions which are so constantly and repeatedly changing and with our American point of view, that prohibitive or restrictive ordinances or laws could never be considered permanent or satisfactory. As the permanence of these ordinances or laws cannot be guaranteed, they are sure to prove inequitable, as the limitations must operate for a certain time only, and when modified, prove to have been unjust to those who had built under them.

In Boston, for instance, an apartment house was built on Copley square opposite the library, in violation of the law limiting the height of buildings. The matter was taken to the courts; the law was sustained and the owner was compelled to pull down one or two stories of his building. Since then conditions have changed; the law has been either repealed or so modified as to permit buildings to a greater height, and a great injustice has been done to the owner of the apartment house who was subjected to the expense of a lawsuit and extensive alterations to conform with the limitations of height established by law, which have since been changed.

It is obvious that restrictions once established are unfair to those operating under them, if others have been previously allowed to build beyond the same; and equally unfair when they are modified, if others are then allowed either to build beyond the same or compelled to build less high.

From the point of view of equity, therefore, in my judgment any prohibitive or restrictive laws dealing with the limitation of the height of buildings are unfair and also unscientific and more or less arbitrary, as they express individual views at a fixed time and are not based on any permanent rule either of logic or equity. Moreover, such laws are necessarily general in their character and make no allowance for special conditions which should alter their application. Laws which apply to a high building on a small lot may be unreasonable for a similar building covering a large area, a whole block, for instance, and vice versa. I believe, therefore, that whatever laws or restrictions are established should not be too specific, with the object of making everyone conform to a fixed rule regardless of conditions, but they should be as general and adaptable as possible so as to allow the greatest possible latitude to meet varying conditions.

Considering the problem purely from the point of view of the artist, I am not in sympathy with regulations which would tend to establish a uniform height of buildings with a monotonous cornice line, leaving to the artist no opportunity to vary the skyline or to design buildings to extend into the air and silhouette against the sky in contrast with the lower buildings which surround them. Such a law would simply mean the lifting of the old-time cornice line of the city of New York from sixty feet above the street or thereabouts to double its height or more.

I believe that the entire subject can be regulated successfully and permanently, from whatever point of view it may be considered, by taxation. At the present time our taxes are levied

THE REALM OF BUILDING.

Terminal for Belmont Tunnel.

We reproduce herewith the architects' color drawing of the new 6-sty Belmont tunnel terminal store, office and apartment building combined, which is about to be erected to cover the block bounded by Van Alst av, Hunter's Point av and 4th st, Long Island City. The structure will have main connection with the Belmont tunnel under the East River to 42d st, Manhattan, which will afford a five-minute trip between Long Island and the Grand Central depot. Traveling between these points by ferry and surface car now takes from thirty-five to forty minutes. The cost of the project, it is estimated, will reach more than half a million dollars. The architects' drawing shows it as a massive structure, designating the German Romanesque style of architecture. The whole building is to be of reinforced concrete construction, including the floors, partition walls and roof. The exterior facing for the first and second stories will be laid up in rich gray limestone, and the four upper stories in stucco on common brick, with red-faced brick trimmings. The dimensions will be 175x149.9½ ft., including a large court for light and air. The cellar will be arranged for boiler, engine, storage and living rooms. On the main floor there will extend an arcade running through the entire building 30 ft. in width by 175 ft. in length, with twenty or more stores on either side. There will be a mezzanine floor 60x134 ft., divided into eleven suites of offices. The second story will be devoted entirely to offices, numbering thirty-five. The rest of the upper 3d, 4th, 5th and 6th stories will be thrown into seventy-two five and six room apartments, with baths and every up-to-date improvement. All of the interior trim will be of hardwood, and the floors will be of sanitary composition. Entrances to all apartments will be from the street direct. The architects are Messrs. Thompson & Frohling, of No. 1 Union sq, who will have full direction of the construction and the awarding of contracts. Estimates are now being received, but so far no awards have been made. Messrs. Thompson & Frohling are also preparing the plans for the station in connection with the Belmont tunnel.

—The Municipal Civil Service Commission, 209 Broadway, will hold an examination for gas inspector, in the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity, on Monday, Oct. 28. An examination for lay sanitary inspector (male) in the Department of Health, will be held on Friday, Oct. 5.

Two Enemies of Steel.

STEEL is subject to two insidious forms of attack, the peril of which lies in the fact that the damage is done under conditions where inspection is difficult and in many cases impossible. We refer to rusting and electrolysis. The problem of the electrolysis of steel is one which the lay mind has not yet learned to regard seriously, but which is an ever-present danger notwithstanding, as the experiments by Mr. Knudson, of this city, recounted before the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, clearly emphasize:

In these experiments three lengths of wrought iron pipe were set in three blocks of Portland cement sand concrete. When the blocks were three years old, one of them was placed in a tank of sea water, another in a tank of fresh water, and direct current was fed to them, pieces of sheet iron being placed in the tanks to act as negative electrodes. The third block was placed in sea water; but no current was fed to it. After the blocks had been immersed for thirty days, the third block was found to be in perfect condition and the embedded pipe perfectly bright; but the two blocks to which current had been fed had developed cracks during the test; the pipes were considerably corroded; and the concrete had so greatly deteriorated that it could be cut with a knife.

Conditions here were severe—unusually so—but the facts tell their own story. Regarding the whole subject of electrolysis we were impressed by a recent remark of the Scientific American to the effect that while the evils of electrolysis have undoubtedly been greatly exaggerated, it believes that the mischief done is more far-reaching than the electrical companies and the owners of large electrical power plants are willing to admit. The remedy lies in more careful insulation. In the case of armored concrete buildings or buildings of skeleton steel, care should be taken to absolutely insulate the foundations and all that portion of the building which lies below the line of saturation of the earth.

Better known to the public mind is the swift and destructive effect of rust upon the steel members of a building, and the long search that has been made for a protective covering. When the six upper stories of the Mutual Life building in San Francisco were rebuilt an excellent opportunity was afforded to observe the behavior of structural steel in service in a modern skyscraper. From an account given by the Scientific American it seems that, where the steel had not been thorouhgly cleaned before painting, there were occasional instances of some rust under the paint, and although these were rare, they indicated the necessity for a thorough cleaning of the steel before it is painted.

Furthermore, there is a sense in which the preservative paint may defeat the very object at which it aims, by serving to conceal badly-rusted surfaces from inspection. The ideal protective covering, both for steel which is to be inclosed from view, and that which will be permanently exposed to the attack of the weather, would be a covering which, like varnish, would be sufficiently transparent to enable the condition of the underlying steel to be carefully inspected. If some composition could be produced which combined transparency with protective qualities, a long step would be taken in the direction of rendering all steel work, whether exposed or concealed; imperishable.

Cement is one of the most impenetrable opponents of rust that Steel has yet called to its defence, and one of the most effective paints intended for covering steel shapes is said to have cement for a basic ingredient.

Co-Operative Houses.

CO-OPERATIVE apartment houses, joint building ventures for artists and those in other professions, are making such rapid headway in New York that they have become a prominent feature of the realty situation. Many millions have been invested in such enterprises and the idea is getting more popular daily.

Mr. Charles A. Gerlach, of 59th st and Madison av, the well known real estate expert and authority, was a pioneer in co-operative apartment ownership. In 1883 he bought of the builders and promoted and sold the "Gramercy" apartment house No. 34 Gramercy Park. Each subscriber of the capital stock received a proprietary or perpetual lease to the apartment, selected also shares of the capital stock of the corporation that owned the land and building and elected directors from among themselves to manage and handle the property. Some owners who rented their holdings received over thirty per cent. a year net on their investment over and above expenses. Under this system it is claimed that expensive apartments, cheap flats, office buildings, family hotels and even farms can be sold and divided profitably, and Mr. Gerlach asserts that such properties will bring a larger and safer return on the investment than any other form of real estate ownership. This has been demonstrated by actual facts and figures.

There are enthusiasts who say that when this new idea—a variation of the old principle of co-operation—becomes better understood that it will sweep not only New York, but all other large American cities. The scheme is revolutionary, is at once novel and attractive, and its possibilities are practically without limit.

Walter Russell, an artist, is associated with the movement. Through the brokers, Alwyn Ball, Jr., Frank Hughes and Charles N. Bliss, Mr. Russell purchased for his company, the Stuyvesant Co-operative Building, Incorporated, the southeast corner of 58th st and 7th av from Michael Coleman. The approximate price was half a million dollars. Here is to rise a studio palace with a hundred feet frontage on 7th av and a 58th st frontage of 125 feet. The edifice twelve stories high, after designs by Harde & Short, architects. About $1,500,000 will probably be the cost.

Mr. Russell says that the demand for co-operative apartments seems to be unlimited and that the idea is spreading rapidly. Apparently the new plan has come to the front just in the nick of time, because large numbers of New Yorkers are selling their private houses because of their rapidly growing land values. An argument advanced is that it is costing too much for the average man who is well off to live in the centre of New York in his own home. The luxury is too great. Provision, then, has to be made for those people who do not care to live in the country.

Co-operative apartment houses, co-operative hotels, co-operative office buildings, with the owners having their own apartments, rooms and offices, and owning an interest in the rent paid by other people are already in course of construction on an extensive scale. Mr. Gerlach says the co-operative plan has no weak point in it. Getting down to figures the system has been briefly outlined as follows: So many years' rental pays for an apartment outright. That is to say, a man who has been paying $5,000 a year rent for an apartment as big as a private house under this new plan pays $30,000 or $40,000, according to the situation of the property, and gets not ownership of that actual apartment but the right to occupy it on a perpetual lease. He becomes also one of the co-operative owners of the whole property and receives what is called a "proprietary lease." He pays no rent and is guaranteed against any liability of assessments. For this guarantee he pays a nominal per cent annually as a community tax on the value of his purchase. The charge is for the management of the property and the guarantee. On a $30,000 investment the community tax would be about $450 a year. The co-operative owner need not pay the entire $30,000 down at once. He pays 25 per cent. of it down in about six months and has ten years in which to pay the remaining 50 per cent. On an apartment such as would rent for $5,000 a year the co-operative investor would pay $7,500 only down and $7,600 in a few months. The entire $30,000 only costs $1,500 to carry, and with a tax of $450 mentioned the total expense is $1,950 against $5,000 rental.

The Safety of Our Skyscrapers.

By F. W. FITZPATRICK.

AS is the habit of our insurance friends, who invariably come in at the eleventh hour and say how things ought to have been done, we are now informed by Mr. Babb, the President of the New York Board of Underwriters, that it is only a question of time when the downtown, the skyscraper, district of New York, will be utterly wiped out by fire. This must be the cruelest cut of all, particularly to the big insurance companies, who have been advertising their buildings as "absolutely fireproof."

Fortunately, Mr. Babb's alarm need not be taken too seriously, for while, of course, such a catastrophe is possible, there is slight probability of its coming to pass. Yet it is a most favorable opportunity, for his remarks certainly have raised a hubbub in the building and financial circles, to emphasize that, while those buildings are well constructed, still more could be done to perfect them and make the fulfillment of his prophecy utterly impossible. The aggravating thing about it is that it has always been, and is in the power of those same insurance companies to oblige the builders of skyscrapers and of all other structures to erect those buildings well and to make them far nearer absolutely fireproof than they are, and in spite of the fact that the building regulations do not compel it. The companies know well enough how things should be done, but they have never had the snap or the courage to make their rates accord with their knowledge. Some people are so constituted that they will only build as well as they are obliged to, and the standard of construction has, unfortunately, been the lowest the insurance companies would permit under what was deemed a reasonable rate. Had the companies ever made a commensurately low rate on real first-class construction, and a virtually prohibitive one upon shoddy construction, it would not have taken us twenty-five years to get the people into the humor of building as well as they do today.

To me this sudden discovery that our skyscrapers are dangerous structures does not ring very true. It sounds more like a premonition, a sort of little prelude, a paving of the way to an establishing of higher rates all around and more profit to the companies than any real misgivings as to the stability of the New York skyscraper construction. The companies are not infallible, you know, and, naturally, desire to recoup themselves for San Francisco, a fire, by the way, for which they were very largely to blame, for they had wantonly nursed and encouraged cheap, wooden, shoddy construction by a ridiculously low rate, granted because of the wonderful excellence of San Francisco's Fire Department!

Most of the New York tall buildings are very well built; as a class they are far superior to the tall buildings of San Francisco or Baltimore. Danger of fire from within is not alarmingly imminent, and externally these buildings are surrounded by a pretty fair class of minor structures. The entire district is what might be termed "fair," and the fact that there are so many tall buildings together constitutes an element of safety. It was the few tall buildings of Baltimore, though they were damaged themselves, that saved the city beyond them.

But since attention has been centered upon them, it would be well, indeed, to so protect those buildings, adding to them the things that really ought to have been done in the first place, and making them truly, absolutely fireproof and undamageable to any serious extent by fire from within or without. Their stair and elevator walls should at once be closed up with fireproof partitions of some sort, and with self-closing fire doors, making of each story a separate unit. The wooden sash and ordinary glass of the windows should be replaced with wire-glass and metal sash. Cut off the window route and you have cut down your fire risk full 80 per cent. Provide abundant water supply, tanks, etc., on the buildings, and drill the employes of the buildings so that any incipient blaze in any one unit can be readily handled and without calling in the aid of the city departments. Surely these are not extraordinarily costly provisions to make, particularly as their cost could be more than made up in a short time by reducing the amount of insurance carried on those buildings. If one would only build well enough in the first instance he need bother his head very little, if at all, with insurance companies and their idiosyncrasies.

Comparative Efficiency of Certain Electric Lights.

Notes of comparative tests made between three types of electric lights, appearing with the sanction of the Electrical World upon their accuracy, convey information of rare importance—inasmuch as the experiments and measurements seem to have been impartially conducted. Moore tubes, Nernst lamps and ordinary incandescent lamps were the three kinds selected for the tests. The Moore tube used was 179 feet long and 1¾ inches in diameter. It was placed 17 inches below the ceiling, which latter was 10 feet 11 inches from the floor. There were seven six-glower Nernst lamps, having opalescent globes of a bluish tint. The incandescents were 113 in number, 88 being of 8 candle power each, and 25 of 16 candle power. All were wired to molding on the ceiling, excepting 20 of the larger ones, which were used with opaque reflectors and had little effect on the ultimate results. Measurements of illumination were made by means of a Weber photometer located successively at seven points in the large room, and uniformly 34 inches above the floor. Results were noted as follows:

The unit of illumination used was the lux, which is the illumination produced on a plane surface by a source of 1 candle power at a distance of one meter, the rays striking the surface perpendicularly. The periodicity of the current was 60 cycles. The average voltage during the test was 243 for the Moore tubes, 244 for the Nernst lamps and 117 for the incandescents. The illuminants were located above the plans of illumination at different distances, being 6 feet 8 inches for the Moore, 6 feet for the Nernst, and 7 feet 10 inches for the incandescents. The current consumption in kilowatts was 3.15 for the Moore, 3.92 for the Nernst and 4.13 for the incandescents. The average density of horizontal illumination was 63 for the Moore, 44 for the Nernst and 15 for the incandescents. This made, per unit of power, an average of 20 luces for the Moore, 11.2 for the Nernst and 3.6 for the incandescents. To bring the illumination from the two latter up to the standard of the former, without altering the heights of the illuminants, would have required an output of 7 kilowatts for the Nernst lamps and 23 for the incandescents, as compared with 3.15 for the Moore.

Finally, it was computed that, placing all illuminants at the elevation of the Moore tube, and obtaining equivalent illumination from all, the required output would be 3.15 kilowatts for the Moore, 8.65 for the Nernst, and 16.65 for the incandescents.

Elevators in the Singer Building.

All the elevators in the Singer Building with the exception of the sidewalk lifts will be used for passenger service. The short rise drum type elevator will be used for augmenting the service on occasion from the thirty-fifth to the thirty-eighth floor and will be of the standard Otis Worm Gear Electric type.

The fortieth floor (550 feet high) will be reached without change of car. One traction elevator will make this trip. Three traction elevators will rise from ground to thirty-fifth floor, 480 feet; two traction elevators from basement to thirteenth floor, 191 feet; two traction elevators from ground to thirteenth floor, 176 feet; one drum type elevator from thirty-fifth to thirty-eighth floor.

The machines, which are driven by 40-horsepower, 240-volt direct current motors, are placed directly over their respective hoistways, thereby giving maximum efficiency and requiring minimum space. The motors are direct connected to the traction driving sheaves, the latter being mounted upon the extension of the armature shafts. In order to secure proper tractive effort the system of cables connecting the elevator car and counterweight make a complete wrap around the driving and idler leading sheaves.

Death of Mr. George L. Heins.

The American architectural profession has suffered a great loss in the death of George Lewis Heins, of Heins & La Farge, which occurred September 25 at his summer home, at Lake Mohegan, N. Y., after three weeks' illness.

Mr. Heins was born in Philadelphia in 1860. He was graduated from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, in the class of architecture. Mr. Heins came to this city in 1884, where he and his classmate, Grant La Farge, were connected with John La Farge, decorative artist, as architectural assistants.

They subsequently formed the firm of Heins & La Farge, which has made a specialty of ecclesiastical structures. Mr. Heins had much to do with working out the plans for the massive cathedral which is being reared on Morningside Heights, and he was also appointed inspector for cathedrals in Europe. His firm designed the buildings in the New York Zoological Garden and were consulting architects to the old Rapid Transit Commission, designing the kiosks and the surface stations of the subway. Mr. Heins also had the appointment of State Architect for nine years before his death, and much of his time was spent in Albany.

—Don't try to follow every passing style in fitting up a house. Things good of their kind—matters of material, of design and color—are always in style, no matter what one's neighbors may be doing. When the house is built it should be abreast of the times and in good taste, then temporary influences can be disregarded.

Must Skyscraping Cease?

on an assessment which is based upon the value of the land per square foot plus the value of the improvements thereon. These taxes are levied for municipal service, the administration of the city, the cost of building and maintaining streets, police, fire department, courts, schools, parks, etc. The amount of service furnished to each taxpayer should be determined by the use which he makes of his land; that is to say, the number of people who live thereon, which in turn is dependent to a large extent on the number of square feet of floor area in the building in its entire height. The tax as now levied is not proportionate to the municipal service rendered. If the tax were levied on an assessment computed solely on the value of the CUBIC FEET of space occupied by the building, the taxes would then become proportionate to the service rendered to the taxpayer and the amount of tax would at once regulate automatically the height of buildings, as the tax and the possible income considered together would establish the limit of height to which the land could be improved profitably.

To illustrate my point: If we suppose two lots of exactly the same size and value on opposite corners, one of them improved with a 5-story building, and the other with a 20-story building, it will be immediately seen that whereas the assessment on the relative value OF THE IMPROVEMENT does establish a fairly just basis for taxation, the assessment ON THE LAND is the same in both cases, though the 20-story building is making four times as much use of the municipal service as the 5-story building. If the tax were assessed, as I suggest, on the CUBICAL CONTENTS of the building, that is to say, on the BASIS OF THE USE MADE OF THE LAND, this tax would then be proportionate to the service rendered to the property by the community. This method of taxation, while preventing one man from building any higher than would be reasonable with his conditions, would permit his neighbor to maintain a low building notwithstanding the enhanced value of his property, perhaps owing to the erection of the high building next door. Under such a method I believe that the amount of open air space in our cities would be greatly increased, as the owner of the land would not be forced by taxation, as at present, to build over his entire lot or as much thereof as the law permits. In consequence we would have gardens, interior courts and low buildings, as well as high buildings. I believe that the result would be greatly to the advantage of the city, as it would spread the population instead of concentrating it in a few small centers of activity. It would relieve congestion of traffic to some extent by distributing the population and the city would be more beautiful, more wholesome and also safer from fire.

The limitations of the height of buildings with regard to fire risks and safety to life, though not independent of the point which I have been discussing, belong in a separate chapter. The conditions here are also changing; the methods of extinguishing fires are being improved; the fire limit is being extended higher and higher, and it is my belief that the insurance companies are already doing a great deal by establishing progressive rates for their premiums which are in proportion to the risk and that this is perhaps the most effective and safest way of regulating the height of buildings from this point of view.

I am not at all persuaded that high buildings are a menace in the case of general conflagration. Baltimore and San Francisco would seem to prove the contrary, as in both cases they were the only effective barrier to the spread of the conflagration. I do believe, however, from the point of view of the risk to human life, that the problem should be very seriously considered. Our tall buildings are not planned with any regard to the escape of the occupants in case of fire; on the contrary, the open elevator shafts, staircase wells and the numerous shafts for pipes, wires and other appliances, in the case of fire, become the greatest source of danger and egress becomes very difficult, if not impossible.

I believe that the problem can be solved by rules and regulations which would compel the same character of precautions as are already successfully provided for tenements, theatres and other buildings, many of which do not contain as large a number of people as are housed in one of our skyscrapers. It would probably mean that the height of a building should be proportioned to some extent to its ground area; that a high building should require a larger lot and that no high buildings should be built hereafter on very small lots. There would then be ample opportunity for better and safer planning of our high buildings.

I have been misunderstood and quoted as stating that I recommended that blocks should be built in pyramids. If my suggestion of basing the tax on the cubic contents of the building were carried out, and further provision were made establishing the proportion between the solids and voids on every lot, that is to say, the proportion between the spaces left for light and air and the spaces to be built upon, as is the case in certain classes of buildings under our present laws, architects would plan their buildings covering the lot to the maximum limit allowed in the lower stories and decreasing the area built over in the upper stories, for the purpose of carrying certain parts of the building higher, in proportion to the unoccupied area.

Points on the Material Market.

The outlook has decidedly improved during the week.

North Carolina pine has undergone some slight readjustment of values.

Shingles are extremely firm, and all offerings are being taken at good prices.

Business is limited only by the amount of money available for handling it.

If the brick market is the barometer of the building trades, business is picking up.

Turpentine continues easy, but for linseed oil an advance of one cent has been made by the crushers.

Spruce is not so active as it was, and while competition in business is keen, the official prices are held up pretty well.

The yard trade in hardwoods is only fair, but in the manufacturing trade reports say that all hardwood is well absorbed.

Nashville, Memphis, Cincinnati, and other hardwood centers report that the tendency is toward higher prices and that plain oak, ash, basswood and poplar are in good demand and stocks low.

Sheet metal products, such as roofing sheets, conductor pipe, and eaves trough, continue surprisingly firm in the face of an appreciable falling off in trade. Sufficient explanation, however, is found in the fact that the mills are still three to six weeks behind on deliveries of sheets.

Hemlock continues to move freely in the country districts outside of New York City, at a base price of $22 per thousand for New York City delivery. Buyers in the New Jersey and Hudson River territory and throughout Pennsylvania are absorbing practically the full output of the mills.

The agitation for a uniform freight classification to govern shipments in all territory of the United States and over all roads is meeting with approbation and support, not only from shippers who at first would appear to have the most vital interest, but also from railroad managers and claim agents.

The dry color market shows little change, and there is nothing of interest in the situation. Altogether, the trade shows a healthier tone, especially in greens and yellows, which have been in fair demand during the week, but other grades are featureless and business is of a routine character and confined to small lots. Prices generally are well maintained at the old figures.

The season of fall painting having started in in earnest there is a heavy call for both dry lead and lead in oil and, while there is no quotable change in prices, there is little obtainable below the outside figures. Zincs continue active along the old lines and business, while of good proportions, is confined to small lots. Prices are generally well maintained. A good demand for the foreign grades is reported.

The lumber yards here on Manhattan Island have passed through an exceptionally dull summer, though this applies with greater force to dealers in soft construction lumber than to the distributors of hardwoods, though there has been no particular life to the retail trade in hardwoods locally. Wholesale men, on the other hand, are meeting a very satisfactory demand at current prices for practically everything in the line of forest product.

The prices for which the standard grades of Portland cement are being quoted have not varied for a long period, but the general market has begun to show signs of weakness in sympathy with the times. Cement has been gracious to builders and contractors all the season, and this attitude, taken with the many new ways that have been discovered in which cement can be used, has made a demand for it this season much larger than what an equal expenditure for building construction would have represented in cement output at any previous era.

Business in copper products is only to cover current demand, because of the uncertainty as to future values. The state of the market is reflected by the following quotations selected from the Iron Age, which are maintained by base prices:

Sheet copper, 24 cents per pound base; on sheet brass there are changed schedules that are said to be equal to about 10 per cent. discount from list; seamless copper tubes, 26 cents per pound, base; seamless brass tubes, 22 cents per pound, base; bare copper wire, 20¼ cents per pound car lots at mill; brass rods, 18¾ cents per pound, base; brazed brass tubing, 25¼ cents per pound, base; tobin bronze, 26 cents per pound, base; tobin bronze rods, 26 cents per pound, base; copper rivets and burrs, 45 and 2½ per cent. discount; yellow metal sheathing, 18 cents per pound, base, and yellow metal rods 19 cents per pound, base.

Hudson River brick prices have taken a decided upward turn since last report, under a brisk buying movement which has taken up the surplus of the previous week and invited further heavy shipments. Material dealers believe that this advance is a prophecy of a permanent change for the better, for the whole list of building materials, and a sign that building funds are a little easier to obtain. For several weeks the requirement for common brick has been large, though the price level continued low until this present rally, owing to previous excess shipments. But it is not thought that the improvement in the market will cause any considerable change in the plans of the manufacturers, many of whom have counted on closing down next week.

Building Operations.

New York Architect to Plan Hammerstein's Philadelphia Theatre.

Wm. H. McElfatrick, of 1402 Broadway, Manhattan, has been appointed to prepare plans for the new opera house which Oscar Hammerstein is to build at the southwest corner of Broad and Poplar st, Philadelphia. The dimensions of the plot are 240x160 ft., and it is considered an admirable site for a large theatre or opera house, having a frontage on three streets, being one square south of Girard av and the Hotel Majestic. Att the office of the architect on Tuesday it was learned that the plans would not be ready for figuring for some weeks yet. Mr. Hammerstein is also contemplating the erection of an opera house in Chicago, to cost nearly $1,000,000. A site on the south side of Michigan av, near 12th st, as a suitable location, is under consideration, but it is not thought probable that this project will be undertaken, until the final completion of the Philadelphia structure. McElfatrick & Son have designed as many as seventeen playhouses in Manhattan, ten in Brooklyn, and scores in other cities and countries.

New Business Structure Opposite the Waldorf.

34TH ST.—Benj. W. Levitan, No. 20 West 31st st, will make plans for the erection of a fireproof iron front 6-sty business building to be built at No. 11 West 34th st, adjoining the new McCreery store and Riker's drug store, opposite the Waldorf-Astoria. In 34th st the structure will have a frontage of 25 ft., running back 126 ft. in depth, and also a 12-ft. strip through the block to 35th st. All deliveries to the building will be through the 35th st entrance. The total estimated cost of the building is placed at $400,000. No building contracts have yet been awarded or figures taken. Mr. Robert Smith, of R. Smith & Co., ladies' outfitters, of No. 52 West 14th st, is the owner, and will occupy the premises, establishing a high class millinery store, to include ladies' and children's outfits. Work will be pushed as soon as plans are complete.

University Place Alteration.

UNIVERSITY PLACE.—David M. Ach, No. 1 Madison av, is architect for large improvements to be made to the old Maillard Building southwest corner of University pl and 14th st, purchased this week by Mr. J. L. Post (cloaks and furs), No. 76 East 14th st. The structure covers a plot 34.3x103 ft., is six stories in height, and it will be renovated for Mr. Post's own occupancy. The interior alteration will be elaborate and no money will be spared to make this one of the finest mercantile cloak and fur establishments in the city. The Richard L. Walsh Co., 100 William st, has the contract for remodeling the exterior, and no other contract has yet been given out.

Pollard & Steinam Plan Another $500,000 Apartment House.

57TH ST.—Messrs. Pollard & Steinam, No. 234 5th av, are completing plans and specifications for the construction of another handsome 12-sty high-class elevator apartment house, to be erected at No. 136 West 57th st by a corporation of which P. McL. Merrill, 259 5th av, is secretary. The cost will be in the neighborhood of half a million dollars. The same owners and architects have already completed plans, and Wm. J. Taylor, 5-7 East 42d st, has the general contract for a similar building at No. 130 West 57th st, to cost another $500,000. (See also issue July 27, 1907.)

Contract for Second National Bank.

5TH AV.—The George A. Fuller Company this week received the general contract to construct the new 5-sty bank and office structure which the Second National Bank (now at 5th av and 23d st) is about to build at the northwest corner of 5th av and 28th st, on a plot 38x100 ft. For the site the bank is said to have paid the Charles M. Goodridge estate in the neighborhood of $1,000,000. Messrs. McKim, Mead & White, 160 5th av, are the architects. (See also issues Aug. 3, Sept. 21, 1907.)

Office and Loft Building for Second Avenue.

2D AV.—Operations will be started immediately for the erection of a fireproof high-class office and loft building, to cover a plot 22x100 ft., at No. 43 2d av, for which Architect Frederick Ebeling, 420 East 9th st, is now preparing plans. The structure will be seven stories in height, and will contain elevator

INTERIOR FINISHES

Much has been written within the past few months concerning the structural and economic merits of System M.

Architects and engineers are about convinced that this most modern system of fireproof construction is eminently reliable, speedy of erection and wins in every competition where price is considered. Yet it is only those who have actually used it or seen a finished building of this type who know the character of the finished work.

The floor finishes are the same as those installed with other types of fireproof floor arches, but the ceilings and beam soffits are widely different.

Stone concrete being used instead of cinders, the natural finish is much smoother, and for warehouses and buildings of that class no plaster is required. But, when plaster finish is desired, a coat is saved and beautiful results can be attained by a finish coat only.

The illustration shows a building of the latter class.

But for finer interiors, such as stores and office buildings, a plaster finish is expected. With this system beautiful results are being attained with a finish coat only.

The cut shows a building of this type—a plain loft building. Ornamental mouldings are frequently run in the panels and the columns bracketed with plaster consoles—giving a very decorative effect.

An interesting pamphlet has just been issued, giving full information concerning System M (patents pending), and will be mailed on application to

A COLONIAL RESIDENCE
Van Courtlandt Terrace.
Yonkers.
Howells & Stokes, Archs.

A fine example of the new American Colonial Dutch style. Houses suggesting these were erected before the Revolution, and are occasionally met with in northern New Jersey and Rockland Co., N. Y., and also in Westchester Co. — not to mention more distant parts. This picture will appeal strongly to ideas grown tired of some kinds of modern imitations.

BUILDING NOTES

Patrick F. Tracey, woodworker, of 511 West 30th st, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $3,212, and assets of $2,506.

Messrs. Schwartz & Gross and B. N. Marcus, associate architects, No. 35 West 21st st, will remove to larger offices, No. 347 5th av, on Saturday, Sept. 28. Their new telephone numbers will be 164-165 Madison.

Bids for the construction of the new bridge which is to connect Manhattan with the Bronx, at Madison av and Harlem River, will be opened by Bridge Commissioner Stevenson on Thursday, October 3. It is estimated that the structure proposed will cost more than $600,000.

Crosby & Beckley Company, large hardwood wholesalers, at New Haven, Conn., who have been maintaining a New York sales office at 1 Madison av, under charge of Mr. R. L. Walkley, have given up the latter and will hereafter cater to the trade in this section through the New Haven office.

In Wants and Offers it will be noticed that an architectural draughtsman seeks a position with a Manhattan or Brooklyn architect, and that an opening presents itself to a first-class real estate man to manage and take charge of a New York office to be opened by a large out-of-town real estate firm.

The National Founders' Association convention for 1907 will be held at the Hotel Astor, which has been the meeting place for two years. The Administrative Council will meet on Monday and Tuesday, Nov. 11 and 12, and the convention sessions will be held Nov. 13 and 14. On Wednesday evening, Nov. 13, the annual banquet will be held.

Consulting Engineer D. C. Newman Collins, of 29 Broadway, Manhattan, has issued a bulletin which will be found of considerable interest and beneficial to parties contemplating the erection of manufacturing buildings, warehouses, mills. It is a treatise going into detail relative to various kinds of structures, classes of materials and methods employed in erection.

Owners are now giving as much attention to designing and fitting the kitchens in their new houses as they do to the sanitary bathroom. In the case of the bathroom it is only necessary to maintain certain standards, but the kitchen still requires particular study. Anyway, owners are beginning to feel that it should be made quite as sanitary and handsome as the bathroom.

A danger that owners and builders must guard against more than ever is the thief. In the case of the ordinary lock it does not make any difference to a thief whether doors are locked or not. Window catches are also easy for him to turn noiselessly if they are not especially made to keep him out. Every door should be fitted with a bolt, a key guard, or at least with an extra lock.

It is expected that by Sept. 1, 1908, the new Lotos clubhouse, now in course of erection in West 57th st, will be ready to open. It is thought probable that the clubmen will have to vacate their present building (recently sold) at 5th av and 46th st, by the first of February next. As announced in the Record and Guide of Sept. 7th last, Marc Eidlitz & Son have the general contract for the new building.

On Thursday of this week $9,876,850 worth of corporate stock was ordered to be issued by the Board of Education for construction of new schools and additions to school buildings in the various boroughs. Classrooms to be provided by the money required and the amounts apportioned to each borough are as follows: Manhattan, 220 classrooms, cost $1,465,000; the Bronx, 186 classrooms, cost $1,209,000; Brooklyn, 336 rooms, cost $2,247,000; Queens, 200 rooms, cost $1,300,000; Richmond, 28 rooms, cost $182,000. The remainder of the fund will be expended in smaller amounts.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD.

Review of the Week.

THE private sales market is beginning to give evidence of a revival, and while the volume of dealings continues small, a higher grade of property is changing hands, as in the case of the northwest corner of Broadway and 34th st, which commanded a price approaching $400,000. What is still further encouraging is that a few of the old-time operators are again in the market. Were it not for unfavorable currency conditions it is certain that normal trading in real estate would quickly be resumed. According to a prevailing opinion among real estate men the mortgage situation is improving, although brokers report that lenders are more inclined toward conservatism in loaning funds than during the corresponding period last year. It must not be inferred that this disposition to be ultra conservative is due to uncertainty with respect to present values, for this is not the case. It is more likely attributable to the growing desire of money lenders under present conditions to secure a quicker asset in that class of investment. In the building field, while the new undertakings are less numerous than was expected for the season, a large amount of work is being carried on, which is better distributed than was true during the summer. Everywhere it is believed that the ultimate effect of the summer's dulness cannot be otherwise than beneficial, for even though it may not result in further lowering the price of building materials it will by lessening the supply of buildings provide an opportunity for those who are carrying large propositions to dispose of them to advantage.

The total number of private sales reported for the week is 50, of which 12 were below 59th st, 15 above, and 23 in the Bronx.

Mr. Bryan L. Kennelly, as auctioneer, will sell on Wednesday, Oct. 16, 1907, at 12 o'clock noon, at the Exchange salesroom, 14-16 Vesey st, New York City, for the estate of Albert J. Adams, deceased, the following parcels: Nos. 54 West 31st st, 375 7th av, 1161 2d av, 43 Bowery, 539 and 541 8th av, 107 West 45th st, 407 West 35th st, 307 West 37th st, 208 and 210 West 30th st, Manhattan; also Nos. 19½ to 23 Borden av, Long Island City; 1138 Manhattan av, Brooklyn. Terms are liberal, titles are guaranteed by the Title Guarantee and Trust Co., and policies will be delivered to purchasers free of cost. See full page advertisement in this week's issue of the Record and Guide.

THE AUCTION MARKET

There were many buyers in attendance at the auction offerings at the Vesey st salesroom this week, and the gatherings were somewhat larger than have been witnessed for some time. On Monday Joseph P. Day sold 440 and 442 11th av in foreclosure to Kneeland Moore on a bid of $36,400. The property consists of a 3-sty brick building, 49.4x100. There was due on judgment in this instance $15,745, subject to a mortgage of $18,000. On Tuesday Bryan L. Kennelly knocked down in foreclosure to the City Real Estate Co. a vacant plot, 150x95.9x150.3 x104.3, on the south side of 191st st, 100 ft. east of St. Nicholas av, for $18,267.

On Wednesday among six parcels offered by Mr. Day were several vacant properties on Intervale av. A plot on the north side of that thoroughfare, about 655 ft. east of 167th st, brought $6,586, the purchaser being Carl Eichhorst, and another lot 25x97 and irregular extending from Home st to Intervale av was struck off to Carl Bisberg for $3,358. On Thursday the only offering was that of James L. Wells, consisting of three 6-sty brick tenements at 315 to 323 West 69th st, which were purchased by the plaintiff, A. H. Murdock, on a bid of $106,750.

Among the important coming auctions is that of Bryan L. Kennelly, consisting of eleven parcels of the "Al" Adams estate, all of which are centrally located, the most prominent being in the new business section in close proximity to the Pennsylvania station. The sale will take place on October 16, at the Exchange salesroom, at which a large and representative gathering will most likely be present.

Broadway Below Twenty-third Street.

There has been a very satisfactory demand for stores on Broadway below Twenty-third street and above Union Square. The corner of Twenty-first street will be occupied by the new firm, Bonwit, Harris & Company, and the firm will use the whole building. This is the property formerly occupied by Oppenheimer, Collins & Co. At Eighteenth street, John Forsyth has rented all the buildings on the north of his old store, No. 865, and he has a frontage of 185 feet on Broadway.

French Real Estate Handling

By ROBERT P. SKINNER

MARSEILLE.—There are upwards of 8,000,000 separate freeholds in France, as compared with about 300,000 in Great Britain, a fact which in itself speaks volumes. A Frenchman will part with anything rather than land. When the United States Immigration Commission visited a certain spot near Marseille recently it was found impossible to ascertain "the average price of land" in that locality, because no transactions ever took place, other than by inheritance. In cities it is difficult for persons of modest means, like workingmen, to own real estate, for obvious reasons. Nevertheless, and especially in Marseille, where there is an excellent 2-cent-fare street-car service, outlying property is being taken up by families in modest circumstances.

In real estate transactions here buyer and seller each pay 1 per cent. to the agent when the act of sale is signed. Credit terms are rarely accorded to working people, owing to the uncertainty of their incomes, but the latter have easy recourse to a number of semi-philanthropic or mutal aid companies, whereby they obtain easy terms of payment. Deferred payments on the ordinary real estate operations bear 4 to 4½ or 5 per cent. interest, due semi-annually. Though sales are sometimes made upon which the agent realizes a certain proportion of the purchase price, this method of doing business is deemed irregular. The commission of 2 per cent. has been fixed by commercial usage dating back several centuries. Cash transactions in real estate are far more common in France than in America, owing to the prevalence of accumulations in cash, even among the least opulent classes, but there is nothing very novel to be learned here in respect to advertising or financing.

The Government itself, which fosters thrift by every means, encourages working people to abandon the wretched crowded habitations of the cities and to become householders, by loaning out the money of the savings banks ("caisses d'epargne"), not to the individual, but to societies patronized by the State. These societies effect the transactions with the individual. Thus the Societe des Habitations Salubres, 32 Rue Paradis, Marseille, advances money for the construction of cottages at the rate of 4½ per cent. As savings banks pay depositors 2¾ per cent. the margin is close.

There are also at work on somewhat parallel lines several French building and loan associations, which differ from American associations in that they usually operate over more or less the whole of France, as do the great French banks. The attempt is made by the moving spirits in these associations to expand their utility beyond mere public service as money-lending agencies. Thus, while affording liberal terms to the man of small means desiring to own a home, they have a subsidiary organization, the objects of which appear in the following programme:

Hygiene and salubrity.—House drainage; inspection of workingmen's dwellings; counsels to housewives as to cleanliness and hygiene, whether occupants of modern houses or crowded city tenements; alcoholism; tuberculosis; rewards to families who best observe the laws of public cleanliness and health.

Public works.—Examination of buildings from point of view of art and comfort; forming the taste of the people, who should be instructed as to the beautiful; creating wherever possible workingmen's gardens and endeavoring to increase family resources by enabling workingmen to raise a few vegetables; designation of new and useful building materials; cesspools; laundry work; study of domestic industries.

Social preservation.—Sosial needs of the working classes; homestead laws; diminution of criminality.

Thrift and economy.—Encouragement of saving; study of all economic questions; creation of funds for carrying on the work.

While depositors in these building associations are permitted to build according to their own plans, they are decidedly encouraged to adopt standard designs, of which there are many suited to all purses. It is really surprising to discover what comfortable little houses can be erected in this country for a very small amount, sometimes $200 and $300. All houses are built of practically imperishable and fireproof materials, wood frame construction never being employed.

Taxation of Lands in Germany.

American cities have much to learn. With more time and means to look abroad, there is a more general disposition to note good examples and improve our towns in those particulars in which they are lacking. Our towns when compared with German places of equal population are found to be less substantially equipped. German streets are cleaner, are better paved and—being lined with trees and lawn strips almost everywhere, and the main crossings adorned with statues and fountains—they are better planned.

The railroad stations are handsomer than those with which American cities are favored; the post offices, schools, museums and other public buildings are monumentally constructed, and, what surprises the New Yorker most of all, there is a complete absence of slums and ragged sections of any sort.

Whence do German cities derive the revenue to meet—without crippling trade or burdening the people—the cost of the splendid public improvements that abound? A specific answer to the question is given by Mr. R. Ockel, in the Westminster Review for July, in which it is made clear that in Germany, and especially in her new colonies, the principle that the land belongs to the nation is widely recognized:

The fact is that since the German Government set nine years ago the example of levying a tax of 6% on the capital value of the land (in the newly-acquired colony of Kiautchou) one town after another in Germany itself has adopted the same enlightened system of raising revenue; and, so fruitful a source of revenue have land values proved, the towns, in spite of ever-increasing municipal expenditure, have been able to remit all other direct taxation. The rate of the land values tax is in most cases very small—from 0.2% to 0.5% of the selling value of the land. But the tax is levied on all land, whether put to use or not; and, since upwards of 300 towns—amongst them nearly all the large towns, including Berlin, Breslau, Cologne, Frankfurt-on-Maine, Dusseldorf, Hanover, Magdeburg, Charlottenburg, Essen, Stettin, Konigsberg, Duisberg, Dortmund, Halle, Altona, Kiel, Elberfeld, Danzig, Bremen, Aix-la-Chapelle, Posen, Kassel, etc.—have adopted this system of taxation, the result has been to discourage the holding up of land and to open up to both labor and capital further avenues of employment. As a matter of fact, hardly any unemployed are to be found at present in Germany; and a scarcity of labor has set in that seriously troubles many an employer.

A league of German land reformers (Bodenreformers), which has had much success in opening the eyes of the German people, petitioned the Government a year ago to secure strips of land one kilometer wide along the banks of the many big State canals now in course of construction, these strips of land to take the place of large towns and congested centres that will under existing conditions continue to grow up, as it is certain that the canals will give an enormous stimulus to trade and industry.

It is Mr. Ockel's estimate of the Bodenreformers' work that they have pushed forward with no small measure of success part of the great fundamental reforms advocated by our Henry George:

By affording a practical object lesson of the great and far-reaching effects of even a small tax on land values in promoting the general progress and prosperity of a country, they have earned the gratitude, not only of their Fatherland, but of the whole civilized world, which is groaning and staggering under the huge deadweight of the old Roman law of private property in land. They have, indeed, given a great incentive to other countries to follow the same line of reform; and it may well be that these other countries, having fewer landlords to overcome, or enjoying other more favorable conditions, may overtake Germany on the pathway of reform, and that their example may in turn serve to quicken the progress of the very country which first in Europe put into practical effect the gospel according to Henry George, and serve also to show how to remedy the few mistakes made by reason of over-zeal in starting.

This is the magic, the essayist assures the readers of the great English review, which gives German towns, even small ones, such a palpable superiority as compared with towns of the same size in England, and German life so great a superiority as compared with English life, even though German incomes are on the average so much smaller.

It is seldom a milestone is seen in the lower part of the city, yet there is one at Rivington st and the Bowery which marks "one mile from City Hall."

Uplift for Union Square.

UNION SQUARE, which some years ago was the cause of much speculation among real estate men as to what its future would be, has become an uptown centre of the wholesale trade. There was a time when it was feared that with the departure of several well known jewelers and music houses, the Square would lose its prestige and that rental values would suffer, but this fear has proven ungrounded. It was merely in a transition state, and those who were fortunate to purchase property then have no cause now for complaint. Those stores on the west and south of the Square are well rented, and for a long term of years in many instances, to substantial firms in the wholesale trade. Along the 4th av side there is not such a marked change in conditions. This side received a temporary setback during the period that the subway was under construction, but now is reaping the reward of that improvement, and values are increasing. The north end is only one block in length and is occupied by a hotel which has been established there for years and by some retail firms who have long-term leases. There is now very little to rent on Union Sqaure, and the prevailing prices asked for lofts range from $2 to $2.50 a square foot.

A Record Price in 34th Street.

The Bankers Investing Company (Minturn Post Collins, president) has leased the westerly store of the building No. 1 West 34th st, known as the "Century Building," for a term of twenty-one years, at a yearly rental of about $20,000. This is the highest price per front foot on this street and establishes a new high record for space in this important thoroughfare. The store adjoins the new establishment of James McCreery & Co. and is opposite the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. The easterly store is rented to the Mirror Candy Co. at $18,000 per year. Both stores are 18 ft. wide.

Since the opening of the cloak and suit house of Oppenheim, Collins & Co. a marked change was immediately noticeable for demand of space in this block, and several large firms are seeking to obtain quarters in this section.

The name of the new occupant of the store will be announced within a few days; it will be occupied as an exclusive specialty store for millinery, neckwear and furs. The lease was negotiated through Julian Benedict, who was largely instrumental in the development of this block, and is the broker who in many instances obtained record prices for 34th st real estate. Among some of these transactions may be mentioned the sale of the Henry Clews property and the leasing of the 11-sty building to Revillion Freres.

Mr. Black on Public Confidence.

Mr. H. S. Black, president of the U. S. Realty and Improvement Company, considers that there is no business depression at the present time, but that there is every indication of a business curtailment throughout the country. Asked by the Tribune to what he attributed this, Mr. Black answered:

"To a large extent, I attribute it to a lack of sufficient money to meet the increased demands of business, but principally to a lack of confidence on the part of capital, owing to the wave of socialism sweeping over the country and to the general desire on the part of men holding important official and judicial positions to attack capital and corporations in general."

Builders especially will agree with Mr. Black that insufficient money has been at least one of the causes that have checked business operations. Fully fifteen months ago the builders felt the tightening. They found savings banks funds loaned out to the limit, and the title companies unable to dispose of their mortgage securities on hand. "It's the wicked mortgage law," many said. "When the new recording law takes effect there will be more money to loan." But the summer passed without purse strings getting any looser, and then the public decided that it was not mortgage legislation which had been holding investment funds up, but that there was not enough money available in New York for the needs of its business. Now the hope is that money is coming from the West to fill the voids in the East.

An Order Blank for Repairs.

Agents of property are always on the lookout for some idea that will tend to lessen friction between landlord and tenant. Unpleasantness sometimes arises because repairs are not promptly attended to, and often it is hard to fix the responsibility. Many agents favor a printed blank and require the tenant or some one in authority to sign it; then the superintendent knows who ordered the work done. Should the work be of such a nature that the tenant ought to pay for it, the blank acts as an authorization for the agent to have the work done at the expense of the tenant.

The title of the new firm will be "Cammann, Voorhees & Floyd." The office of H. H. Cammann & Co. is one of the oldest and most substantial in the city, the firm having been in the real estate business since 1866, when it was first established. Voorhees & Floyd, while belonging to the younger generation of brokerage houses, are known downtown for their hustling abilities. The change is expected to strengthen the combined business of the old firm, and will permit the consolidation to extend the business of managing "real property" and strengthen the brokerage business in all its branches.

A Thousand a Year for Rent.

WHAT can be rented for $1,000 a year? What kind of an abode can one procure for that amount? These are certainly very broad questions and hard to answer, so much depends upon the individual to be suited, his likes and dislikes, the location desired and a hundred and one things.

One of the first things for him to do is to decide where he would like to locate—what part of the city will be the most convenient for his business and social tastes—and after deciding that point he must look around and see what the nature of the buildings erected in that particular locality are. In the majority of cases it will resolve itself into one of three kinds of houses, viz., elevator apartment, non-elevator apartment or apartment hotel—the private dwelling almost being eliminated on account of the rent.

There is a very serious question as to what size apartment he requires; how many rooms must he have? He cannot get as many rooms in an apartment with an elevator as in one without an elevator for the price, or the builder has made up the difference in the size of the rooms.

Probably the most favorable section for renting at the present time is on Washington Heights; where there have been many new buildings erected during the past two years, the percentage of vacancies is larger than usual. There is an assortment to choose from, private dwellings, duplex houses, elevator and non-elevator houses, and for a thousand dollars you can rent advantageously.

On Broadway, overlooking the Hudson River and on St. Nicholas avenue, there are new buildings with vacancies, and some concession is given, as a rule, to good tenants. But to illustrate what some tenants expect, a lady came into a broker's office this week and said she would take a certain apartment, providing the agent would completely redecorate it, give two months' rent free, pay moving expenses and one month's gas bill. It is hardly necessary to add that the offer was speedily declined.

On Broadway, near 104th street, eight rooms and bath in old-law houses can be had for one thousand dollars a year, or six rooms and bath in elevator apartments command the same rental, and there are not many to be had even at that price in this section.

In the Long Acre Square section of Broadway apartment hotels are the rule, and dwelling houses command much more rent than one thousand a year.

The apartment hotel has to be figured a little differently, because it includes things that are omitted in renting an ordinary apartment; maid service, as well as having your rooms thoroughly cleaned, the brasses polished and windows washed. That is all included in the rent, and then the tenant family can generally make an arrangement to have their meals furnished by the house for a stipulated sum, though in some cases it is a la carte. Three rooms and bath range from $800 to $1,300, as per location. There is a comfort in not having to deal with the servant question, but still some people are old-fashioned enough to want what they want when and as they want it.

On Lexington avenue, below 34th street, the best demand is for five and six rooms and they rent readily, though at a little cheaper than one thousand dollars.

In making up the fall list in a prominent broker's office, letters were sent out to owners of property requesting the privilege to place their holdings on the broker's books and asking for full particulars.

Many replies were received, some by mail and some by the owner making a personal call to the office. A gentleman called in at this office one day and asked the renting agent what he had to offer for a certain figure. The agent showed him his list and offered to go on a tour of inspection with his client.

After visiting one of the houses the client started to find fault with it and severely taxed the ingenuity of the agent to explain away certain faults. After letting the agent go on for some time, the client laughed and said, "Never mind, I am the owner of the house. I guess you are on the job and take charge of the rest of my property."

Renting of an Office Building.

THE renting of an office is a serious matter and one which requires a good deal of thought on the part of the tenant. When all is said and done it is a comparatively simple matter to move your household from one building to another, but making a change of business address is an entirely different matter, so a great deal of thought is given to the subject before the move is made.

The tenant is getting more particular every year, and perfectly properly, too, always providing that he can pay for the luxuries demanded.

A HOUSE IN NEWARK.

When it is considered that a man spends one-third of his life at the office, why should it not be comfortable? Is there any reason why he should not want good light and air? Well, it has come to the point where he is renting light and not space.

Mr. E. A. Tredwell spoke forcibly on this point the other day. He said many brokers have conceded that any space 27 feet from a window cannot be rented, it is simply given away. And one of the strong features of the high buildings is the fact that they get light. While these new tower buildings are put up partly for advertising purposes, still it is an unconscious reaching out for light, and after all that is what a tenant pays for.

The tenant of today expects that his office will be a modern hotel without beds. He must open the door, turn the key in his desk and have everything ready for business. To accomplish this, the building furnishes a small army of men and women who do the cleaning in the night and early morning. The women start shortly after 5 o'clock to clean the offices out and they stop about 8 p. m., when the men come on to clean halls and elevators. About 7 o'clock the next morning the women come back to finish the office dusting. One woman cleans about 6,000 square feet of floor space. This, of course, has to be paid by the owner, and is a fixed charge, the same as taxes and repairs, and the office building that gives the most service nets, as a rule, the least return to the owner.

PROPERTY OWNERS' SECTION.

Paving Materials.

GOOD PAVEMENTS are necessary to the best development of real property, as they affect the desirability of a neighborhood and hence its relative value to a degree greater than the actual cost of the improvement, when it is of a first-class sort. Owners recognize this fact, and no improvement under the head of public works is more welcome after a street is piped than a good pavement. There are now over four hundred miles of street pavement in Manhattan Borough. Block asphalt for residence streets and wood block for business thoroughfares are the most popular materials at this time, but sheet asphalt has the preference with the city authorities for surfacing the long business avenues.

Last year 8.14 miles of sheet asphalt, 7.83 miles of block asphalt, 4.19 miles of wood block, 2.65 miles of granite block, and altogether 22.83 miles of pavement were laid. At the last report we had 248 miles of sheet asphalt, 90 miles of granite, 31 miles of block asphalt, 22 miles of specification trap, 14 of Belgian trap and 13 miles of macadam. The largest paving contract last year was for Broadway, from 135th st to 187th, a work which will complete a continuous line of asphalt on that highway from Canal st to Spuyten Duyvil, and which has had and will continue to have a distinct effect upon real estate along that course, as manifested in the new building operations.

Repairs to pavements are a permanent annual charge. It is estimated that in maintaining asphalt pavements in Manhattan Borough last year the asphalt companies made repairs amounting to 1,500,000 square yards; the total area of sheet and block asphalt under guarantee in this borough is about 5,400,000 square yards, and it thus appears that an area equal to the whole asphalt of the streets is renewed in less than four years. Repairs cost in this borough 34 cents per square yard per year—when averaged up—but in Brooklyn the same work costs only seven cents per yard per year, the increased cost in Manhattan being due to the unusual traffic conditions and the large amount of street opening. The great number of street openings is getting to be a serious feature, and it is for the authorities to decide how much longer the expense and annoyance can be endured before a radical reformation shall be instituted.

The only way to treat a pavement after it is down is to let it alone, as has been heretofore said in this paper. Nearly thirty-three thousand openings were made in the streets of this one borough last year, which was an increase of about twenty-five hundred over the number of openings in 1905. Besides the repaving of upper Broadway other improvements of note of recent date were the repaving of St. Nicholas av, from 110th st to 169th; also Audubon av, from 175th st to Fort George av; also Wadsworth av, from 173d st to 11th av, which have made desirable connections with Broadway and other streets, and forming smooth driveways of considerable length. Seventh av, from 110th st north, is now in hand, but has been delayed by the construction of a large water main for the Department of Water Supply.

As the cost of maintaining and cleaning a pavement is a permanent charge, the cheapest to construct is not necessarily the cheapest in the end; New York has rather sought for the best suited to its peculiar conditions. Property owners are directly assessed for the cost of construction, but cannot be charged in the same way with the cost of maintenance. About one million square yards of pavement are being maintained under contract by the city this year, where the guarantee has expired. The relative ease of cleaning various pavements is estimated by the street cleaning department at 100 for asphalt and wood blocks, 150 for granite blocks and 400 for cobble stone.

Pavements have been constructed of a variety of materials, perishable and imperishable, natural and artificial, but asphalt, brick, stone blocks and wood blocks seem to be the only ones that have survived the test of time. Asphalt has generally given satisfaction, but in some cases it has failed, and often the experts are unable to say why. Experiments conducted by Engineer George R. Olney indicate that "the force which has the greatest tendency to cause deterioration of an asphalt surface is that of impact, and the blows from horses' hoofs or from the wheels of vehicles where the surface is irregular, cause the surface mixture to be injured to a far greater extent than simple attrition of ordinary travel." A measure of this force even though only relative is therefore of the greatest importance. The experimental work performed up to the present time warrants the engineer forming the following provisional conclusions:

"That an asphaltic cement made from an asphalt obtained from the distillation of asphaltic oils shows the least power to resist an impact blow. The provision of our specifications which rules out asphalts of this nature is, therefore, fully justified by the results obtained with our impact machine. It is possible that if the manufacturers of asphalts of this kind exercised greater care in not overheating their product during distillation, an asphaltic product showing greater resistance to impact blows might be obtained."

Concrete is this year being used for the base instead of stone blocks in asphalt paving. New York is not a criterion for other cities; it is in a class by itself. This refers to both the question of cost and of durability. But a good granite block pavement will last from fifteen to twenty years even under heavy traffic. The surface is apt to be noisy, but that objection has been largely eliminated by coating the joints with a preparation of tar. Wood block is a first class pavement while it lasts, but it needs to be more frequently resurfaced than other pavements, though this is easily and quickly done when the base is not injured. Ease in resurfacing is also an item in favor of asphalt block which, however, is a highly durable material under ordinary circumstances, and for residence streets many property owners prefer it to sheet asphalt. Last year the specifications for wood block were changed in this borough. The most important change is that relating to the nature of the creosote oil desired. Formerly an oil, at least 80 per cent. of which should distill below 315° C., was required. That is an oil of comparatively light specific gravity. The present specifications demand an oil of specific gravity of not less than 1.12 which shall lose not more than 35 per cent. on distillation up to 315° C. and not more than 50 per cent. up to 370° C. We thus require a much heavier oil than formerly, because the view is now generally held that the creosote oil employed for preserving timber should be of a heavy rather than of a light description, and it is believed that such an impregnated block will be more water and decay resistant.

Ultimate Effect of the Operation of the Hudson River Tunnels

As the completion of the Hudson River tunnels draws nearer day by day, so does the activity in acreage and in smaller plot transactions increase throughout Northern Jersey. It is not confined to those sections likely to be first affected by the sub-river tubes. Beyond this primary zone of influence, shrewd operators are looking for bargains. Prospectors are everywhere securing options and buying outright. Purchases are eagerly being made in localities which, to the uninitiated, seem out of the way and least likely to come into demand.

The optimistic buyer believes he is making no mistake and has only to bide his time to be very handsomely rewarded for his foresight. With the tunnels will come extension of transportation lines, train and trolley, and distance, with time reduced to a minimum, will cease to be a bug-bear.

Recalling the recent aggressive realty boom in the Bronx, which later shifted to Long Island, it is contended that history will repeat itself and that suburban Jersey, within easy access of Manhattan, will be as much in demand as were its predecessors in public favor, in consequence of which an era of unparalleled development for New Jersey will open. The large acreage deals shown by the records attest the demand shrewd operators foresee.

Pointers to Taxpayers.

Pay your taxes now and get a rebate.

After the date of Oct. 7 no rebate is allowed, and after Nov. 1 a penalty is charged.

If a taxpayer chooses to mail check he should enclose stamped envelope for receipted bill.

Procure a requisition for tax bills and copy the number of the section, volume, block, lot, street or avenue from your last year's bill. In case your bill is mislaid, this information may be had by applying at the Tax Office.

On the fifteenth of September the assessment rolls with tax extended are delivered to the Receiver of Taxes. On the first Monday of October taxes are due and payable and become a lien. Certiorari proceedings must be begun before November 1.

Owing to the great numbers coming to pay their taxes, about 400 temporary clerks are employed in the Tax Department. It is expected that from fourteen to fifteen million dollars will be collected by the first Monday in October. The city borrows on revenue bonds to meet expenses in advance of the calendar year and so uses the monies collected for taxes as soon as possible, thus saving interest on the loan.

Taxes for 1907 were confirmed on July 23d and are payable on Oct. 7th. If paid during October a rebate at the rate of 6% will be allowed. Taxes remaining in arrears after Nov. 30th are subject to a penalty of 1%, and if still unpaid by January a penalty of 7% from Oct. 1st will be incurred. The tax rate for Manhattan and the Bronx is 1.48499; Brooklyn, 1.55408; Queens, 1.53393, and for Richmond, 1.56884. The approximate amount of arrears of taxes to date for Manhattan is $27,372,335.40.

Purchasing a Home With a Mortgage.

THERE is a supreme satisfaction in the ownership of a home, and the advantages a man possesses when he is his own landlord are immeasurably greater than when he is merely one of the legion of rent-payers. From the view of economy it is cheaper to own a home free and clear to live in than to pay rent, but when the purchaser acquires a house against which there is an encumbrance other elements enter into the proposition that not infrequently make the annual cost an added expense. If the habitable value of the property is moderate, but the mortgage large and the interest rate high—likewise taxes, insurance and repairs—the cost of maintenance will be considerably more than the value derived from occupying the premises; therefore it will be understood that it would be much cheaper to occupy it as tenant than as owner. If the habitable value is large, the mortgage small, and the interest rate, taxes, insurance and repairs low, the owner will be able to show a profit on his investment.

An actual suburban transaction which took place recently serves to illustrate the argument. After a careful canvass a homeseeker finally came across a modern dwelling within commuting distance of Manhattan, a fair rental value of which was $30 per month. The purchase price of the property was $4,100, and as that figure compared well with the prices of similar real estate in the immediate vicinity, a bargain was struck. The purchaser agreed to take the property at the figure mentioned, to pay $1,100 cash and give a purchase-money mortgage for the remainder. As a tenant of the premises his annual rental would have been.....$360.00

| Interest on P. M. mortgage of $3,000, 5%..... | $150.00 |
| Loss of bank interest on $1,100, at 4%..... | 44.00 |
| Taxes ..... | 30.00 |
| Fire insurance ..... | 4.00 |
| Repairs ..... | 35.00 |
| Net yearly saving..... | $97.00 |

It will be seen from the above figures that it is cheaper to occupy this property as owner than as tenant, but for the sake of argument let it be supposed that the identical home be purchased in another locality at a like cost but subject to an existing mortgage encumbrance of $3,500 at 6 per cent, assuming as well that the cost of maintenance is greater, and that the rental value is $25 per month instead of $30. As a tenant of the premises the occupant's annual rental would then be..$300.00

| Interest on mortgage of $3,500, 6%..... | $210.00 |
| Loss of bank interest on $600, 4%..... | 24.00 |
| Taxes ..... | 50.00 |
| Fire insurance ..... | 5.00 |
| Repairs..... | 35.00 |
| Annual deficit ..... | $24.00 |

In this instance it will be seen that the cost of tenancy as owner is greater than though the premises were otherwise occupied. It is not so important how large a sum of cash enters into the purchase of a domicile as how much interest is to be paid on the mortgage indebtedness and the amount of running charges incurred, such as taxes, water rent, fire insurance and repairs.

A public hearing will be held by Comptroller Herman A. Metz, on Oct. 1, at 2 P. M., relative to the assessment for the widening of Delancey st, which has proved a hardship to East Side property owners. The matter was referred to the Comptroller on June 28, 1907, by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. I. T. Flatto and other speakers will address the meeting.

SEWERS.

Mr. Horace Loomis, the chief engineer of sewers in the Borough of Manhattan, reports that a small mileage of sewers remains yet to be built in the northern end of Manhattan before the system is entirely completed. In cases where streets have already been mapped, some of them are graded and ready for work. In other sections the streets have not even been laid on the map, and, when improvements finally are made, the department will be in position to undertake the drainage of the same.

In the lower part of the city considerable work is being done, and a large amount contemplated of alterations, improvements and rebuilding. This work is likely to be complicated to a very great extent by railroad tunnels and other works of private corporations.

Bids will be received on Tuesday, Oct. 1, for completing the contract which was executed by William J. Flanagan on March 2, 1906, and was declared abandoned Aug. 28, 1907, for the construction of the storm relief tunnel sewer from the Webster avenue sewer near Wendover avenue, in the Mill Brook water shed (sewerage district No. 33), to the Harlem River, about 231 feet north of High Bridge. The excavating to be done is estimated at 25,000 cubic yards.

The President of the Borough of the Bronx having submitted a plan for a relief sewer in Webster av, from Wendover av to a point 200 ft. north of Tremont, av, and requested an appropriation of $325,000 for its construction, the Board of Estimate and Apportionment has referred the matter to a committee consisting of the Mayor, President of the Board of Aldermen, President of the Borough of the Bronx, the Chief Engineer and the Corporation Council.

REGULATING AND GRADING IN THE BRONX.

The following named Bronx improvement matters have been advanced to the stage that bids are being advertised for by the Borough President: Randall av, from Leggett av to Bronx river; McComb's Road, from Featherbed lane to Aqueduct av; 196th st, from Bainbridge av to Jerome av; Summit place, from Heath av to Boston av; Spuyten Duyvel rd between West 227th st and West 230th st; East 147th st, from Southern Boulevard to St. Mary's Park; East 199th st from Webster av to Marion av; Popham av from West 176th st to Montgomery av; 170th st, from Aqueduct av to Wythe pl, excepting that section between Jerome av and Crowell av; Kossuth pl, from Mosholu Parkway to De Kalb av; Whittier st, from Seneca av to Ludlow av.

Imformation for Taxpayers Asked.

Mr. Allan Robinson, in referring to the letter which he sent to Controller Metz last Saturday, says that it should not be taken as a criticism, expressed or implied, of the Controller. In his opinion Mr. Metz is one of the best Controllers the city has ever had, and his efforts, so far as Mr. Robinson is familiar with them, have always been along the line of reducing expenses and inaugurating economies and improvements.

"But the question of the expenditures of the city government," said Mr. Robinson, "is a vital one, and the letter in question was addressed to him as the proper person to give to the taxpayers of the city information desired relative to the manner in which their money has been expended. Both the Mayor and Controller have admitted through the Finance Commission that the expenditures of the city government are higher than need be for the service obtained, and that the revenues are lower than need be if properly controlled.

"The system of bookkeeping should be simplified, first of all, since improper methods of bookkeeping render it very difficult to learn how the city's moneys have been expended. With the assistance of the Mayor and the Controller I feel confident that an explicit statement will be furnished the taxpayers that can be used as a basis for future budgets."

In the letter referred to the Allied Real Estate Interests asked information on the following points, viz.: (1) What date has been set for the final action on the 1908 budget? (2) What date or dates have been set for taxpayers to appear before the Board of Estimates and Apportionment? (3) Will the budget for 1908 be submitted in the form provided for in the resolution of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment of October, 1906? (4) Has the "horizontal cut" been positively abandoned; and will it be possible this year for one department's requests to be considered on the merits of the case presented by that department without regard to the percentage of increase granted to some other department whose needs are not so urgent from the point of view of the city at large? (5) Will it be possible to obtain in advance of public hearings your recommendations as to increase in allowances? (6) Will it be possible to obtain a list of requests for increases which you refuse to recommend? (7) Will it be possible to obtain a statement showing how far salary increases are due to an increase in the salaries of present officials, and how far due to requirements growing out of additional employees? (8) What revenues due the city are not now collected?

QUESTION BOX

Promissory Note.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

Will you inform me through your paper as to the following: A client of mine loaned a party a sum of money on a note and was given a bonus of $15; or, in other words, he bought the note for $15 less than its face value. The note ran two months and the party then wanted to extend it on the same terms, and it was done, the party paying the $15 again. Could the purchaser of the note sue for face value and recover or get judgment?

Answer.—If the defense of usury should be put into the suit, it is doubtful if the holder of the note could then recover judgment. If, however, suit should be brought, let it only be for the original amount due with interest, less the $30 received.

Betrayal of Confidence.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

A man puts his real estate, for reasons best known to himself, in his wife's name, and she dies without having made a will, and leaving no children. Can he recover his property, and how?

Answer.—Unless a child was born alive, the issue of the marriage, the surviving husband has now no interest in said real estate, and cannot recover it back. If such child was so born the surviving husband has a "tenancy by the courtesy" (that is, the use, rents and profits of the real estate during his life; he to pay taxes, water rents and repairs, and not to commit waste). A method frequently resorted to in such cases is a friendly foreclosure.

Satisfaction Required.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

Please give me your opinion if a broker is entitled to his commission when he brings a tenant to lease a property for a term of years, and both sides agree, but no contract is to be made or signed until the responsibility of the tenant is thoroughly considered by the owner of the property. The owner finds tenant not sufficiently responsible, therefore refuses the verbal agreement made. Is the broker entitled to the commission?

Answer.—One of the requisites of becoming entitled to a commission is for a broker to procure a party satisfactory to the landlord, who, other things being equal, passes himself on the satisfactoriness of the party brought to him, until which done the broker has only performed a part of his work and is not entitled to consider his commission as earned.

Payment of Taxes.

Misconstruction of the rule that "all checks given in payment of taxes must be certified," has decided Comptroller Metz to waive so much of the order to the Receiver of Taxes as to permit him to receive uncertified checks in payment of bills sent by mail and to require the Receiver in such cases to hold receipted bills, when so paid, until the checks have been honored through the Clearing House.

The reason for this order is that last year the department had a great deal of trouble in collecting on certain checks which were returned by the banks marked "N. G.," "Bankruptcy," "Payment stopped," "Bank closed," etc., while there was outstanding a receipted bill.

Col. David E. Austin, the Receiver of Taxes, says that while the city does not lose this money, as the amount is not charged off the books until the checks are cashed, still these receipts have been used as a matter of deception to mortgagees in several instances, and the city decided to discontinue the practise.

All bills paid by check on the lines where the bills are receipted and returned to the taxpayer to be taken away by him, must be paid by checks certified in advance of payment, or in legal tender. In other words, if the taxpayer wants his receipt immediately he should pay by certified check or legal tender; where there is no immediate necessity for having the receipted bill, he may send in an uncertified check with a stamped envelope enclosed and a receipt will be sent him.

Objects of the Civic League.

The Civic League of the Bronx, active in transit matters, has presented to the Public Service Commissioners a report indicating how the Bronx would be helped were certain changes made in the existing system.

One suggestion is that alternate trains be run on the 2d av line through from the South Ferry to Bronx Park and West Farms, thus avoiding much of the congestion at the 149th st station and largely increasing the carrying capacity of the elevated system. The League is also working for more speedy completion of municipal contracts and for greater economy in connection with and more strict enforcement of the obligations of such contracts.

Railroads and Street Pavements.

PROPERTY OWNERS often ask what the liability of a street railway company is to keep in repair portions of streets within its tracks. Railroad corporations have at times neglected to comply with the orders of the city authorities, to pave, repave or repair, and the Commissioner of Public Works has had to repave, "between the tracks, the rails of its tracks and two feet in width outside of its tracks."

Between the years 1892 and 1896 the city spent $48,679.22 for such paving on the line of the Broadway and 7th av, in various places, where the railroad company had not observed and obeyed the notice to repave given by the Commissioner of Public Works. After all these years a report has just been rendered by a referee, to the Supreme Court of this county, unfavorable to the city's action, as the referee holds that in the case of the present defendant neither by its charter nor by any contract expressed or upheld, nor by any statute or law of the State (1890) was it under any obligation to repave, or do more than repair and keep in repair; and, further, that want of legal notice is fatal to the action. The principles of law are held to be:

A street surface railroad company is bound to keep in proper repair the portions of the streets occupied by its tracks; but, in case it fails to do so, the municipality or other local authority cannot, without demand or notice, interfere and make such repairs as it deems necessary and claim against the company for the expense incurred.

In the absence of a special contract or obligation expressly imposed by its charter a street surface railroad company is under no duty or liability to repave any portion of a street in which its tracks are laid, except the duty or liability which is created by section 98 of chapter 565 of the Laws of 1890, as amended by chapter 676 of the Laws of 1892, and by that section a local authority can have no claim against a railroad corporation for repaving unless it first gives notice to the corportion to do the required work and the corporation neglects to do it for a period of 30 days.

Section 98 of the Act of 1890 provided: "Every such corporation, so long as it shall continue to use any of its tracks in any street, avenue or public place in any city or village, shall have and keep in permanent repair that portion of such street, avenue or public place between its tracks, the rails of its tracks, and two feet in width outside of its tracks, under the supervision of the proper local authorities and whenever required by them to do so and in such manner as they may prescribe."

It is open to question whether this section applied to any corporations other than those referred to in section 97, which were street surface railroads in this State, "excepting in the City and County of New York." It was this doubt probably that led the Legislature in 1892 (Chap. 676) to amend section 98 by substituting for the introductory words "every such corporation," the words "every street surface railroad corporation." In other respects the section was unchanged.

Points to Remember in Valuing Realty.

Many appraisers owe much of their success to the experience gained in condemnation proceedings, both for the city and for others, which may be considered a special schooling in itself. Bryan L. Kennelly, of 156 Broadway, is included in this class. For many years Mr. Kennelly has been retained as an expert for the City of New York. In a recent interview he said that the ability of an appraiser is in proportion to his length of experience, and that while much could be said on the subject of how to intelligently determine real property values, that, after all, it depended on an extensive knowledge of sales and governing conditions. David Stewart, of 203 Broadway, who has been engaged as an appraiser in many important litigation cases, and who is a recognized authority in the Washington Heights and Van Courtlandt sections, says that in making appraisals of improved property it is always advisable to value the land and building separately, being careful to note the arrangement of the interior, as upon its economical plan the full revenue of the property depends. Among other things to be remembered in rendering a report, he said, are street openings, changes of grade, and assessments, all of which may affect the value of property materially. Joel S De Selding, of De Selding Bros., 149 Broadway, Manhattan, also an expert appraiser, considers that the appraiser of to-day must be a student of conditions as well as of values, and that in order to qualify as an expert he should be able to testify in court work as well.

Special Circuits and Outlets for Heating Devices.

The "Manhanset" at Prospect and Longwood aves. was one of the first apartment houses to be built with special outlets for electrical heating devices. Mr. James F. Meehan, the builder, is making the same arrangements in his new apartment house at 163d st. and Prospect ave. Separate outlets in each bathroom make it easy to connect any small device, such as a curling-iron heater, shaving mug or water cup, without using the regular lamp socket.

Mr. Charles V. Halley, in his new apartment house at Clinton av and Crotona Park North, has improved on this idea by installing a separate circuit from the panel box to an outlet in the kitchen. To this outlet an electric cooking device can be attached, thus making it possible for a tenant to do part or all of his cooking by electricity.

Every prospective builder of apartment houses should consider the special circuit question when a building is planned, as the expense of running heavy circuits for heating appliances after the structure is completed often prevents the owner from installing them. Electric heating devices are here to stay, and it is but a question of time when every apartment house and dwelling will have a special heating circuit.

Suggestions Invited.

The following named committee of the Harlem Property Owners' Association would be pleased to receive suggestions in compliance with the following notice: Morton H. C. Foster, 1971 3d av; J. L. O'Brien, 217 West 125th st; Cyrille Carreau, 796 6th av; J. T. Martin, 35 West 111th st; Maurice Goldberg, 22 Lenox av; Edward J. Murray, 1786 Lexington av, chairman.

Dear Sir: The committee of the Board of Municipal Court Justices having charge of the plans and arrangements to effect the reorganization of the court, as required by chapter 603 of the Laws of 1907, has selected as its sub-committee on rules Justice Rasquin, of Queens, and myself.

This sub-committee would be pleased to receive any suggestions upon any subject which members of the bar may deem proper or suitable to be embodied in the rules of the Municipal Court.

It is the purpose of the Board of Justices, I believe, to establish parts of each of the courts, by virtue of section 13 of chapter 603 of the laws of 1907, so that there will be as little delay as possible in the conduct of the business of the courts. The sub-committee would appreciate it if you would cause the publication either of this letter or the material features thereof in the Law Journal, so that members of the bar may be advised of the desire of the Board of Justices, through its sub-committee above mentioned, to have the co-operation and suggestions of the bar in framing suitable rules for the expeditious and orderly conduct of the business of the court. * * *

Suggestions may be addressed care of the writer, at the Fourteenth District Court, Borough of Manhattan, No. 620 Madison av. Yours very truly,

EDGAR J. LAUER.

Objects of the Vyse Estate P. O. Association.

The Vyse Estate Property Owners 'Association has adopted a resolution favoring the construction of a third track on the 3d av elevated road through Manhattan, and has appointed a special committee to work for the establishment of a public school in the vicinity of Vyse av and Jennings st.

The association is also urging the Public Service Commission that the Interborough Railroad Company be compelled to run 2d and 3d av "L" trains over the Westchester av spur to and from West Farms. The association has also requested the commission not to have the 2d av elevated line used exclusively for express service.

The Fort George Railway.

Owners of more than half the property on the line of the Fort George Street Railway having consented to the constructing and operating of this road, the papers showing these consents have been referred back to the railway company for correction, by Chief Engineer Nelson P. Lewis, acting for the Board of Estimate. The irregularities consist in the omission of lot numbers and dates, incomplete diagrams and the absence of corporate seals where the consents of corporations are given. These seem small details, but in matters of this importance affecting the validity of a franchise, every formality must be strictly observed.

Status of the Portchester Railroad Project.

At the meeting of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment of June 21, 1907, an order to show cause and a temporary injunction were served upon the Board, restraining it from granting the application of the New York and Portchester Railroad Company for a change of line in the Borough of the Bronx. The injunction order was entered in the action of Robert E. Robinson as plaintiff. Hearings on the application by the Board of Estimate are being adjourned from time to time, the next date being November 1.

What's to Be Done with the Belmont Tunnel?

The Belmont tunnel is finished on time. The official trip through the tunnel, from Lexington av and Forty-second st, Manhattan, under the East River to Long Island City, was made on Tuesday morning, Sept. 24, 1907, by a number of officials and invited guests.

A month's work could make the tunnel ready for car traffic, but connections have not yet been made with other traffic lines, and no one knows what is to be done with it. Some say the plan is to sell it to the city, and that seems to be the only way the public will ever get through it without paying an extra fare.

7th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

September 20, 21, 23, 24, 25 and 26.

PRESIDENT JAMES J. HILL, of the Great Northern Railroad, and President Roosevelt disagree about many questions of public policy, but it is by no means an accident that they also have points of agreement. The former gave out an interview early in the week, in which he predicted the eventual breakdown of the railway systems of the country as a means of transportation, and the absolute necessity of developing the inland water-ways. The chief burden of Mr. Roosevelt's speeches in the Mississippi Valley has been the second of these ideas. He has been pointing out the absolute necessity of supplementing the railways by means of the larger use of canals and rivers, and there can be no doubt that in emphasizing the necessity for improved waterways he is performing a public service as important as that which he performed when he advocated a system of national irrigation. In this, as in certain other respects, the industrial practice of the United States is far behind that of Germany. Germany has sedulously developed her internal waterways as a supplement to her railway system, and the comparatively cheap means of transportation thereby afforded have had much to do with the industrial expansion of the German Empire. American industries, on the other hand, have been built up under conditions which, the Great Lakes apart, makes them almost exclusively dependent on the railways, and the railways themselves, in their desire for traffic, have adopted a rate policy which prevented, wherever possible, the transportation of freight by water. If Mr. Hill's statements are well founded, this policy cannot be continued. The railways are unable to carry all the traffic offered to them, because of the lack of sufficient terminals, and they cannot afford to buy the necessary terminals at prevailing prices. In all this there is, we believe, a certain amount of exaggeration. Mr. James J. Hill seems to be in an over-wrought state of mind which prevents him from seeing things in a normal perspective, nevertheless there is much truth in his contentions. The industrial development of the country will suffer severely, unless a greater use is made of the waterways, and no time should be lost in planning a system of internal improvements for this purpose. New York took the lead in this respect several years ago by beginning the enlargement of the Erie Canal, but the National Government should adopt a similar, but a much more elaborate and comprehensive policy.

MAYOR McCLELLAN has permitted the publication of certain of his ideas in respect to charter revision, and it is much to be hoped that they will find favor with the Commission. All the changes he proposes look in the direction of a simplification of the administrative machinery of the city, the reduction in the number of the departmental chiefs, and the concentration of their powers. He proposes, for instance, the organization of a Health Department which shall be responsible for the sanitary regulation and inspection of the city in every respect—including, of course, the enforcement of the tenement-house law. He proposes also, the reorganization of the Department of Charities and Correction for the purpose of transferring the control of the city prisons to the Police Department. This, again, is an extremely desirable change, for the association of the care of the poor and the sick with that of criminals is not based upon any rule of propriety or efficiency. What is still more important, he proposes the constitution of a Public Works Department, which shall include the existing departments of Building and of Bridges, and which will have control over much of the work now in the hands of borough officials. This should be one of the most useful of all the administrative reorganizations proposed by the Mayor, and with the assistance of a proper system of municipal accounting, it should conduce both to efficiency and economy in the expenditure of the city's money. The usual objection to these proposed changes is made on the score that no genuine contribution to good government can be made by means of tinkering with the Charter; but the whole history of the municipal reform movement both in the city and throughout the country proves the superficiality of this objection. Municipal misgovernment has been due to many causes; but not the least among them has been an administrative organization which denied the executive officials any efficient authority, and so relieved them of any real responsibility. New York is now being better governed than it was ten or fifteen years ago, not only because the people are electing better officials, but because these officials after they are elected have more power than formerly and can be held to stricter accountability. The changes proposed by Mayor McClellan all tend to carry a step farther this important process of simplifying the organization, and concentrating both authority and responsibility, and the Charter Revision Commission should certainly adopt this principle as their dominant constructive idea. The commission should get to work very soon, and should ask for all the time it needs to complete its arduous and difficult task.

THE PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION has made a grave mistake in authorizing the construction of the Fourth Avenue subway to South Brooklyn. In the course of time this subway, among others, should be built, but to spend as much money as will be needed for this improvement at the existing juncture is nothing less than a betrayal of the interests of the whole city for the benefit of a very small proportion of its inhabitants. The reasons which counsel the postponement of the construction of this subway are so numerous and so conclusive that we hope the Board of Estimate will at the last moment refuse to assume all the risks which are implied thereby, and propertied interests in other parts of the city should bring the utmost pressure to bear upon the Board for the purpose of preventing the commission of this grave mistake. As we all know, the city has a margin of less than $40,000,000 which, during the next five years, can possibly be devoted to subway construction, and why should the partially developed territory of South Brooklyn be selected as the cemetery in which the larger part of this sum is to be buried. It must be remembered that the appropriation of $25,000,000 for a tunnel to South Brooklyn prohibits any other subway construction, unless the debt margin can be increased; and it must be remembered also that there are other parts of the city which are in much greater need of genuine rapid transit than is South Brooklyn. The whole East Side of Manhattan is unprovided with subways, and its population is four-fold the population which will be aided by the Fourth Avenue subway. No doubt the East Side of Manhattan has its elevated railroads, but so has South Brooklyn. The action of the commission is equivalent to spending almost all the money available for rapid transit for the benefit of a few hundred thousand people where it should and could be spent for the benefit of almost two millions. What could be more absurd than the construction of a subway, which will run for miles by vacant lots, instead of constructing a subway through a part of the city which is congested with population and which is equally in need of improved means of transit. New York is certainly paying a high price for the purpose of preventing the collapse of the real estate boom in South Brooklyn.

ONE TROUBLE IS that no one knows how high the price will be. It may be assumed without hesitation that no bids will be received for operating the proposed subway. If the Interborough Company could see no profit in operating under existing conditions subway extensions on the East and West sides of Manhattan, it can be imagined how many bidders there will be for the operation of a subway through a part of the city which is partly vacant and which will never be as densely populated as Manhattan. The only way in which subways, built into new territory such as South Brooklyn can be made to pay, is by means of integral connections with subways which serve the centres of business and population, but the Fourth Avenue subway will have no such advantage. It will terminate at the Manhattan end of the Manhattan bridge, and passengers will have to change cars and pay two fares in order to reach destinations in Manhattan. For this reason the Fourth Avenue subway is badly planned as an independent line. Its traffic cannot possibly pay operating expenses and the interest on the capital invested. In order to be a paying venture its gross receipts would have to be not far from $5,000,000 a year, and it is absurd to suppose that they would reach any such sum. The city would be forced to operate the road after it was built, and if it were forced to take such a step, it would be obliged, not only to meet a deficit, but it would thereby hurt the whole movement towards municipal ownership. The Record and Guide has no objection to municipal operation under proper conditions, but the conditions should be absolutely right before the experiment is tried. In order to make the conditions right a system of subways should be laid out, which is capable of being operated independently with profit and with the maximum public benefit. The Fourth Avenue tunnel does not meet this condition. It cannot be operated independently in a profitable manner or in a way which would benefit any but one section of the city. Its construction should be postponed until the whole matter of subway construction can be taken up with a view to its adequate and comprehensive settlement.

What New York Real Estate Pays

By JEFFERSON M. LEVY

WHEN you speak of the income derived from New York real estate, the first consideration that comes to mind is that in addition to the usual income received, as in the way of rent, there is, and I may say, always has been, such a uniform advance in values that it is perfectly proper to say that the income actually received, calculated over a period of years, is at least double the ordinary or rental income.

In other words, if we say that business property (outside of the financial district and its vicinity) yields four to five per cent. per annum and tenement-house property yields ten per cent., there is also an additional sum received through the increase in value.

To be sure, this is, in one aspect, an increase in principal, but the advance in New York values has been so uniform and has continued practically throughout the city's history without an interruption worth considering, that I believe it may fairly be treated as income, and this view many far-sighted investors have adopted for many years back.

The newspapers have from time to time called attention to the ever-increasing number of plots that have been bought for improvement and occupation by owners, or which for other reasons have been permanently taken out of the market. This, of course, has resulted in sharp advances in adjoining properties, and here the additional income has been very large and more than sufficient to compensate for the low income received from high-priced properties.

The same way in London. Every sale in the city district there, the details of which become public, shows a considerable advance over the previous prices.

There is, however, a sharp distinction to be noticed in the advance in values between our suburban property and that of London. Districts in the suburbs of the English city advanced in value after the opening of the underground railway, from $2,500 an acre to as much as $25,000 an acre. These are outside figures, of course, but our suburban advance has not thus far begun to compare with that made in England.

The forces at work to advance values here are world-wide; New York has advanced more as a financial and world centre in the past ten years than in the preceding 50 years.

So I say that there is no security sold on any exchange in the world that is so safe and which has the chances for a prospective increase in value as New York real estate. I would estimate the average yearly increase in value at from six to ten per cent., so that we may safely say that the total yearly income from New York real estate is at least ten per cent. and may go as high as 20 per cent.

JEFFERSON M. LEVY.

Why Families Live in Hotels.

THE announcement that a score of families of the first social and financial magnitude, beside many others of less prominence, are to make the Plaza, New York's newest hotel, their permanent home, renews interest in a question that is puzzling the student of economics these later years. We seem here in New York to be approaching a homeless age. The trend of the times in the great cities, and especially in New York, appears to be toward the apartment style of living. Private residences —individual homes—are rapidly disappearing to make way for the erection of mammoth hotels or towering business blocks.

It is a fact that in this city the hotel is to-day the permanent home of thousands of luxury-loving people, many of whom are owners of palatial residences.

It is estimated that in the section bounded by Park avenue and Broadway, Thirty-fourth and Fifty-ninth streets, fully 25,000 people are living permanently in hotels where family suites command an annual rental of from $3,000 to $30,000. What are the conditions that have brought about this change? What are the inducements offered that can tempt owners of elegant homes in the most desirable sections of the city to quit them for an apartment in the Plaza or in any one of the great hotels for which New York is noted, and this not for the winter only, but for the entire year? Surely there must be some unusual attractions or advantages in this style of living, else such men as Alfred G. Vanderbilt, John W. Gates and George J. Gould, who are in a position to have the best the world affords, would not forsake their luxurious private residences for a seven or ten room suite in the new Plaza. Mr. Gates is said to pay $30,000 a year for his suite on the third floor of this great hotel. The others pay large rentals, but just how large is not known.

WHAT DO THEY GET FOR THEIR MONEY?

The Plaza housekeeping suites, which are fitted up and furnished entirely according to the individual tastes of those who are to occupy them, consist of the drawing-room, library, large dining-room and from two to seven sleeping-rooms, each with bath in connection, and two or more rooms for servants. Each room opens on a private hall running parallel to the public corridor.

Off the dining-room is a special service-room and butler's pantry, connected by an elaborate system of electrical dumb-waiters and pneumatic tubes with the main kitchen, which, by the way, is a marvel of its kind, where a hundred cooks, under two famous chefs, prepare the food. This service-room is supplied with an abundant outfit of crockery, silverware and linen, and has large plate and food warmers, and refrigerators fed with chilled air from the main plant in the basement. A floor butler and numerous assistants are in constant attendance, and act alone or in conjunction with the family servants when orders are given and food is served.

In the matter of heating and ventilation, quite often the weakest points in private-house construction, hotel apartments like those in the Plaza are perfectly equipped. They are supplied with filtered air, tempered to suit the season, which enters the room through concealed gratings. At the same time, the vitiated air is drawn from the room by powerful exhaust pumps, the whole system working very much the same as the lungs of an animal. The temperature is regulated by the occupant according to his pleasure by means of a little instrument known as the thermostat, which indicates exactly what the temperature in the room is. More than this, every modern convenience in the way of communication, local or distant, is here installed, together with every device which can in any way contribute to comfort as well as to the safety of person or property. Thus it will be seen that the hotel offers a service less troublesome and obtrusive and far more effective than can be secured under private house management, and gives entire exemption from the annoyances of a large force of servants and incompetent cooks, as well as the care and expense of heating and ventilation. But this is only a small part of what the dwellers in the Plaza Hotel get for their money.

MORE REAL PRIVACY.

Paradoxical as it may seem, there is more actual privacy and freedom from intrusion here than can possibly be had in a private residence. This is a most important consideration with people who are much in the public eye. While the dweller in such a hotel is assured the highest degree of privacy, he is also in a position to see, when he so desires, more of life than in the private residence. Here is an opportunity to meet men of prominence in the various walks of life, from far and

THE REALM OF BUILDING.

ABOUT FORTY-SEVEN MILLION DOLLARS less has been appropriated this year for new buildings and alterations in Manhattan and the Bronx than was set apart for the same purpose last year during the corresponding period up to the first week in October. We have planned for only ninety-three million dollars' worth of work, and ought to have planned for one hundred and forty million dollars' worth, to square the record with last year's. When compared with what was going on in 1905, the deficiency is larger still, as one hundred and forty-five million dollars' worth of work for the building trades of these two boroughs had been laid out up to this time of the year. But the record of 1907 is ten million ahead of 1904, which was the year following the great lockout and was the first year of the boom.

NINETEEN HUNDRED AND FIVE WAS THE BEST year, take it all through, that old New York City ever produced for her building trades; there was more work in hand and more real money for everybody than in any previous year in history. Some may ask if the building movement which attended and followed the opening of the elevated roads was not as busy a time—in proportion to population, if not in the grand aggregate? The answer is that in 1883 the whole city, as it then was, had planned up to this corresponding time of the year work amounting in estimated cost to only thirty-six million dollars; in the year 1884 for thirty-five million, and in the year 1884 only thirty-six million dollars' worth in new buildings, to compare with the sixty-three million dollars' worth of new buildings which our table of last week showed had been figured and passed before the Building Department in the Borough of Manhattan alone.

WAGES AND MATERIALS, DIVIDENDS AND PRICES, all corresponded, so that neither in the amount of work, as measured by the cost, nor in the net reward of labor to the individual, did the building movement of twenty-five years ago equal the present one. What the records say about the amount of building in 1905 stands for everything else in the same degree. It was a year of peace and good will between employers and journeymen; building costs were distributed widely over many trades; collections were as good as dealers had a right to expect, and money was never before so loose for speculative builders. Last year, 1906, was, by the record, about ten per cent. behind its predecessor up to this month, but was better than its published record, for it inherited an extraordinary amount of unfinished work. Of course, it would have been better if controlling circumstances had struck an average and maintained a mean level through the last five years—it would have been better for everybody if New York City had not started the whole world into a fast business gallop, for then production would not have been stretched into an oversupply, money rates would have kept pace, and we should not have had the gates lowered.

> Conflagrations do not dine on vegetable patches, seize upon fruit and shade trees, or extend themselves along garden hedges, any more than they can leap from cottage to cottage when these are widely separated, and guarded by an efficient fire department.

IN CINEMATOGRAPHIC FASHION ONE COULD RUN through the middle aisle of events in the building trades since that week in July of last year when the Hudson River brick market like the Darlington Hotel caved in on itself with—let us say a shriek, to change the metaphor. Prices sank till there seemed to be no bottom to touch, and nobody knew just what the reason was. The brick market is to the whole series of building trades what the iron market is to general business. Farmers used to say they could tell how much they were going to get for apples by scanning the iron quotations. As the Mortgage Tax Law was in force up to July 1, 1906, the difficulty which operators and speculative builders encountered in borrowing loans was attributed to its pernicious influences, and in some degree this law did operate to postpone a large amount of business; but when the law had been superseded by the more benign Recording Tax it was found that loanable funds were no more easily obtainable than before. These conditions continuing, business in all departments of construction and real estate has settled into its present state of mind and circumstances, which consists in waiting for money to become more accommodating, not only to the real estate and building interests, but to all lines of industry depending upon borrowed capital.

ONLY WHEN THE RECORDS OF PROJECTED WORK are compared does this year's business seem small, as the new and old work taken together have kept the times fairly good for both mechanics and dealers, and within a fortnight past there has been an actual revival of new construction. All materials are selling at about the same level as for months, and brick alone has shown wide variations. Good brick has averaged considerably above six dollars by the cargo afloat. Cement, lime, plaster, structural steel, hardwoods, plumbing and electrical supplies, and all the fundamental materials, have maintained practically the selling schedules with which they opened the season. BUT THERE ARE TENDENCIES setting toward lower prices, which are likely to become more pronounced as the works catch up and begin to overrun orders, as some have already. Weak spots are certain to appear. Vacancies in high-grade apartment houses have been multiplied by this week's moving, which foreshadow a shading of rentals and consequently of values. The outlines of the situation retain the form and shape they have had for a long period, and many authorities believe that they will continue to hold this general aspect until there is a return to normal monetary conditions.

EXTENSIONS OF THE FIRE LIMITS PROPOSED are less momentous as subjects of consideration with builders than with laymen who fear that changes will be made as proposed. Public sentiment in the Bronx is firmly against a change that would prohibit detached cottage construction, and should an arbitrary law be introduced this sentiment would probably be strong enough to prevent its enactment into the Building Code. A more likely proposition is to exclude further frame construction from the main avenues only and restrict it to those lateral streets which through personal choice and natural adaptation have been pitched upon as streets for private dwellings. If the people of this town want a part of it left where they can have homes with trees and grass around them, a stable for the pony or choo-choo wagon, a kennel for the bull-terrier and a corner for tomato vines such as we used to have at Father's, WHO IS GOING TO STAND UP AND BE COUNTED with the insurance corporations?

COTTAGE TOWNS ARE TEN TIMES LESS BURNABLE than tight-built brick cities. Flames cannot feed on grass lawns, hedges, flower-beds, peach and pear trees. They won't spread far among detached one-family houses in a city having an automatic fire alarm and a paid fire department. If our fire department cannot cope with the proposition, then it is inferior to any volunteer department in the State. We guarantee that the companies at Poughkeepsie, or Goshen, or Tuxedo, Waldwick, Nyack, or any one of a thousand cottage-built towns, would undertake the protection of the Bronx were it built of detached frame cottages. For years the real estate interests of the North Side have been striving to save that part of town from tenement-house construction, and here spring up the Underwriters, acting through their special representatives in the Building Code Revision Commission, declaring on this authority that the traditions of what American home life ought to be must be reversed.

ADVISE PEOPLE TO BUILD WITH STONE, BRICK OR concreté, but let them have the old Colonial styles in wood if they wish. One trouble is that speculative builders do not seem to well understand how to build a detached brick dwelling house inexpensively. Some can build frame things and others can turn out solid brick rows that look like rabbit-houses, by the mile; but NOT MANY ARE ACQUAINTED WITH THE LANGUAGE OF BRICK BUILDING well enough to express themselves fluently in separate dwellings. They can build from plans, oh yes, but houses done in brick cost them twenty-eight to fifty per cent. more than when done in wood. The difference is not so much in other cities, but on general principles brick construction is preferable; it provides a permanent home for generations to come; it costs less to repair and keep painted, and architecturally it can be made quite as handsome as a frame house and will stay so. What is handsomer than red pressed brick set in non-staining white mortar in a wide house having a hall and entrance in the center, tall white pillars for the porch in front, and a wide verandah at the side or in the rear? Or one like the picture of that house in Newark which was printed here last week. Save the West Bronx from tenements, save Flatbush and Bensonhurst and Sheepshead Bay, or building construction in those suburbs will be deadened for many years, and the tunnels won't be big enough to carry the people going to the Jerseys.

The Tall Buildings of New York.

CALVIN TOMKINS.

LOWER MANHATTAN ISLAND is the geographical and commercial centre of the territory about New York Harbor, situated in the states of New York and New Jersey which in the aggregate constitutes the Port of New York. The lateral limitations imposed upon Manhattan by the East and Hudson rivers make necessary the most intensive use possible of the lower part of the island for business purposes, so that the convenience of the entire district constituting the port may be properly served. If only low buildings shall hereafter be permitted, the most effective use of this central district by the outlying districts will be seriously interfered with and the economic development of the entire community will be held back. For these reasons the greatest freedom from burdensome building restrictions should be permitted in lower Manhattan, since the conditions there differ so materially from those which obtain in other large cities of the world. The prospective tunnel connections to New Jersey, Long Island and the Bronx will in the near future still further stimulate the construction of tall office buildings. It will be useless to attempt to pass city ordinances or State laws to counteract the inevitable action of economic laws which necessitate tall building construction. The problem should be not to attempt to prohibit but to regulate the conditions under which this class of buildings shall be erected, so that the most efficient service may be secured from them, and so that they shall not interfere with the public uses of the streets or with each other. It is apparent that unless these dangers are guarded against the streets will become narrow canyons difficult of passage, and the lower stories of the buildings themselves will be insufficiently provided with light and air. Thus it also becomes apparent that for the individual owner's interest, practices should be prevented which will have the tendency of diminishing the efficiency and value of the properties in which he is particularly interested.

A very general opinion in favor of additional municipal supervision has already arisen, but there seems to be uncertainty as to what can be done, and the only definite suggestion is that of arbitrarily limiting height. At the same time the impracticability of enacting or enforcing such an economic blue law is admitted even by many of those who advise it, and there exists a very general tendency on the part of architects, builders and owners to evade the responsibility for making any other precise suggestions.

The most important requisites for the future are air, light and room for passage in the streets. An adequate supply of air and light cannot be obtained if buildings shall continue to be run up along the street lines an indefinite number of stories. If, however, after a certain height shall be attained, which may vary in different parts of the city and for different street widths, tall buildings should be set back as they rise, presenting pyramidal instead of perpendicular elevations along the street fronts, these disadvantages would be overcome. For example, after a building shall have attained ten stories in height on the building line let the front and sides for the next five stories be set back ten feet and for the next five stories ten feet more and so on. If empowered to do so by the Legislature, the city could enforce this limitation as relates to the street facades, and it should also, if possible, both for public and private interest, enforce similar restrictions sideways. If it were practical to rebuild the city block by block instead of lot by lot, as is now the custom, the maximum efficiency of every plot of land could be obtained by this means, and in any event it is desirable that the laws of the State and the ordinances of the city should be evolved with a view to facilitating the block unit of development instead of the lot unit of development. The maximum height at the centre, together with the minimum public and private interference with light and air would thus be attained, a subsequent expensive rebuilding of the city would be obviated, and in the meantime the land and buildings would be utilized to the best possible advantage as regards floor space, light and air.

The importance of such reasonable legal restraint will not be arbitrary in its effect but will operate to effectuate the utilization of the larger plot (ultimately the block) on which the higher and more economical type of building can be erected. In short, extreme height in the middle of a block does not constitute a nuisance, but it does have this effect at the street line.

The greatest menace for the future is not obstruction of light and air, damaging as this will be, but actual lack of sufficient street room to accommodate the vast population which will be housed in these tall buildings. Even at the present time Nassau st and Exchange pl could not begin to accommodate the people who would come out of the adjacent structures in the event of an earthquake or some similar sudden calamity, and this danger of a panic crush will become more obvious as the congestion becomes more pronounced. The subway opportunities under the streets should be preserved with the greatest care so that they can be availed of to their fullest extent, and in the meantime as an immediate practical suggestion, all obstructions, such as hydrants, lamp-posts, letter-posts, show-cases, advertising signs, etc., should be removed from the street surfaces, leaving the passageway unimpeded from house line to house line. Cornices should be prohibited on tall buildings, as they tend needlessly to obstruct light and air. The architectural profession is presumably more at fault in this matter than are owners. Should existing cornices be sawed off along both sides of Exchange pl, the increase of light would at once be apparent. Stringent regulations regarding cornices and street obstructions should be promptly enacted and enforced by the city.

The fire risk incident due to tall buildings can be minimized by constructing such buildings of absolutely fireproof materials. Floors, trim, partitions and interior doors, as well as the window casings, should be constructed of metal, masonry or glass. Such buildings would not only be incombustible in themselves but would act as fire dams to prevent the spread of a general conflagration. As a matter of fact, both at San Francisco and at Baltimore the essentially fireproof tall buildings did have the effect of not only withstanding but of withholding the conflagrations in those cities. In addition to such a type of construction, every tall building should be compelled to maintain an adequate fire department of its own, and in localities where such buildings are numerous these separate units should be organized into block departments, under municipal supervision, to be availed of for the suppression of fires generally. In other words, since the city has outgrown the efficiency of a surface fire department it becomes imperative that an elevated fire service should be developed. It will be absurd to limit the vertical expansion of the city by the inadequacy of the present fire surface service.

The value of buildings is already taxed separately from the value of the land on which they stand. This in a general way is equivalent to a tax upon cubic capacity, but such a system of taxation does not prevent the erection of objectionable tall buildings, and would not have this effect unless cumulative in its action. It is also to be borne in mind that the tower building is frequently erected as an advertisement, cost being a secondary consideration, and as such its construction would not be deterred by a tax.

The city at the present time has not sufficient power to put into effect and enforce regulations such as those above indicated. Now that a revision of the building code and of the city charter is imminent, it is most important that careful attention should be given to the details of this important matter so that the growth of the city shall not be impeded, and for this purpose enabling legislation must be secured at Albany. The city will continue to grow skyward whether the ideas of its citizens do so or not, but its efficiency and beauty will be greatly marred if the significance of the present situation is not grasped and promptly acted upon. With the advent of every new skyscraper the situation is becoming more difficult of remedial treatment, and there will never be a more opportune time than the present to adapt the building regulations of the city to its unique and urgent requirements.

Novel Triple Houses on Washington Heights.

The three houses herewith illustrated are at the corner of Haven av and 169th st, on Washington Heights, on a plot 85x103. These houses were built by Mr. A. Wurzburger, of 142 5th av, as a gift to three of his children.

The architect, Herbert M. Baer, 542 5th av, has shown considerable ingenuity in making use of the peculiarities of the site. Because of the difference in level between Haven av and the building plot, the houses are but three stories on the Haven av side, whereas they are five stories in height on the west side overlooking Boulevard Lafayette and the Hudson River, with broad porches in the rear and stone steps leading down to a terrace.

Through the use of exterior courts, the staircases and bathrooms are well lighted. The entrance floor contains the living-hall, a coat closet, and a large library. The dining-room is on the floor below, under the library, with the pantry opposite the staircase, and the kitchen under the living-hall, lighted from both sides by the open courts forming the service entrances. The cellar, which is entirely above ground, contains a laundry, servants' bath, heating plant, coal bins, and store-room.

The top floor is arranged as a small apartment to be rented; the two lower stories are constructed of rubble masonry built of native stone; the upper stories of brick covered with stucco; the roofs are red French tile, and the heating is by steam.

Foreign Trade Opportunities.

(Inquiries in which addresses are omitted are on file at U. S. Bureau of Manufactures at Washington. In applying for addresses, refer to file number.)

No. 1476. School furniture.—An American consul in a Balkan country states that American exporters should be able to induce the Minister of Education there to purchase a considerable amount of modern furniture for the schools of the city in question. At present wooden benches, made by local carpenters, are used, and the blackboards, which are of primitive design, are also of domestic construction. One firm there, dealing in school supplies and furniture, would like to correspond in German with American manufacturers in regard to terms and prices.

No. 1477. Gas mantles.—One of the American consuls in the Levant writes that at present all the gas mantles used by the company supplying gas to the city in question are imported from England, France and Germany, and vary in price from 5 to 25 cents each, according to quality, inclusive of freight and duty. The officials of the gas company have expressed their willingness to also use mantles of American make, if the makers of them can compete in price.

No. 1478. Hardware.—An American consulate in the Ottoman Empire states in one of his communications that if American dealers in hardware will send their catalogues in triplicate to the consulate for filing it will see that they are brought to the attention of interested parties.

No. 1479. Oils.—A merchant in Bremen, Germany, writes to the Bureau of Manufactures that he would like to communicate with American producers or exporters of cotton-seed oil, cotton oil stearine, tallow, lard oil, maize (corn) oil, Newfoundland train oil, whale oil, and American menhaden (pogy) train oil.

No. 1480. Fire extinguishers.—An inquiry has been received at one of the American consulates in Asia Minor in regard to chemical fire extinguishers, such as hand grenades, etc. The consulate requests manufacturers of these appliances to send their catalogues in triplicate that they may be shown to interested inquirers.

No. 1483. Office devices.—The Bureau of Manufactures is in receipt of a request for the names of manufacturers of office devices, such as letter folding machines, pamphlet wrapping machines, machines for affixing postage stamps, etc. The inquirer desires to interest manufacturers in the exporting of these devices.

No. 1484. Builders' supplies.—Two firms of merchants in the West Indies request a special agent of the Department of Commerce and Labor to put them in communication with American manufacturers and exporters of builders' supplies, such as roofing materials, Portland cement, and builders' hardware.

No. 1487. Telephone eqipment.—(1) Bids will be received until October 23 by the Postmaster-General's Department, Sydney, New South Wales, Australia, to supply 11 tons galvanized iron wire (400 pounds per mile); 1,600 best white porcelain insulators, 500 wall telephones. (2) Bids will be received until October 30 to supply 55½ tons hard-drawn copper wire (300 pounds per mile); 400 pounds 3-16-inch wide copper binding tape (200 pounds per mile); 3,500 large, best white porcelain insulators; 1,000 tallow-wood cross-arms, 3 feet 10 inches, with end bolts and straps, complete; 2,500 of the same, 5 feet 2 inches. (3) Bids will be received until December 11 to supply 1,600 common battery wall telephones, 100 table telephones. Address for particulars, Commonwealth Offices, 72 Victoria st, Westminster, S. ## Why Families Live in Hotels.

near. This is a great advantage, nay, even a necessity to men of large affairs. Thus the hotel serves the double purpose of home and club. Many other advantages are to be had in such a hotel, but those mentioned are sufficient to show why, long before the doors of the Plaza opened to the public, the bookings of families for permanent occupancy showed a total rental of over $500,000 for a year.

It is not to be supposed that with all the wealth of attractions to persons of abundant means offered in this great hotel, that provisions for transient guests have been overlooked. Several floors have been fitted up to meet the requirements of this class and to satisfy them completely.

Without saying a word in disparagement of the many magnificent hotels built in this city in recent years, it may be safely asserted that this latest creation for public entertainment eclipses all others at home or abroad in many respects, as it exceeds them all in costliness. The sum of $12,500,000 is a good deal of money to put into a single structure of this kind, and such a vast outlay of money ought to produce unusual results—in construction, equipment and furnishings. The Plaza certainly has the most desirable location, and this feature is one not to be overlooked in enumerating the attractions of this 19-story palace of steel, marble and terra-cotta, to which the artists, workshops, mills and quarries of two continents have contributed. All these things and many others must be reckoned with when one attempts to find out the reason why so many people of wealth and refinement, with so wide a range from which to choose, are selecting this great hotel as an abiding-place.

The question naturally arises, what effect will the movement of families from private residence to the hotel suite have upon real estate values on Manhattan Island? Judging by the past there is little danger of a lowering of values. It has often been remarked that nothing short of a national calamity can cause a recession of land values in this favored territory, to the wealth of which the whole world is contributing. The steady and irresistible march of business up-town, which has already transformed what was only a few years ago the most select portion of the most fashionable residential thoroughfare in the city into a high-class retail shopping district, is certain to continue, and this will insure a steady appreciation in the price of real estate which, in many cases, is too costly now for residential purposes.

—On October 23 and 24, the U. S. Civil Service Commission will hold an examination to secure eligibles from which to make certification to fill a vacancy in the position of draftsman (male), qualified as inspector of construction, at $6 a day when actually employed, in the Immigration Service, Ellis Island, N. Y., and vacancies as they may occur in any branch of the service requiring similar qualifications. Applicants for this position must have had experience in the supervision of buildings under construction. Persons who have not had such experience will not be admitted to the examination.

Westchester County's Appeal to New Yorkers.

(With Illustrations.)

OF late years New Yorkers have come to realize that they have neglected one of the most wholesome and beautiful country neighborhoods in the vicinity of that city. Long Island, the Hudson River Valley and the hill country of New Jersey have all been occupied by several generations of well-to-do families from New York; but until recently the higher and equally beautiful country along the line of the Harlem Railroad beyond White Plains has not received the attention it deserved. Only within a few years have many estates in that vicinity of from fifty to several hundred acres been bought by New Yorkers, and used as sites for new and handsome houses; but this recent development has been very rapid, as there is every reason why it should be. The Architectural Record in the course of a description of the residence of Mr. Marshall Slade at Mount Kisco, agrees that the neighborhood is peculiarly adapted to the needs of a New York family, preferring a country residence near the city, and who want the advantages of a considerable elevation and beautiful landscape.

The character of this landscape may be inferred from one of the illustration in this paper of the house of Mr. Marshall Slade. The view looking over the parapet discloses an undulating country-side, neither soft nor rugged in its effect, finely and firmly moulded in its contours, and with pleasant alternations of woodland and field. The numerous small hills into which the countryside is distributed afford many attractive sites for houses; and on one of these hills the Slade residence is situated.

This particular hill is a fairly prominent one, and any house situated on its summit is conspicuous from many different points of view in the neighborhood. Before the house was built, the crown of the hill was covered with a thick growth of tall oaks, which had to be thinned out for the purpose of making it habitable, and which afterwards constituted an important condition of an effective design.

The architectural problem was to place on the hill a house which would look well at the considerable distances from which it was seen, which would hold its own in relation to the trees, and which at the same time would make the landscape appear at its best to the inhabitants of the house.

The house is entered by means of a hallway, panelled up to the ceiling in whitewood. To the right is the library, to the left the dining-room, while straight ahead and leading to the south terrace is the living-room. The living-room gives also upon an enclosed eastern porch which can be used as an outdoor dining-room; but its place in the plan is determined chiefly by its relation to the terrace on the south side. The treatment of this side of the building is very individual, and much of the success of the garden is due to its situation in relation to the house and to the view. The landscape looks best to the west and to the east. The trees consequently have been cleared so as to obtain for some distance a clear sweep in that direction. A brick terrace runs the whole length of the house, with the flower-beds immediately in front at a lower level, while beyond there is a large open space of green grass, enclosed by a parapet, and broken only by the remaining trees and a pool.

Kingston's New Building Law.

JAMAICAN CITY TO HAVE EARTHQUAKE AND FIRE-PROOF BUILDINGS.

Profiting by the experience in the earthquake and fire at Kingston, Jamaica, in January last, the new building law provides that in future, so far as possible, earthquake-proof and fire-resisting buildings only shall be erected. Some of the requirements are as follows:

The framework of buildings may be of steel, iron or wood, every member securely, rigidly, and durably connected with every contiguous member, and must be covered externally with hard, durable and fire-resisting material, securely attached to the framing at all points.

No timber-framed building shall contain more than two stories having an aggregate height of 25 ft., or have a cubical content exceeding 100,000 cu. ft., nor shall any timber-framed building be erected or used for any other than residential purposes. All members of a steel or iron framework of any building shall be of the same material, and no cast iron shall be used in any part thereof.

The walls of buildings may be constructed of brick, concrete, stone or other hard and incombustible material, and they must be built on a foundation of cement concrete. Walls built of brick, dressed stone or other similar material must be solidly put together with Portland cement mortar, and be reinforced by hoop or band iron not less than 1 inch wide and 1-20 of an inch thick. Walls of cement concrete shall be composed of Portland cement, clean sand, and clean broken brick or stone, and shall be reinforced by steel or iron bands, bars or wires. Roofs must be covered externally with hard, durable and incombustible material.

Iron and steel framing specially manufactured for the construction of buildings and Portland cement are exempted from duty until April 1, 1909.

Points on the Material Market.

Master painters as a rule do not use ready-mixed paints in their business. Such mixtures were originally intended to meet a demand from farmers or property owners who expected to do their own painting and were not well adapted to the requirements of the practical master painter. Conferences between a committee of the Paint Manufacturers' Association of the United States and several unofficial master painters have resulted in putting forth the following statement: "They unanimously reached the conclusion that it will be to the advantage of the master painter to have his products come to him, as nearly as practical necessities will permit, in the ready-for-use form; that is, in a condition to admit of easy manipulation and incorporation. On the other hand, it was agreed that for practical painters' use prepared paints as now known are not the ideal product. The paints finally offered will, therefore, probably be in a semi-paste form and will in all cases bear the formula on the label. It was also agreed that it is practicable and desirable to establish at regular periods leading combinations of colors for houses of varying character, and the combinations to be offered for the coming year were practically agreed upon."

The E. J. Johnson Company, manufacturer and dealer in roofing slate and slate blackboards, with offices at 38 Park row, this city, is furnishing all the roofing slate for the Singer Building, this city, noted for its 41-sty tower. Mr. Johnson's company is also furnishing the roofing slate for the John D. Rockefeller residence at Pocantico Hills, now in course of construction, of which Delano & Aldrich are the architects and the Thompson-Starrett Company builders. The slate used in the latter building is a specially thick unfading green, one-quarter inch in thickness and specially quarried for it at the E. J. Johnson Company's unfading green quarries at Poultney, Vt. These are but two of many important buildings recently covered with the E. J. Johnson Company's "Out of the Ordinary" roofing slate.

For the first time in the history of the white cedar shingle business, represented by the mills in Maine and the Eastern Provinces, the New York market has for 30 or 60 days been taking on a supply of this class of product, the current wholesale price being about $4.25 for extras, which is from 15 to 25 cents over the present price delivered in Boston. These shingles are of white cedar sawed almost invariably to random widths and 16 inches in length, some being cut with as thin butts as 6 to 2 inches, while the thickest butts measure 5 to 2¼ inches. They are cut in Northern Maine, Quebec and New Brunswick, and are graded as extras, clears, second clears, saps and extra "ones." They are the standard shingle throughout the New England territory east of the Connecticut River, but have never made an opening this side of that river.

The cost of concrete piles as compared to that of wood piles was brought out in a striking manner during the erection of the new buildings of the United States Naval Academy, at Annapolis, Md. The original plans called for wood piles, but as the allotment made for the various buildings had been exceeded, it was found necessary to reduce the costs wherever possible. Calculations showed that by using concrete piles a saving of over $27,000, or more than 50 per cent. of the cost of wood piles, could be effected. As a result the concrete piles were selected. The various factors which tended toward the economy resulting from the substitution of concrete piles are thus stated by Walter R. Harper, inspector in charge of the work: "2,193 wood piles were replaced by 885 Raymond concrete piles; 4,543 yards of excavation were reduced to 1,038 yards, saving 3,504 yards; and 3,250 yards of concrete footing were reduced to 986 yards, thus saving 2,264 yards. Shoring and pumping, which would have cost $4,000 had wood piles been used, was entirely eliminated." This indicates in a measure the means by which foundation costs were reduced as stated.

The advance in prices in many items entering into the production of wall paper has necessarily resulted in a higher range of values for the finished article. But all agree that this is an advantage to the trade rather than otherwise, because low prices for wall paper invariably lead the customer to demand lower prices from the decorator for his work, while if the latter is compelled to pay more for the materials entering into the scheme of decoration he is justified in adding considerably more than the advanced cost of the material to his bill. Taken all in all, the large business done by the manufacturers and the advance in prices is an indication of a successful season ahead for the retail wall paper dealers and decorators.

The diminished number of building operations still continues the main feature in the hardware market, and demand for builders' hardware is of very small proportions. The stringency in the money market hinders jobbers from replenishing their stocks as completely as they desire, and while some lines are still in heavy demand, the bulk of the business is of a routine jobbing character, and confined to small lots for immediate delivery.

New business in cut nails continues of small proportions. The expected advance in price, which should have followed than in wire nails, has failed to materialize, which has been a source of surprise to the trade.

The wall paper show of this year demonstrated beyond question that the products of our American factories are not a bit inferior to the papers from foreign wall paper factories of the same grade, either in design or coloring, while the larger runs of the American factories make it possible for them to produce

Particulars of Hotel Astor Improvements.

TIMES SQUARE.—Actual work is soon to be started for enlarging the accommodations of the Hotel Astor, in Times Square, built less than three years ago. The hotel now covers a plot in the westerly block in Times Square, between 44th and 45th sts, of 200x160 ft. To this it is proposed to add 100 ft. in both streets, increasing the plot to 200x260 ft. William Waldorf Astor is the owner. The present structure cost to erect, exclusive of the value of the ground, nearly $5,000,000, so that the new addition will represent an investment of approximately another $3,000,000, or $8,000,000. Messrs. Clinton & Russell, 32 Nassau st, are the architects. About a year ago it was also reported that William Waldorf Astor would at a future date erect in Times square another hotel, to cover the westerly block front from 43d to 44th sts, immediately south, but no plans for this improvement have yet been drawn. (See also issue Aug. 25, 1906.)

Possibly Another Department Store for Sixth Avenue.

6TH AV.—It is reported in building and real estate circles that another large dry goods store building is contemplated, to be erected on a plot at the southwest corner of 6th av and 32d st, immediately south of the new proposed uptown terminal building of the Hudson and Manhattan Railroad Company, which is to cover the Sixth Avenue block front between 32d and 33d sts, in Greeley Square. The corner is now covered with 3 and 4-sty brick stores and tenements, and a 3-sty brick mission building in the street. The Record and Guide was also informed that the Hoffman estate would make the improvement, but at their office on Thursday it was learned that if such a building is erected, it will not be by the Hoffman estate, but by the lessees and tenants themselves.

—The latest word in building fashions is one fraught with the saddest woe. The foyer hall, it appears, must go, and for the very good and practical reason that it is not suited to courting uses! The old-fashioned parlor has its advantages when there are daughters in the family.

BUILDING NOTES

Let us save a part of the city for real homes.

We know of a firm in need of the services of a traveling salesman. See Wants and Offers.

When the Building Code Revision Commission gets all through property owners will have something to say.

Mr. Frederick L. Smith has opened an office at No. 5 Beekman st, as an engineer and specialist in structural steel and reinforced concrete.

The Board of Estimate has appropriated $25,000 for the preparation of plans for a municipal building at the Manhattan end of the Brooklyn Bridge.

Kinnear pressed radiators have been adopted exclusively for the immense 41-sty Singer Building. Mr. Ernest Flagg, the architect, selected this product after an exhaustive test. Kinnear pressed radiators met every requirement for efficiency and durability, yet possessed the essential factors for relieving a weight in the tower alone of over one hundred tons and affording a saving in space of 40%.

Suit was brought recently by the United Engineering and Contracting Company in the Supreme Court, through Kellogg & Rose, of No. 115 Broadway, against the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad Company to recover $277,596.97, with interest from June 12, 1906. One cause of action is alleged failure to remove obstructions, interference by increasing train service, taking possession of the site of the work and preventing its performance, all in the sum of $225,095.64.

Mr. Calvin Tomkins has offered at the Board of Trade & Transportation, the following resolution: "That the continued construction of tall buildings in this city without adequate provision for access of air and light to the public streets and adjacent private properties, and without provision for a more intensive use of the streets, which should naturally follow the more intensive use of the lands abutting upon them, and without provision for such additional fire protection as is made necessary by radically changed conditions—constitutes a menace to the continuous successful development of the city, and should no longer be permitted." The resolution was referred to a committee, by the Chair, with instructions to report specific recommendations for betterment at a subsequent meeting of the Board.

Review of the Week.

LEASING was the feature of the week just past. Several big leases were closed both in the business and residential sections of the city. On upper 5th av a dwelling was rented for one year for $35,000. The Liberty Building in West st was leased for a term of 42 years for about $500,000, while in West 14th st an uncompleted building brought a gross rental of $300,000. Added to these are a number of smaller leases for dwelling purposes for short terms—one to five years.

The sales market has been dull and uninteresting. Private dwellings, of the middle class, have changed hands, but nothing of importance to show the trend of prices has taken place.

There is a war being waged in the realty field, without either side realizing that such a condition exists. On one side, the holder of property, who takes the position that possession is nine-tenths of the conflict, and that if anybody wants his property worse than he does, he has the privilege of taking it away from him, but only on his terms. The other side represents the investor, who is playing a waiting game, in the hope of tiring the present possessor out. He feels that by waiting long enough the owner will capitulate. The odd man in this conflict is the mortgagee, who is quietly waiting to see which way the cat jumps, and ready at all times to step in and protect his interests.

Similar battles are of daily occurrence in Wall Street, but as applied to the real estate market they only happen when a turn in the tide is near. The holder of property in this city has had nearly all the advantage for a hundred years and more. Prices have steadily advanced, with the exception of a few short periods when a temporary reaction set in, but in nearly every case the lowering of prices was entirely due to some outside influence, and they speedily recovered the ground lost.

While the volume of business transacted last week was small, still brokers feel a little encouraged on account of the number of answers received from their advertisements. It shows a disposition on the part of prospective purchasers at least to make inquiries about realty, which is the first step toward an active market. The money market is still the predominating feature, and there is really no change in its condition, though there is a more cheerful feeling and it is thought by men who make this feature of the realty market a study that before very long there will be a change for the better.

Lenders of money for building purposes are more careful than ever, who they lend to, and the amount granted is well within bounds. A bonus of one sort or another is the rule at present. This is done to discourage more building, for in their opinion there has been an overproduction, and the class of buildings that have been erected during the last nine months is not to their liking. In the Bronx, for instance, where builders were in the habit of constructing 5-story apartment houses, the height has been reduced to four and in a large number of cases to three stories. This class of building does not help the neighborhood permanently, the result being, that adjoining property owners are having considerable difficulty in placing loans, while under ordinary conditions it would be a comparatively simple matter.

The total number of sales reported for the week is 48, of which 11 were below 59th st, 25 above, and 12 in the Bronx.

THE AUCTION MARKET

The increased attendance at the auction offerings during the week was doubtless due to a prevailing opinion that some of the parcels would likely be struck off at sacrifice figures. Those who were attracted to the salesroom with any such idea were doomed to disappointment, for nearly all the parcels that were sold brought fair market prices. This is particularly encouraging just now, as it will aid to a better feeling with respect to the maintenance of the present level of values.

On Monday Joseph P. Day sold in foreclosure 239 East 106th st, a 4-sty brick tenement 25x100.11 feet, for $16,600, to Alwin Ahnert. He also sold a plot 71x114 and irregular on the north side of 222d st, near 4th av, to F. Pisecki for $3,400. On Wednesday Mr. Day struck off to George Schuster on a bid of $24,000 the 5-sty brick tenement at 101 East 100th st, 26x75, which is considered a fair price. He also sold 2170 to 2184 Lexington av, 199.10x80, four 6-sty brick tenements with stores. The plaintiff, A. M. Hirsch, secured the parcel on a bid of $263,900.

In point of numbers the attendance on Thursday resembled an old-time gathering and the bidding was spirited. At the stand of Joseph P. Day the well known Hotel Severance, at the southeast cor of Broadway and 94th st, was struck off to the plaintiff, M. D. Fink, on a bid of $270,952. Among other parcels a plot of 6 lots on the east side of Boscobel av, extending through to Cromwell av, 270 ft. north of 169th st, brought the round sum of $5,300, the purchaser being E. Osborne Smith. A parcel at 109 Lewis st, 20x100, a 5-sty tenement, was struck off to Mary Weiser for $18,050, and a 4-sty brownstone dwelling, 18x45x irregular, at 158 West 35th st, found a purchaser in A. B. Tobin at $37,000. At the stand of Samuel Goldsticker Daniel Hamburger paid $34,500 for a vacant plot, 150x73, on the south side of 176th st, 100 feet west of Audubon av.

Cheap Rents in the Bronx.

NOTWITHSTANDING that many East Side families are moving to the Bronx this fall, many apartments are still vacant in that borough. While the reason for so many vacancies is undoubtedly due to the overproduction of middle class flats during 1905 and 1906, it cannot be denied that it is operating to the avantage of tenants, who are at present able to secure apartments at greatly reduced rates as compared with last year. This does not apply to the higher grade of apartment buildings, especially those provided with passenger elevators. Apartments of this type are a pronounced success in the Bronx. One of the first elevator apartments to be erected in that zone—the Manhanset—is situated at the intersection of Prospect, Longwood and Westchester avs. Practically all of the apartments in that structure were rented by Sept. 1. This is an evidence, contrary to a general opinion, that there are many people in these parts able and willing to pay substantial rents for high-grade apartments, and in spite of the fact that concessions are now being made to secure tenants for the cheaper flats.

New York's Moving Week.

OCTOBER FIRST is designated as a semi-annual moving day in Greater New York, but as a matter of fact the moving period starts some days before and does not close until well on toward the fifteenth of the month, and even after that date one will be able to see the van men moving the delinquents.

What is the reason for this shifting around in homes? Why are people not satisfied to stay for any length of time in one place? The explanation as given by several brokers is that families are forced out by conditions that arise from time to time. Business is continually on the northward march, and where ten years ago one could rent a dwelling for a moderate sum, now the house is either torn down and an apartment or a business building stands in its place, or the rent has reached such figures that it is beyond the means of the former occupant.

Another reason for moving of the tenant family is the additional cost of living. For several years the cost of the necessaries of life have gradually increased; meat, bread, eggs, flour and almost everything that you can think of—are more expensive than in former years, and the time has come for many householders to retrench. Naturally the rent that is paid for the home is the first item to be reduced, or if not reduced, at least no more expense in the form of rent must be added, so when the landlord raises the rents of his apartment house a good percentage of his tenants move, either to better themselves financially by having cheaper rent, or at least get an apartment somewhere for the former price. In many instances the tenant must content himself with a smaller flat or one whose rooms are smaller.

Undoubtedly there are more vacancies on the West Side, say from 68th to 116th st, than for several years past. These are mostly confined to apartments renting at over $1,200 a year, while at this time last year there were comparatively few vacancies. The additional building that has been going on during the past twelve months gives the tenant many places to choose from, and he is not willing to take anything or everything offered, as in former years. There are tenants who are staying out of town later than usual, for they think that by waiting they may be able to get some reduction in rent. Should one of this class desire an expensive apartment he certainly can find one to suit him, but on the other hand, if his means compel him to rent an apartment of moderate cost, he will have hard work to be satisfied, as they are pretty well taken up.

Many families are moving out of apartment hotels into housekeeping apartments, as they are tired of living in two or three rooms, and besides, they usually have some furniture in the storehouse and are tired paying storage rates. But there seems to be plenty of families to take their places, who are willing to give up the care and strain of keeping house if only for a short period.

When the apartment hotel was first built, about five years ago, the proprietors were stiff on their prices, and demanded yearly leases only. Times have changed. Those who live in that class of a house generally stay only for a comparatively short space of time—a few months. It is cheaper than a large hotel, and more comfortable in many respects. They are not so handsomely furnished, neither is the service so good, but the rooms are larger, and while it is possible to get three rooms and bath in an apartment hotel for from $66 to $110 a month, they would be more expensive in a hotel for transients.

There is very little moving in the down-town section at this time of year. The lawyers seem to think that the first of May is the proper time, anyway that is the time that their leases usually expire, while the merchants' leases are dated from the first of February.

On the West Side, the number of vans that one sees in the streets is certainly astonishing, and the wonder is, where they all come from. There is hardly a block where one or more of them are not backed up to some house either loading or unloading the furniture of some mover, and the storage warehouses are packed to their capacity. The prices demanded by van men range from $12 to $35 a load, according to the distance hauled and the day on which the hauling is done. Of course, in a few days the price will go down, but the excessive demand will have diminished accordingly.

In the middle section of Harlem, north of Central Park, while considerable moving is going on, real estate agents declare that there is no perceptible increase in this direction when compared with the corresponding period in 1906. Of the several grades it is said that the elevator apartments are best tenanted, the lessees in the majority of instances having renewed their contracts rather than submit to the expense and inconvenience consequent upon a change of abode. Several of the newly completed elevator apartments, such as "Temple Hall," at Lenox av and 121st st, are fully occupied and a few have waiting lists.

In canvassing the subject Mr. A. V. Amy, of A. V. Amy & Co., 7th av and 115th st, remarked that he found the situation much the same in his locality. He also affirmed that the middle class of flats are well rented, but that there had been no increase in rentals over last season.

Mr. J. A. Goodwin, of Goodwin & Goodwin, 8th av and 121st st, said that while many moving vans are rolling through the streets of Harlem just now, large numbers are coming from the suburban districts. In this connection it may be said that some of the van companies report more families moving in from the country this fall than last year. Many of the recent arrivals have rented apartments in the new law houses, although a few are storing their furniture for the winter.

In West 133d st, a new law building which was only partly occupied last month is now almost fully tenanted by families who have been spending the summer months in the suburbs. Apartments in the building in question containing four and five rooms rent on an average for about $5.50 per room. Seven and eight-room non-elevator apartments are at a premium in Harlem and bring from about $45 to $60 per month. The cheaper grade of flats bring about $18, a large number of which are vacant at the present time.

Real estate agents on the East Side say that there is a tendency on the part of flat dwellers in that quarter to move over in the Bronx owing to the large concessions offered. It can also be said that there are many removals from the lower East Side to points in Williamsburg and Brownsville, although the exodus does not exceed that of last fall.

Single Representation.

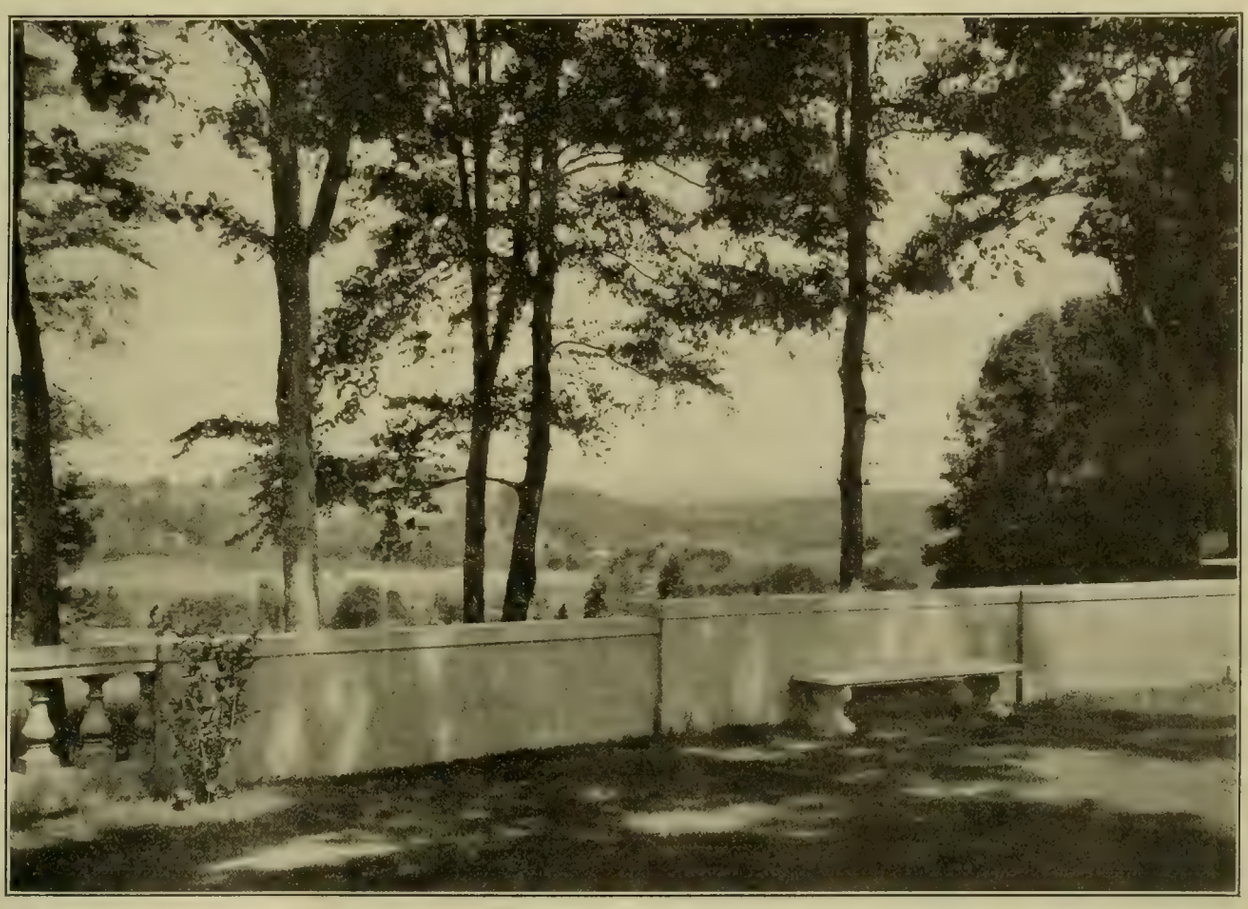
We remember Leonard J. Carpenter twenty-five years ago taking strong ground against the system of multiple representation in selling real estate. He used to say that "the owner's relationship to his representative is of a delicate nature and he is in duty bound not to treat it lightly." A letter which Mr. Carpenter wrote to the Record & Guide in 1885 contained these sentiments:

A representative following carefully his instructions has a right to expect his acts in strict conformity therewith to be ratified and his services compensated, but how often differences arise just here, and why? Can the owner keep in mind all the instructions he has given to a multitude of representatives, who also apply from time to time for further directions to meet their particular negotiations, and these applications often in moments of pressing business. No memory is equal to it, and the result is serious misunderstanding, as can be only too fully verified by reference to the court records.



How frequently will two representatives conducting negotiations unconsciously conflict and both fail, and now and then a party thinking himself unusually shrewd will negotiate in turn with two or more representatives to see if with any he can make better terms. Finally he buys. All the representatives, unconscious of the labors of others, make a claim for the commission, as all have aided in the matter and have acted in good faith. It is then that the owner realizes that there is ever multiplying obligations in the disposal of real estate. I am sorry to say some thoughtless owners immediately denounce the brokers, instead of the system of multiple representation in which they have seen fit to indulge.

Ineffectual as the plea for single representation has been in New York, in other cities where offerings of real estate have been attended with quite as much dignity as here—in the older towns—single representation is still the rule, and the exception is liable to bring embarrassment. The huge size of New York is one excuse for our unceremonious manners, and, really, those who are to blame for what is unpleasant in latter-day driving methods are those who have reason to complain the most—the agents and brokers. When it becomes the practice with some to send a boy out with a wagon-load of signs to nail up wherever he finds another agent's, the limits of genuine "enterprise" have been reached. There is such a thing as pursuing business too earnestly, too frantically, so that it flies from you.

The ideal real estate office is one into which business naturally flows from long habit and confidence, and does not have to be too anxiously sought for in the highways and byways. The fathers had this idea, and seemed to know better than we how to make their brains save their legs. A business into which nothing comes naturally and where every day's work is a dead lift, which sinks the minute the props are taken from under, having no sustaining power of its own, is a hard one to carry on.

Work of the Torrens Commission.

At an executive session of the New York State Commission to investigate the Torrens system of registering land titles, held at its permanent headquarters, Room 54, 55 Liberty st, in this city, yesterday, it was decided to hold a public hearing "on facts and arguments for and against registration of titles to real property and State guaranty of the same," on Friday, Oct. 11, 1907, at 1:30 o'clock P. M., in the chamber of the Board of Aldermen, at the City Hall, Manhattan.

Mt. Kisco, N. Y. GARDEN OF MR. MARSHALL SLADE—THE WEST VIEW. Chas. A. Platt, Architect.

The Commission cordially invites all persons interested in the question of title registration and State guaranty thereof to be present at this meeting and to present whatever facts and arguments they may have for or against. In order to systematize the work of the Commission, all persons desirious of being heard are requested to send written notice to the secretary, R. Winthrop Weston, at 55 Liberty st, Manhattan, in advance of the hearing.

The Commission also requests each person intending to appear before it to be prepared to submit a written brief or statement, setting forth the points and facts which it is desired to present.

The Commission has been divided into two committees, one headed by Prof. A. G. Reeves, of the New York Law School, chairman, is considering the system as adopted in foreign countries as well as in the various States and in Canada. The other committee, headed by G. W. Thompson, Deputy Registrar of Kings County, is looking into the present methods as adopted in New York State, with a view to finding out the cost not only to the community, but to the individual members thereof.

The Commission seems to be composed of workers, as is shown by the full attendance at the various meetings and the time spent in considering the subjects brought to their attention.

They seem to be particularly anxious at this time to receive suggestions and ideas as to the feasibility of adopting a new method, and would appreciate suggestions addressed to the secretary, Mr. R. Winthrop Weston, 55 Liberty st.

Marketing Real Estate.

"HOW can I best get a market for my holdings? I want to sell, but do not know just the best way to get satisfactory results." This is a question often asked by small owners of real estate.

Practically there are two ways only to have your property brought properly to the notice of the buying public; advertise it or place it with one or more good, live real estate brokers.

The latter is certainly the most popular way, but if the owner wants to advertise it also, let the broker do it, for that is part of his business. He is experienced and knows how to do it in the most effective manner. The question arises, should a house be put in the hands of numerous brokers or should one firm have, exclusively, the handling of the sale? Many real estate men think the latter way is the best, because if the broker understands that he has exclusively the right to sell, he will use his best endeavors to do so. He will have the property constantly in mind and not allow it to be forgotten among hundreds of others that he has somewhere on his books.

The owner should secure some good reliable broker who makes a specialty of the kind of property that is for sale, and give him to understand that he is in sole control of the negotiations and map out a campaign, as to advertising, etc. The owner by doing this will save himself a great deal of trouble, for communications from other brokers can be turned over to the man in charge of the property, which saves the principal much annoyance.

An arrangement might be made with the broker to protect others who may help effect the sale, but this depends on the particular case, and no general rule can be laid down as satisfactory and infallible. One of the great troubles that a broker encounters in a sale is that he cannot depend on the price given him by the owner. The latter will ask a certain amount and every one concerned knows that the figures and terms are tentative, and just what will buy it is an entirely unknown quantity.

It is to be regretted that the real estate business is not conducted on the "one price" basis. One would not think of going into a big department store and after being told the cost of a certain piece of silk, make a smaller offer than the amount asked. Of course, the condition exists that there is a bid and asked price in the realty market, but it would certainly be interesting to have the "one price" idea tried at least. After all, if the broker were made to understand that the owner will not accept less than a certain amount, and then the owner stood by his word, it would hasten the consummation of a sale and be more satisfactory to all parties concerned.

It can be understood readily that a broker wishes to get all he can for a certain piece of property, as the larger the sum, the larger his commission. But he is anxious to consummate the deal and has a fear that the owner may "go behind his back" and either deal direct or through another broker, the result being that he does his best to get buyer and seller to agree on terms and get his commission, whatever it may net him.

The Record and Guide in its issue of Sept. 7, published a form of contract between broker and seller, which is used by several well known houses and has worked out satisfactorily. Usually the property owner figures that "if I give my property to different brokers, I shall have far better chance of selling it, as I shall have many men working for me and one of them may make the sale where another may fail."

A prominent real estate man said in reference to this:

"If a purchaser goes to a real estate office and a house is offered to him he will immediately go to other brokers' offices in the neighborhood and see if the house is for sale by them. If this same property is offered to him several times, he asks himself, 'What is the matter with this house? Is there anything radically wrong with it, or is the owner very hard up for ready money? If I hold off, won't I get it cheaper?' The net result is, the house is cheapened in his estimation by its having been peddled around.

This real estate man believes the way to do is to let one broker have charge of it, and advertise it judiciously in papers that are read by the real estate public. Remember, brokers read real estate advertisements, and if they think that a piece of property offered will interest one of their customers, the owner may be sure that either he or the broker will be communicated with immediately. If it is inserted in the advertisement that this particular broker has sole charge of the sale, the seller will be saved some correspondence.

Professional operators and speculators usually send their holdings to all brokers, but then conditions are somewhat different. Practically all their ownings are for sale under several conditions, viz., cash sale, trade, sale with a generous mortgage or sale with a building loan. Usually there is also the long term leasing feature attached to the speculators' holdings which the average owner cannot afford. He must have cash, with the result that the class of purchasers for his property is limited. Real estate in all its branches is the sole business of the operator, while the small holder has other matters to occupy his mind and cannot devote the time and care to his realty that it requires.

The most satisfactory results will be had, if the seller lets a good reliable broker manage the sale for him, and owner and broker will get the best results if the latter has exclusively the sale of the property.

The costs of the necessaries of life are mounting. Mayor McClellan speaks of mandatory increases in appropriations. The amount is about $6,000,000, and an additional $2,000,000, which about covers the additional cost of food products for the city departments, such as Departments of Correction, Charities, Bellevue and Allied Hospitals.

The Board of Estimate and Apportionment has designated Friday, Oct. 11, 1907, at 10:30 a. m., in room 16, City Hall, Borough of Manhattan, as the time and place for a public hearing in relation to the budget for 1908. Taxpayers are invited to appear and be heard on that date in regard to appropriations to be made and included in the budget.

How to Get Tax Bills Promptly.

Taxpayers who desire to obtain their bills promptly should make immediate written requisition (blanks may be procured in the borough offices), stating their property by section or ward, block and lot or map number, making copy of same from their bills of last year.

If a taxpayer is assessed for personal tax, the requisition should also request bill for such tax. Each requisition should be accompanied by an envelope bearing the proper address of the applicant, and with return postage prepaid.

In case of any doubt in regard to ward, section, block or lot number, taxpayers should take their deeds to the Department of Taxes and Assessments and have their property located on the maps of that department, and forward to the Deputy Receiver of Taxes, with the requisition, a certified memorandum of their property, which will be furnished by the Department of Taxes and Assessments.

Taxpayers in this manner will receive their bills returned by mail at the earliest possible moment, and avoid any delay caused by waiting.

Change of Grade Damage Commission in Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth Wards.

Pursuant to the provisions of chapter 537 of the Laws of 1893 and the Acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto, notice is being given that meetings of the Commissioners appointed under said Acts will be held at the office of the Commission, room 138, No. 280 Broadway (Stewart Building), Borough of Manhattan, New York City, on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays of each week, at 2 o'clock p. m., until further notice. The commissioners are William E. Stillings, George C. Norton, Oscar S. Bailey. Lamont McLoughlin, Clerk.

More Three-story Houses Needed.

The inquiry for private dwellings to rent in Harlem continues unabated. In fact, it has never been greater than at present. When it is considered that nearly all the building within a few years has been confined to apartments, one can readily understand why there should be a dearth of dwellings at this time. In commenting on the situation, a prominent broker in 125th st said that the scarcity is chiefly among the small 3-sty houses which command rentals of from $1,000 to $1,200 per annum.

A Break in Prices Unlikely.

Mr. Albert B. Ashforth, of 4 West 33d st, Manhattan, takes an optimistic view of the realty outlook. He said in part that although trading is admittedly dull the fact that owners in the majority of instances are unwilling to grant concessions, mainly, of course, because few are obliged to sell, plainly indicates that a break in prices is unlikely. When mortgage money becomes easier to procure, and at lower rates, activity in realty negotiations will quickly follow, he affirmed.

PROPERTY OWNERS' SECTION.

The Budget of 1908.

A letter from Comptroller Metz in reply to Mr. Allan Robinson's asking for certain information, of interest to property owners, is printed herewith in full. As Mr. Metz replies to the questions in the order in which they were set forth in Mr. Robinson's letter, the Record and Guide reprints that portion:

> (1) What date has been set for the final action on the 1908 budget? (2) What date or dates have been set for taxpayers to appear before the Board of Estimate and Apportionment? (3) Will the budget for 1908 be submitted in the form provided for in the resolution of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment of October, 1906? (4) Has the "horizontal cut" been positively abandoned; and will it be possible this year for one department's requests to be considered on the merits of the case presented by that department without regard to the percentage of increase granted to some other department whose needs are not so urgent from the point of view of the city at large? (5) Will it be possible to obtain in advance of public hearings your recommendations as to increase in allowances? (6) Will it be possible to obtain a list of requests for increases which you refuse to recommend? (7) Will it be possible to obtain a statement showing how far salary increases are due to an increase in the salaries of present officials, and how far due to requirements growing out of additional employees? (8) What revenues due the city are not now collected?

Allan Robinson, Esq.,
President, Allied Real Estate Interests.

Dear Sir: I beg to acknowledge receipt of your favor of Sept. 23, in which you ask for certain information bearing upon the budget of the city of New York for the year 1908. Before replying in detail I beg to say that it is very gratifying to me that your association and taxpayers in general should ask for information and show a desire to get an intelligent understanding of the methods employed in preparing and voting the municipal budget.

Such support on the part of taxpayers in carrying out the very difficult task of producing a properly segregated budget for every city department will do much to increase the at present very limited facilities of the new Bureau of Municipal Investigation and Statistics, recently organized in this department, and upon which the burden of the work necessarily precedent to preparing departmental budgets segregated along lines of function has fallen.

Some of your queries cannot be answered in detail at this time. I have, however, requested Mr. Hervey, the head of the Bureau of Municipal Investigation and Statistics, to report to me such information as he now possesses which bears upon your inquiries, and I shall be glad to report further in the near future.

In replying to your questions I shall take them up in the order in which they are set forth in your letter.

1. No date has been fixed for final discussion on the budget by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. After the budget has passed the Board of Estimate and Apportionment it goes to the Board of Aldermen to be acted upon by that body. The budget of 1907 was finally adopted Oct. 30, 1906. Under Section 226 of the Charter the Board of Estimate is required to make a budget for the city for the ensuing year between the first day of October and the first day of November, which, within five days, must be transmitted to the Board of Aldermen for its action, the Board of Aldermen not being permitted to deliberate on the same for a longer period than twenty days. The Board of Aldermen may reduce certain items in the budget as prepared by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, subject, however, to the veto of the Mayor, unless overridden by a three-fourths vote of the Board of Aldermen. The law further provides that the budget for the ensuing year must be filed in the office of the Comptroller and published in the City Record on or before Dec. 31.

2. The best answer to this inquiry is to send you herewith a schedule of the hearings arranged for by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment on the various departmental budgets. At these hearings the heads of departments appear and present their arguments in advocacy of requests made in their departmental estimates. These hearings are open to the public, but not to discussion on the part of the public; a separate day, Friday, Oct. 11, being fixed for a public hearing of the taxpayers, as noted in the circular.

3. The great volume of detailed work required to properly segregate the various lines of expenditure of the several departments in order to set up their budgets on the basis contemplated in the resolutions adopted last year, and the limited force available for the work at my disposal, has made it impossible to segregate fully the budgets of every department. A committee consisting of Assistant Deputy Comptroller Smith, Chief Bookkeeper Frank Smith, Messrs. Hervey and McIntyre of the Bureau of Municipal Investigation and Statistics, and Messrs. MacInnes, Chapman and McCarthy, expert accountants, representing the Department of Finance, have been co-operating with Messrs. Bruere, Cleveland and Patterson, representing the Bureau of Municipal Research, on this work and have prepared segregated budgets for the Departments of Health, Street Cleaning, Water, Gas and Electricity, Parks, Bellevue and Allied Hospitals, Board of City Record, Commissioners of Accounts and the Mayor's office.

If we succeed in securing adequate support for the work of the new bureau of Municipal Investigation and Statistics in the coming year, we hope to have prepared segregated budgets for all departments before the budget for 1909 is acted on. We are also working on a plan to reorganize the accounts of those departments whose budgets will be segregated to facilitate the production of necessary information in the future.

4. In reply to your inquiry as to what you call "the horizontal cut" and as to whether "one department's request would be considered on the merits of the case without regard to the percentage of increase granted to some other department," etc., I beg to say that the use of the term "horizontal cut" does not fairly describe the procedure in the recent past in fixing the departmental allowance.

A year ago I caused examinations to be made of all the departmental estimates with a view of determining the allowances which should justly be made to the departments. These examinations were made by Mr. Hervey and his staff. Most of the recommendations of this department regarding last year's budget received consideration, and in many instances determined the figures allowed. It is not possible to grant an allowance for one department absolutely without regard to the increased allowance which is to be accorded to the city at large. There must be a maximum amount of increase approximately decided upon before additional budget allowances are granted. It has then been the custom in the past to grant those added allowances to the departments most needing them.

5. The recommendations as to increase in allowances from this department are made to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, and it would be improper to make them public before they are submitted to the Board for its consideration. A condition might very easily arise where 100 organizations might have different views on the subject. It would not be improbable to have 100 organizations in the various parts of the city ask for copies, each of them having different views on the subject, and desiring to make suggestions in regard to it. What this would lead to can readily be imagined. After the reports are made to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, it has hitherto been the practice to hold public hearings before definite action has been taken upon even tentative recommendations, as per the circular transmitted herewith.

6. Requests for increases not allowed by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment and not recommended by the Department of Finance have so far not been listed. I appreciate that the publication of such a list might be of great interest to the taxpayers, and will take up the question of the practicability of making such a list for the purposes of comparison. It would have no practical value outside of that.

7. Many budget estimates distinguish clearly between salary increases for present officials and salary increases "due to requirements growing out of additional employees." For the budget as a whole the two classes of increase have never been summarized, and it is doubtful if it can be done in time for the present budget. There is, of course, under the head of increases a very large item of mandatory increases in the several departments, such as Police, Fire and Board of Education, and in this year especially in the increased salaries and staff of the courts, due to State legislation.

8. The remark attributed to me to the effect that a business-like administration of the city would in twenty-five years make it unnecessary to levy taxes is correct. I said it in an address one evening, and while it can hardly be construed in its literal sense, I meant to imply that if the restrictions which hamper officials in general were removed, and the city were allowed to carry on its business as a private individual would, it would be possible, in the first instance, to avoid duplication of work and to abolish from a quarter to a third of the present departmental offices of the city; and even then, by increasing the hours to those of the most liberal private business, another ten per cent. cut could be made. On purchasing contracts large amounts could also be saved if an adequate system could be installed for taking advantage of commercial discounts and guaranteeing prompt payments to contractors and merchants.

A central purchasing bureau would aid materially. Under the present methods of checking and rechecking, inspecting and re-inspecting, examining and reexamining, passing and repassing of vouchers and warrants, doubtless in many cases entirely due to technicalities, delays and hardships are entailed, which disgust the average contractor or merchant who is not used to the city's methods of doing business, and therefore refrains from bidding.

The laws and requirements which the city is forced to comply with in acquiring real estate also entail a tremendous unnecessary expense upon the city, which could be saved if it were assumed that an official or officials entrusted with the purchase of property were honest and could acquire it in the same way as corporations and private individuals do, by going into the open market and purchasing it before the whole world knew it was to be be acquired for city purposes.

The interest account could be cut to the extent of millions of dollars annually if the city, like any sane individual, collected its money before it spent it. The expense at this time appears to be greater in proportion to the city's assets, owing to the tremendous improvements now going on and which must continue for some time in anticipation of the tremendous increase of population which the city will have and which in the course of twenty-five years will largely have been completed; there will then be very little except repair and maintenance to be provided for.

To offset the budget expenses we will have the incomes derived from the franchises, when question of taxes, etc., now pending are definitely settled, on existing and future transportation lines; the increased revenues which the city might obtain from its docks, water rents, parks, and other privileges, and which I am making every effort to increase as quickly as we can find discrepancies, will yield sufficient surplus to the General and Sinking Funds, which can be applied to the reduction of taxation, as to further reduce the amount of taxes to be raised for budget purposes very materially, and possibly wipe them out entirely.

To accomplish this, however, the first requisite is to modify the Charter by giving the local bodies the greatest possible latitude in its departmental affairs, and appreciation on the part of the taxpayers that constant shifting of officials does not increase efficiency and that what the city needs above all other things is a definite plan of improvement on large lines to cover the city as a whole, instead of the present patchwork system of bolstering up one section as against another and doing things one year only to be undone or redone the next. The nearer we can come to treating the city as one proposition and wipe out borough lines, the sooner this will be accomplished. Yours truly,

H. A. METZ, Comptroller.

Delancey Street Assessment to Be Eliminated.

The city will pay the whole cost of the Delancey street widening. The assurance was given by Comptroller Metz after a hearing on Tuesday, relative to the proposition to eliminate the assessment for the widening of Delancey st. There was a large attendance of property owners represented by I. T. Flatto, Michael J. Mulqueen, Edward Kaufman and Joseph Mulqueen. The attorneys declared that this section of the city had been discriminated against, while other bridge approaches were paid for by the city at large. Comptroller Metz assured his hearers that he would grant the relief desired, and asked for a short period to think the matter over before he would report back to the Board. (See Record and Guide of August 31.)

Opening Hillside Avenue.

A hearing will be given on November 8 by the Board of Estimate in regard to acquiring title to Hillside av, from Nagle av near Broadway to Nagle av near Dyckman st, Borough of Manhattan. Resolution of the Local Board of the Washington Heights District. The engineer reports that this resolution affects the whole length of Hillside av, or two long blocks. The street has a width of 50 ft. It is not in use at the present time, but two buildings have been erected upon the abutting property, one being the power house of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company. Favorable action is recommended, the whole cost to be against the property benefited, and the district of assessment to be decided after the hearing.

New Colors in Wall Papers.

In wall paper the tendency seems to be away from the strong and rich reds, and popular fancy rather inclines toward greens, browns and warm grays or pearl tones, with the ever popular floral and cretonne papers on white or light backgrounds, the favorites for bedroom decoration. The Delft blue colorings that were so popular only a few years ago are scarcely seen at all.

Elevated Walks.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

OVERCROWDED CONDITIONS in lower Broadway, between Ann and Wall sts, during business hours, and particularly between the hours of twelve and two and five and six P. M., are becoming acute, and during the summer months quite intolerable. What will be the condition in the section above and in the vicinity of Cortlandt st and Broadway, particularly when the City Investing Building, with its 14,000 humans, is completed, and the Singer tower, with its 5,000 as well, is emptying its contents into the present overcrowded streets?

To the writer's mind there is but one solution of the problem, and that should be considered and taken up by the city authorities at once. It is the necessity for AN OVERHEAD OR ELEVATED SIDEWALK, built from curb to curb, light but strong in construction, 20 feet high, with glass disks which would give sufficient light for the street below, this structure to be used for foot travel.

This would not alone relieve the congestion on the streets but would greatly facilitate vehicular and car travel during the storms of the winter months by protecting the streets from snow. The writer has not given any deep thought or study to the question of the stairways leading to the elevated sidewalk, so as not to be an incumbrance or interference, but it seems that this matter could be readily solved. The stairways should be built at the intersecting streets, and the advisability of a connection with the mezzanine floors of office buildings could be considered.

If there is any fire regulation preventing such a structure, then a narrow foot path on each side of the street right off the curb could be built, one side to be used going up and the other side for foot travel going down. This would leave the centre of the street free. This same elevated walk could be built upon Nassau st, between Spruce and Wall, as well as Cortlandt, between Nassau and West sts, on both of which streets the foot traffic conditions as well are wretched, and must also become worse with the eventual razing of all old buildings and the placing in their stead of the modern office structure. It is here suggested that the Cortlandt st roadway should connect with the Nassau st and the Broadway elevated roadway.

The city should also take up the question of building elevated walks or roadways with an incline walk leading to them at cross streets where the congested traffic centres demand it for foot travel.

Proposed Change of Street Line.

A hearing will be held on November 8 upon the proposition to change the line of Seaman av, between Dyckman st and Academy st, and of Bolton road, between Seaman av and Prescott st, and laying out a new street to extend from Seaman av to Broadway, Borough of Manhattan. Resolution of the Local Board of the Washington Heights District.

Engineer reports (5319) that these changes are made partly for the purpose of securing more favorable street lines for the development of property and partly for the purpose of subdividing a block which would otherwise have objectionable dimensions. The approval of the changes is recommended, after public hearing.

Water Shut Off.

A notice to the Record and Guide from Commissioner O'Brien is to the effect that the 20-inch water main supplying the higher sections of the Borough of Manhattan, south of 63d st, will be shut off at 10 o'clock this (Saturday) morning and remain shut off until Monday so that the water-main on the west side of Broadway, at 62d st, may be lowered. All of the high-pressure district south of 63d st will be affected, particularly that section of the city included in the following limits: Between 34th and 59th sts, from Lexington to 6th av; between 50th and 59th sts, from Madison to 9th av; between 59th and 63d sts, from Central Park West to Amsterdam av, where pressure will be reduced.

Growing Popularity of Elevator Apartments.

A PERSONAL INSPECTION of some of the modern elevator apartments on the West Side cannot fail to impress one with the marvelous changes which have been made in their construction and appointments since they first became popular on Manhattan Island. A few years ago such innovations as inner courts, interior telephone systems, cellar kitchens, wall safes and other kindred conveniences were little thought of. Today not only do the up-to-date apartments contain these very luxuries, but in addition many are fitted up with improvements not to be found in the most expensive private residences on Riverside drive or 5th av. Many of those recently completed contain housekeeping apartments, in addition to the regular suites; others are fitted up with studios which are used principally by artists and professional people.

At 257 West 86th st a 14-sty duplex apartment of the combination class contains 35 apartments, 14 of which are rented for housekeeping purposes. The rents in this building range from $2,750 to $4,000 per annum, although a few small apartments may be had for $1,000. The trim throughout is oak and the decorations are of the high order. Two elevators are installed in the building, one for deliveries. Occupants of the smaller apartments are furnished with maid service, which is included in the rent.

The Lasanno Court at 307-313 West 79th st is another apartment of the higher order. It is situated in a select neighborhood and is convenient to the subway station at Broadway and 79th st. The building is 10 stories in height and of steel skeleton construction. In this instance an artistically designed gateway leads directly to the main entrance hall and reception rooms, which are elaborately furnished. The woodwork of the apartments is finished in white enamel and mahogany. All apartments have southern exposure, and the rooms are large and well lighted. Additional servants' quarters are provided in the basement. Apartments in Lasanno Court comprise six, eight and nine rooms, and many are so arranged as to provide a 14-room suite if desired. The rents range from $1,100 to $2,500.

The Dorilton, at 171 West 71st st, is within the bounds of the most exclusive residential district on the West Side. The building has twelve stories and is built in the style of the modern French Renaissance. The suites are trimmed in hardwood. Beamed ceilings in the dining-rooms and wainscot panelling. The parlors are of mahogany and white enamel. A feature of the bath-rooms is the wainscot of French plate mirrors above the tiles. Apartments in this structure comprise five, seven, eight and ten rooms, and the rentals are from $1,500 to $3,600, including electric light and refrigeration.

In the same class may be mentioned such apartments as "Spencer Arms," at the southeast corner of Broadway and 69th st. In this building the style of architecture is modern French Renaissance. The interior arrangement is well planned and contains but three apartments on a floor. Each suite has unusual closet room besides a large foyer reception hall. The building is equipped with two passenger elevators, which are in continuous service. In addition to the usual conveniences, artificially cooled glass-lined refrigerators are supplied and the free use of electric light is permitted at all hours. The apartments are ten, eleven and twelve rooms and the rentals range from $3,000 to $4,500 per annum.

Hearings on the Budget.

The following dates have been fixed by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment for hearings for appropriations for 1908:

Monday, October 7—City Court, Municipal Courts, Courts of Special Sessions, City Magistrates, Supreme Courts, first and second departments, including Appellate Division, Court of General Sessions, Surrogates' Courts and County Courts.

Wednesday, October 9—President Borough of Manhattan, President Borough of Brooklyn, President Borough of Bronx, President Borough of Queens, President Borough of Richmond, Department of Finance, City Chamberlain, Bonded Indebtedness, State Taxes, Rents, Charitable Institutions, Miscellaneous and all other public offices.

These hearings begin at 10.30 A. M., room 16, City Hall, Borough of Manhattan.

One Hundred and Seventy-fourth Street Grade Not to Be Changed.

On the adverse report of Chief Engineer Lewis, the Board of Estimate and Apportionment decided not to change the grade of property in the vicinity of Park av and 174th st. It was proposed to put a highway bridge over the New York and Harlem Railroad tracks. Mr. Lewis suggested that a foot bridge could be constructed over the railroad cut, to connect both sides of 174th st, and should such a petition be presented he would recommend its construction. Mr. Lewis said that a highway bridge at that point would do considerable damage to the property in the immediate neighborhood, and would not be of special value to the property owners or business interests on Park av.

Harlem Property Owners' Association Annual Election.

The members of the Harlem Property Owners' Association held their annual meeting last Friday night at the Twelfth Ward Bank Building, 125th st, near Lexington av. The work of the association during the year, as reviewed by President Korn, included victories of importance to property owners such as obtaining Gov. Hughes' veto to the city marshal's bill, which provided a fixed salary for city marshals, and also the veto on the Municipal Court act which provided an increase in the cost of dispossess proceedings. Both these measures passed the Legislature and received the approval of the Mayor.

The association was also very active in obtaining Mayor McClellan's veto of the so-called licensed engineer's bill. This bill provided that a licensed engineer must be employed in every house that has steam heat. The passage of this bill, in the opinion of President Korn, would have meant practical confiscation of property, in many instances.

There is a test case now pending in the courts to find out the authority of the Fire Marshal to issue orders requiring that dumbwaiter shafts be fireproofed. A victory in this case will mean a saving of thousands of dollars to property owners in the city. Officers were elected for the year as follows:

Dr. Abraham Korn, president, for a third term; Morton H. C. Foster, first vice-president; John T. Martin, second vice-president; C. H. Schildwachter, treasurer, and Edward J. Murray, secretary.

Delegates to the United Real Estate Owners' Association—Dr. Korn, J. L. O'Brien, H. M. Kaplan, Mortimer Foerster, Dr. John T. Nagle, John Rosenzweig, Maurice Goldberg and Ralph Holzman.

Directors—Dr. Korn, John T. Nagle, Ira J. Ettinger, J. L. O'Brien, M. H. C. Foster, James Martin, M. Goldberg, E. J. Murray, C. H. Schildwachter, John Rosenzweig and Ralph Holzman.

Are All the Facts Stated?

Editor Record and Guide:

A, the owner of a certain piece of property, authorizes B, who is agent for said property, to offer it for sale, and advises B to offer said parcel to another broker, C. B goes to the office of C and calls his attention to the property and subsequently gives full information, detailed rents, etc., as per request of C. But C is unable to do anything in the sale of the property at that time. About ten months later, however, the owner, A, meets the broker, C, whom he also knows, on the street, and after conversing he brings up the matter of his property and again calls the broker, C's, attention to it, with the result that C disposes of the parcel, in trade. The deal was made without the broker, B, knowing anything about it, although the owner, A, and the broker, C, knew the property had been offered by B to C. Is the broker, B, entitled to a share of the commission?

Answer.—It would seem that in common fairness B should receive some "recognition," but we can hardly decide as a question of law what depends so much on the original understanding and its continuity. We scarcely understand the law to be, or even the custom of brokers, that a broker who once "sub-lets" a contract to sell, continues ever thereafter to hold a mortgage on what the other broker may do with the owner direct in the lapse of time with respect to that property.

When a Tenant Breaks Down.

Editor Record and Guide:

A real estate agent rents a floor for an owner for one year and receives a commission based on the total rent for one year. After the tenant has occupied the floor for three months he finds that he cannot pay the rent, and, rather than lose him as a tenant, the owner agrees to let him have a part of a floor in the same building for a greatly reduced figure. After the first loft had been vacant for four or five months the agent again rented it to another party. Has the agent a right to collect a second commission for renting this floor, all of the foregoing having taken place within the year for which he rented the original floor?

Answer.—The broker is not responsible usually for the tenant after the landlord has passed on him and accepted him, and if the premises are again vacant and in the hands of the broker for renting, we see no reason why he should not be entitled to a commission again on the new renting. If, however, the landlord left the selection of tenant entirely to the broker's judgment, and the tenant broke down, it would become a question of great delicacy for the broker, as to claiming a second commission within the original term.

—A large room with a wainscot made up of low book shelves, the broad top of which serves as a resting place for bronzes, odd bits of pottery, quaint Indian relics, bits of curious carvings in ivory and teakwood—this is the library in a country house not far from New York. Above the bookcases the wall is hung with a gray green grass cloth, surmounted by a quaint English frieze, having tall poplar trees repeated at regular intervals, while between them may be seen the arches of a bridge, beyond which are the sails of boats and distant hills.

The Fourth Avenue (Brooklyn) Subway.

By the favorable vote of the Public Service Commission, which now makes the building of the Fourth Avenue Subway a certainty, it is estimated that at least $100,000,000 has already been added to the wealth of South Brooklyn and the Bay Ridge sections. The news was received with great satisfaction by the large realty interests throughout the territory to be traversed.

The fate of the Fourth Avenue Subway has for so long a period remained in the balance that most people had about abandoned hope. The construction of the subway is an assurance of the rapid upbuilding of the sections lying in the direction of Homewood, Fort Hamilton and Bensonhurst, and will be the means of the making of many fortunes in real estate investments along its route.

Those speculators and investors who have had the courage of their convictions and bought vacant land while prices may be said to have been low will be rewarded for their foresight. The route as laid out by the Rapid Transit Commission commences at the Manhattan bridge, passing under the present Flatbush Avenue Subway to 4th av, thence through 4th av to 40th st, at which point the road will divide, a two-track line running through to Bensonhurst and Coney Island, and another and similar branch continuing along 4th av to Fort Hamilton. From the bridge to 40th st there will be four tracks. Express stations are to be at Pacific st, 36th st, Homewood and 22d av, and on the Fort Hamilton division one is to be at 68th st.

Bids for the construction of the five sections for which the forms of contract have been prepared will be asked for at once. The two Commissioners who voted against the Fort Hamilton-Coney Island Subway through South Brooklyn were Edward M. Bassett and Milo R. Maltbie.

McDONALD LOOP ALSO TAKEN UP BY COMMISSION.

It was Brooklyn's day in the commission. In addition to the 4th av matter, steps were taken looking toward the construction of the Brooklyn portion of the so-called McDonald loop. This is the complement of the Manhattan section, and was laid out by the old Rapid Transit Commission to connect the Williamsburgh and Manhattan bridges through Broadway, Lafayette av and Flatbush av. It will join the 4th av route at Lafayette av and Ashland pl.

The vote on the loop matter was unanimous. The resolution, introduced by Commissioner Bassett, called for a public hearing on the proposed construction to be held on Friday, Oct. 11, at four o'clock in the afternoon.

Value of Dock Property.

In the proceedings brought by the Dock Department to acquire Piers 2 and 3 and the bulkheads between and adjacent, for the New Brooklyn City ferries, the Condemnation Commissioners, Benno Lewinson, Wilbur Larremore and Fred. St. John, have just made to Elbridge T. Gerry and other owners an award of $533,000.

This extract from the decision of the commissioners points to a condition of things in condemnation methods which has frequently been the subject of severe comment, and of which this is a flagrant instance: "The evidence given before us as to the value of the property and rights to be acquired varies between the sum of $826,000, as testified to by Mr. George S. Greene on behalf of the claimants, and the sum of $279,162.99, as testified to by Mr. Herbert C. Plass on behalf of the city

"The difference between these estimates equals to very nearly double the amount of the lesser figure; and any comment on such a discrepancy would seem wasted. It is no reflection upon the integrity or experience of these respective witnesses to point out that such evidence can be of no assistance whatever to commissioners to help them to determine values in making their estimate."

Common Sense in Building.

One of the chief faults in many buildings is a lack of proper ventilation. In many cases the fault is unjustifiable, and savors of plain stupidity. It looks as if some buildings were planned in midwinter, when icy winds make one completely forget the discomforts of a summer afternoon. We often see large buildings with plate glass windows that cannot be opened, making that portion of the building almost unbearable in hot weather. The fault is usually due to some effort at exterior effect. While no one will deny the need of artistic exteriors, all will agree that utility should go hand in hand with beauty in the construction of a building.

Other notable faults in building are those caused by greed, where convenience, utility and common sense are sacrificed to rental area; those caused by poor taste, which fill the world with unpleasing specimens of mongrel architecture; those caused by stupidity, such as narrow doors and awkward stairways; and those caused by stinginess, such as inadequate spaces. On every hand the need of common sense is very great.

These defective houses are rented when others are not obtainable, or when the owner has made concessions to obtain tenants. It is not so easy to keep them well occupied as if they were well planned. Sins of building eventually bring their own penalties.

Contemplated Improvements for Throggs Neck.

Residents of the eastern Bronx are interested in the proposition to open up the Throggs Neck section in accordance with the plan recently approved by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. The section east of the Eastern Boulevard and south of Layton av, between the Sound shore and Fort Schuyler road, will be included in the scheme for development. A large tract in that territory is owned by a syndicate which, it is understood, has announced its purpose to spend considerable money in opening streets in the old estates lately purchased and preparing the land for villa sites. One of the most important improvements for that territory now pending before the local Improvement Board of the Bronx is the proposition to construct a 150-foot boulevard from the junction of Old Town Dock road and the Eastern Boulevard to the Sound. This highway, together with the extension of Tremont av, will constitute the chief boulevards for the Throggs Neck district. It is the purpose of the development company to open up 60-foot streets to connect with the main avenues.

Nine Thousand a Year.

The O'Neil-Adams Company has received permission to build a tunnel under 25th st to connect the buildings of the company, which are on opposite sides of the street. Besides the cost of construction, the company will have to pay a tax exceeding $9,000 a year.

The tunnel is to be 31 ft. wide and about 11 ft. high, outside dimensions, with the top of its roof approximately 6 ft. below the surface of the street. It is to be used as a general passageway between the said buildings and for the display of merchandise.

The total area of the proposed tunnel between building lines is 1,860 sq. ft., and the average assessed valuation of the two properties owned by the petitioner is $41.34 per sq. ft. The basis of compensation adopted by the Board in similar cases is 12 per cent. of the assessed valuation of the plan area of the tunnel per annum, for the first term of five years, with a 5 per cent. increase for each succeeding term of five years.

Putnam Trains in Subway.

It is reported on fairly good authority that the Interborough Railway Company and the New York Central have come to an understanding whereby trains on the Yonkers branch of the Putnam road will run directly into the subway, after the latter road has been constructed as far as Van Cortlandt Park and a spur built to connect the two roads. Yonkers people will then be able to ride directly to downtown New York for a fare of ten cents, without change of cars. In practice, it will rather be subway trains running to Yonkers over the Putnam branch.

All the probabilities favor this move, as soon as the Central can get around to electrifying the Putnam Railroad at least from Van Cortlandt Park to Yonkers. A prominent engineer says that such change of equipment need take but a short time. The company has already considered plans for the elimination of the grade crossing at Undercliff st.

Successful Heating by Hot Air Furnace.

IN CONSIDERING the heating of a modern building by means of a hot air furnace, the first and most important consideration will be the location of the furnace itself, and of the registers. Air, like water, will always flow in the direction of least resistance; therefore, it naturally follows that in placing registers in a room great care should be taken to favor that location where the least resistance will be met with from the incoming flow of air. As cold air is denser and heavier than warm, it follows that the proper location for a register in a room should be the warmest place in that room, i. e., on that side farthest from outside influences. Having first located the registers, place the furnace, keeping three facts in mind. First, remember that the greater the elevation of a warm pipe the more rapid the flow of air; second, that the air will flow more rapidly toward the point of least resistance; third, that the velocity of the air is dependent on the height of the outlet above the furnace and on the amount of frictional resistance in the pipe; in other words, on the length of the run and the pressure resistance in the room in which the register is placed. Therefore rooms having the greatest exposure in the direction of the prevailing winds, on the first floor, naturally should be nearest to the furnace and should have a larger pipe and register. Rooms which are remote from the furnace, necessitating a long horizontal run of pipe, should have larger pipes. Aim to minimize the frictional resistance in all pipes by avoiding all square turns or abrupt angles. Insist on having at least one inch rise to the running foot of pipe from the furnace to the register. Long runs of pipe, especially when going through cold rooms, should be wrapped with asbestos paper; pipes going through stone or brick walls should have thimbles one inch larger diameter than the pipe. In the adjustment of the pipe work, bear in mind that the pressure of the air is equal on all pipes at the furnace. If, therefore, some of the pipes do not flow as freely as others, the cause of that trouble may be looked for either in the frictional resistance in the pipes, pressure resistance in the rooms into which these pipes lead, or on the pressure of an adjacent pipe, having the advantage of elevation, and taking more than its proportion of the heated air. Should the trouble be caused by frictional resistance, look for obstacles to the free and natural flow of air, such as abrupt angles, etc., and remove them. If this does not furnish the remedy, then increase the size of the pipe. If the trouble is caused by pressure resistance in the room itself, this resistance is caused by air pressure in the room, and some outlet must be provided before satisfactory results can be obtained. A very satisfactory solution to this difficulty can be had by cutting an opening in the base-board of an inside partition between two studs, and utilizing the space between two studs and plaster walls for the vent duct. The plates on top of the studs must be cut, and the duct be unobstructed to the attic. Generally speaking, the air will find its way out of the attic, but in case it does not do so, an opening can be made in some unused chimney, or some other means employed to overcome the difficulty. When inside air is used all doors must be left open and chimneys or fireplaces closed.

Return of the Tile Roof.

Tile, when properly formed, baked and laid on any structure rightly designed to carry it, is the most beautiful roof covering yet devised, but when not properly formed, baked and laid, or laid on buildings for which it is not rightly intended, tile may be not only the ugliest, but the least serviceable of coverings.

Four hundred and thirty years ago it was provided by law in England that for the making of tiles "clay should be dug before November, and be stirred and turned before March," and today the very old tile is considered much better than the new. The same care is not usually taken in turning out the commercial tile in use at the present time. A good, hard-burned tile lasts indefinitely; a thing of beauty, it comes very near being a joy forever; it is delightful in color, charming in form, and useful in service. A poor tile has little to recommend it. The hard-burned tile is, comparatively speaking, impervious to moisture, while those half-baked, out of poor clay, not only absorb moisture, but in a damp climate grow a luxuriant crop of vegetation, which may be very picturesque on outbuildings where dryness is not a prime essential, but not altogether desirable on a dwelling.

The Mission fathers no doubt followed the ancient custom of kneading or working the clay in pits under the hoofs of animals, then giving it time to ferment properly. The tiles were probably made by spreading the right quantity of clay on a board or flat surface, patting it to a cake of the right thickness and size, then deftly flopping it over a half-round piece of board which was first well sanded so the clay would not adhere. The clay was pressed and shaped to the form by hand, trimmed about the edges, dried in the sun, and fired more or less perfectly in small kilns. The pressure of the hand gave the tile a consistency and a surface which machine-made tiles lacked. The latter are more or less porous.

The quality of the tile differed with the clay of different localities, and with the care and skill of the makers. Some are soft and very irregular, others are comparatively hard and true. Throughout the Southwest a great variety of clay is found, from the sticky adobe, which is little more than a tenacious mud in places, to fine potter's clay. The Mission builders took their clay as they found it and made the best of it. Transportation was too difficult in those days for them to seek and develop the finer deposits.

Color and Pattern in Rugs.

A FANCY for Oriental rugs has grown into a passion. Department stores, carpet stores and special shops are selling them, and a number of auction rooms are carried on by Armenians in New York. Mr. Calvin Richards, writing in the House Beautiful, advises against strong medallion effects and to choose fields that are intricate with florals, or are in much-grayed tones of solid color. Over-bold effects in borders should also be avoided.

The first law of color is to shun violent contrasts. If the color relation between the different parts of a room be handled as skillfully as in Oriental rugs, few of the American Nineteenth Century interiors will ever be repeated. In Louis XV. and Louis XVI. rooms the delicate colors of those periods should be found in the rugs that will consequently come from Tabriz or from Kerman. For the Louis XV. period the more intricate and elaborate florals should be chosen; for the Louis XVI. period simpler effects in leaf and flower.

The colorings of late Louis XV. and of Louis XVI. are also those of the late Georgian period, where Sheraton and Hepplewhite framed delicate but durable furniture out of light colored woods, among them light mahogany. The mahogany used by Chippendale was much darker, as were the reds and greens used in upholstery and rugs. Consequently for Early Georgian interiors, many of the Gorevans, Sultanabads, and Turkish rugs in massive patterns are admirable.

As we go back to the age of oak and towards the Gothic, blues take the place of greens, and blues in rugs should be sought. Grounds should not be too thickly sown with Kerman florals and animals; or the rugs should be specially woven in designs taken from the grounds of old Gothic tapestries.

It is by no means necessary to travel round the world and visit all the museums in order to become acquainted with the world's famous rugs, Mr. Richards says. In the past fifteen years most of these have been reproduced on a large scale in color at the Imperial Press in Vienna, and these printed reproductions are used as color models in the important schools of design. The details are given so accurately that faithful copies can be woven from them in the Orient. It takes time and money to have this done, but the result is a work of art that commands universal respect and admiration—and that endures.

The Decorator and the Owner.

Formerly the decorator, or painter, merely had to deal with colors and paints, and use them to best advantage. Nowadays a decorator is compelled to have knowledge of the several branches, in rugs, furnishings and draperies, their adaptation, selection and utility, yes, even the building trades, as plastering, advising for rough or smooth plaster surface, relief and stucco work, carpenter or cabinet work, judging of construction, advising treatment, be it either for a fine, dainty chamber with a tinted ceiling and linen crash side walls and white enameled woodwork, or a heavy, solid display in a beamed ceiling and massive woodwork and wainscoting, where the wall space is the smallest part, and a material as burlap, leather or Japanese paper may be well applied. He must make himself familiar with all these things in order to carry out his schemes and effects that he may desire to put in the respective rooms of a modern house.
